Roosevelt Blisters Congress' Waste

TELLS LEADERS BONUS BOOST MEANS NEW TAX

Says Action Will Violate Pledges.

50 Million China Loan

Reconstruction Finance corporation, with approval of President Roosevelt, agrees to loan China $50,000,000 to be used in purchasing American wheat and cotton. Money to be repaid over three year period. Based on present prices, China would buy approximately 12,500,000 bushels of wheat and 900,000 bales of cotton. Details on page 6.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt laid down the gage of battle tonight to a rebellious congress.

The President summoned Democratic leaders of the house to the White House, not to plead with them, but to accuse them—those who are threatening his economy program—as violating the principles of the party.

He condemned the action of the senate in trying to limit his authority to cut veterans' pension and compensation payments by a maximum of 25 per cent. He charged that the senate action would cost the taxpayers an extra $170,675,067 in the coming year, and throw the budget out of balance to that extent.

Battle Waxes Hotter.

The battle of President versus congress reached new heights as the executive made the blunt charge that the rebels on Capitol Hill are violating the platform pledge of a 25 per cent reduction in government expenses.

He warned the representatives that the budget must be balanced. He challenged them to raise taxes, to levy new taxes with which to pay the increase in veterans' payments. If the increases stay in, congress must vote taxes to foot the bill, he declared, as he announced that he was ready to stay in Washington all summer if necessary while congress was deciding the issue.

The congressmen had no answer to the President's attack. They declared that the house would approve the senate amendments "overwhelmingly." When Roosevelt demanded to know what additional taxes they would vote to pay the cost, they sat silent.

Mr. Roosevelt left no doubt in the minds of the representatives that he would veto any measure which came to him which raised veterans' payments without providing for taxes to balance the budget.

Refuse to Make Comment.

And near midnight they filed out of the White House, silent, irritable, brushing past the newspaper men. They refused to make any comment on the scathing they had taken. But the president intended the public should know that he had delivered his warning, and details of the meeting were made available through one of his secretaries.

One or two of the 14 house members who attended the conference repeated afterwards, somewhat hopelessly, that the house would support the veterans' pay boosts, and they shook their heads when queried as to the types of taxes they would vote.

The President during the course of his attack on the unruly congressmen —unruly for the first time since the fourth of March — bade them read their own party platform pledge on aid to war veterans.

Reads Section to Them.

Telling them again, as has been told many times on the floors of both houses of congress, that the economy regulations he has laid down would affect only veterans whose disabilities had no connection whatever with war service the President read to them the section of the Democratic platorfm. It states:

"We advocate . . . the fullest measure of justice and generosity for all war veterans who have suffered disabilities or distress caused by or resulting from actual service in time of war and for their dependents."

The President summoned the members of the house because that chamber has yet to vote upon the senate amendments to the bill containing the

Mrs. Roosevelt off to Dallas on Trip West

BULLETIN.

Kansas City, Mo., June 5 (Monday.)—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, departed by air at 2:25 a. m. on a continuation of her flight to the Pacific coast to visit her son Elliott. She planned to breakfast in Dallas, Tex.

Kansas City, Mo., June 4.—(AP)—Delayed by headwinds, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here by plane at 9:31 o'clock [central standard time] tonight on a flight to Los Angeles and retired in a hotel suite for a brief rest prior to her takeoff for Dallas, scheduled for 1 a. m. tomorrow.

Several hundred persons waited patiently for the T. & W. A. regular passenger plane, which was overdue from St. Louis, and burst into cheers as the First Lady of the land alighted.

Apparently fatigued but smiling, the President's wife posed for photographers and accepted introductions of a few persons who sifted through the police lines at the airport. She declined all invitations, saying she planned only to go to the hotel for a brief rest before continuing her journey to Los Angeles, where she plans to visit two days with her son Elliott.

Finds It Pleasant Trip.

"It was a pleasant trip," she said, despite the headwinds that delayed her progress since she left Philadelphia, whence she went by plane from Washington this morning.

Mrs. Roosevelt wore a navy suit of crinkle crêpe and a shoulder corsage. She carried a fat brief case in one hand and a small pigskin Boston bag and a cardboard box tied with string as she left the plane.

All along her route today Mrs. Roosevelt faced cheering throngs, autograph seekers, and photographers.

Speaks to St. Louis Crowd.

At St. Louis a crowd of 4,000 or 5,000 persons turned out and she made a brief address over a loud speaker system.

"I am very pleased," she said, "to have a chance to say hello, good-by, and good luck."

A police escort accompanied her to the downtown hotel, where she was assigned a suite occupied by Queen Marie of Rumania on her visit in this city several years ago.

The plane arrived overdue in St. Louis. It originally was scheduled to reach here at 8:23 p. m. However, the delay both into and past St. Louis was attributed to strong headwinds. Her schedule from here calls for a hop, beginning at 1 a. m. Monday, via United Airlines for Dallas, Tex., with stops for passengers and mail at Wichita, Kas.; Ponca City, Okla.; Oklahoma City, and Fort Worth. At Dallas she plans to have a hasty breakfast and embark on an American Airways plane bound for Tucson, Ariz.

At Tucson Mrs. Roosevelt will meet Elliott Roosevelt and visit a day with her friend, Isabella Greenway, before continuing westward. She is scheduled to return to Newark, N. J., Friday morning.

Everywhere she expressed delight with the flight, the longest ever undertaken by a President's wife.

Gov. White of Ohio welcomed her to Columbus, where she was presented a bouquet by Marjorie Macklin, niece of the airport superintendent. Her glove was ink stained from a fountain pen with which she had been autographing. She lightly dismissed the stains, saying, "It seems a fountain pen leaks more in the air than on the ground."

Indianapolis was the next stop on the journey. She said she had conversed aboard with her fellow passengers and had read. Her knitting bag was in evidence.

MRS. WILLIAM DICK PLANS TRIP TO RENO; SILENT ON DIVORCE

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—One of New York's most prominent social leaders, the wealthy Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor Dick, who married her childhood sweetheart after being widowed by the death of John Jacob Astor in the Titanic disaster, is about to depart for Reno.

Fourteen pieces of luggage, all marked "Riverside hotel, Reno, Nev., had been moved into the spacious lobby of the Dick mansion, 7 East 84th street, when a reporter arrived this afternoon.

Asked whether she was bent on divorcing William K. Dick, Mrs. Dick said she had no statement to make.

Joseph R. Truesdale, her lawyer, asserted he would make no statement concerning possible divorce proceedings, but said the Dicks were living apart. "They are legally separated," he said.

Mrs. Borden in Nevada.

Reno, Nev., June 4.—(AP)—Mrs. John Borden, New York society matron, is establishing residence at a dude ranch in Washoe Valley, 20 miles from Reno, preparatory to commencement of divorce proceedings, it was learned today. Mrs. Borden arrived about two weeks ago and will be eligible to file suit early in July.

Mrs. J. Borden Goes to Reno For Divorce

Mrs. Courtney Letts Borden, former Chicago society woman, well known as a writer, is preparing to sue for a divorce from John Borden, oil operator of Chicago and Muskegon, Mich. She has established a residence at a dude ranch in Washoe valley, 20 miles from Reno, Nev.

Mrs. Borden moved to the Reno region two weeks ago. In another four weeks the six weeks residence requirement will have been satisfied and she will have the right to institute divorce proceedings.

Confirmation of the impending divorce was given last night by Mr. Borden at Muskegon.

Husband Will Not Fight.

"I do not expect to contest any action," he said. "Mrs. Borden went to Reno two weeks ago for the purpose of getting a decree. The charge, I understand, will probably be cruelty. I am not certain just what the procedure will be. Mrs. Borden will be represented by Attorney Ralph Shaw."

The Bordens separated late last winter, Mr. Borden said. However, last February Mrs. Borden, while visiting at the home of Mrs. Robert A. Gardner in Lake Forest, indignantly denied rumors in circulation at that time that she was contemplating a divorce.

"I'd like to know who's spreading such rumors," she said. "They're outrageous and false."

Married Eight Years Ago.

The Bordens were married in 1925, a year after she had divorced Wellesley H. Stillwell. In 1924 also, Mr. Borden was divorced by Mrs. Ellen Waller Borden who recently became the wife of John Alden Carpenter. While in Chicago the Bordens lived at 1450 Astor street. In recent years she has spent considerable time in Europe and at her husband's plantation at Grenada, Miss.

Shortly after the Bordens were married, they went into the Arctic regions on his yacht, the Northern Light. She publicised this in 1928 with a book, "The Cruise of the Northern Light." This year she published another book, "Adventures in a Man's World." Mr. Borden is interested in Michigan oil properties. He has offices at 10 South La Salle street.

NON-STOP FLIGHT TO OSLO; HOPS OFF TO MOSCOW

Arrives After Day of Fears for Safety.

BULLETIN.

OSLO, Norway, June 5 (Monday.)—(AP)—James Mattern, American flier, landed here yesterday after a non-stop flight from New York. He landed at 10:15 a. m. (4:15 a. m., Chicago daylight time), yesterday, on the small island of Jomfruland on the south coast of Norway. He hopped from the island for Oslo at 3 a. m., today (9 p. m. Chicago time, Sunday), and landed in the military aero-drome. After a brief delay, the big red, white, and blue plane which had left Floyd Bennett field in New York at 4:20 a. m., Chicago time, Saturday, flashed away toward Moscow, at 6:40 a. m. Monday (12:40 a. m., Monday, Chicago time). The airline distance between Oslo and New York is 3,672 miles.

The first news of the Airman's landing came from the lighthouse keeper on Little Jomfruland, which means "maiden land." A private airplane was sent there from Oslo. Mattern, who looked very tired said he had nothing to eat and only a little water to drink during the long journey across the Atlantic. He met fogs and storms. He was 300 kilometers off his route when he flew over Scotland.

LONDON, June 5 — [Monday].— London, Paris, Berlin and Moscow were without word of the whereabouts of Jimmie Mattern, 'round the world flyer, early today. Forty-eight hours after he began his solo flight, fears were expressed that the youthful Texan had lost his life in the Atlantic.

There is the vague possibility that Mattern succeeded in crossing the Atlantic and landed in some isolated spot in Ireland or on the continent. Three reports of airplanes, any one of which might have been his, were received yesterday.

Report Hearing Plane's Motor.

Residents from a barren point in western Ireland reported hearing a plane's motor before dawn. They accepted it as the noise of Mattern's ship. A second report from near Cork said that a plane was seen flying in a southwestwardly direction. A third report was a wireless message from the S. S. Hastings. The ship reported a plane overhead near the English channel.

But as the hours passed by officials at the great airports of Croydon, near London, Le Bourget, near Paris, and Tempelhof, near Berlin, gave up hope and ordered the floodlights dimmed. Newspaper men also abandoned their long vigil. Messages from Miscow airport officials said they had received no word of Mattern's whereabouts from any part of Europe.

Hazy Reports of Sightings.

New York, June 4.—(AP)—Jimmie Mattern, who sought to blaze a solo sky trail around the world, failed to reach Paris today, many hours after his fuel supply was believed to have been exhausted.

As darkness deepened over Europe and 39 hours elapsed since the Texan streaked away from here, his friends had only hazy reports of plane sightings in Ireland to weigh against their concern that Mattern had experienced trouble.

Mattern's New York representative, Jack Clark, held firm to an announcement that Paris was Mattern's first objective despite the statement of an Oklahoma City friend that the birdman once had thought of heading for Moscow first without advance notice.

"Even with the most favorable conditions he could not have gone straight on to Moscow," said Clark.

Mattern had hoped to have lunch in Paris today [between 7 and 9 a. m. Chicago time] and a crowd of about 300 awaited him at Le Bourget until nightfall.

Mattern's plane, the Century of Progress, was the same in which he and Bennett Griffin soared to Berlin last year in 39 minutes.

Wife Still Has Hope.

Walla Walla, Wash., June 4.—(AP)—The young and attractive wife of Jimmie Mattern was not very much upset this afternoon when she read press reports that her husband was long overdue in Paris.

"I never give up hope," she said. "I understand there are a lot of bleak places in Ireland and perhaps Jimmie has landed in some spot where communication is difficult or impossible."

70 Mile Gale Hits City; 15 Hurt at Fair

A sudden squall from the west struck Chicago last night, slashed across the city and on through the World's Fair grounds, causing injuries to fifteen visitors there and sending the crowds scurrying for cover. One man was killed and several persons were injured in other parts of the city.

About 60,000 people were on the exposition grounds when the storm broke out of the 85,000 who had entered the Fair during the day.

Heavy property damage was caused by the storm in the city and in some of the suburbs. At the Fair the damage was estimated at nearly $8,000.

The squall brought to an end a day of unseasonable heat, in which the mercury rose to 91 degrees at 4 p. m. for the year's record so far. The beaches were packed, and two persons were drowned.

Squall Breaks 91 Degree Heat.

The squall broke about 9 o'clock, the wind reaching a maximum velocity of seventy miles an hour. A warning was received before the storm broke when the barometer dropped 7-100ths of an inch in a few minutes. This warning enabled coast guards to get to work in sufficient time to direct small lake craft to harbors and to warn others to stay near port. The guards saved ten persons in two lake accidents.

A duststorm preceded the squall, making visibility difficult and sending clouds of dust into homes and offices. A few minutes later the storm broke in earnest. The high winds and torrential rains swept through the western suburbs, across the city, and into the Fair grounds.

Fair Crowds Run for Cover.

The 60,000 Exposition visitors ran in crowds for the nearest shelters. There was confusion, but no panic. Almost at the first gust the squall ripped the crimson banners from the standards along the Avenue of Flags. It blew over a large canvas canopy of the Motor Coach company at Roosevelt road. It smashed windows and doors in some exhibit buildings and concessions. It lashed the lagoon, rocking the thirty motorboats on it.

As soon as the storm hit the grounds, the guards and attendants mobilized and escorted visitors into buildings. All general exhibit structures were thrown open. Virtually all concessions which charge fees opened free gates. Those that didn't were "crashed" unceremoniously.

Five Hurt at Casino.

At the Pabst Blue Ribbon casino five persons were slightly hurt when a bay window blew in, sprinkling them with glass. Gilbert Price, a bus boy, was flung to the floor by the wind while he was carrying a tray of dishes. He was cut by a broken cup. In the Century club on top of the casino several groups were forced downstairs by the rain.

Six persons were injured at the General Motors company building. After receiving first aid at the Exposition Emergency hospital they were taken to the Chicago Memorial hospital. Their names were not divulged.

Among the fifteen persons hurt were Irving R. Green, 4724 Greenwood avenue; Donald Fitzpatrick, 12 West Washington boulevard, Oak Park; Virginia Finnigen, 1034 Rosemont avenue; Mrs. Nellie Chelius, 6801 Clyde avenue; Irving Birmingham, Negro performer at the Showboat, and Mrs. Queta Brenner, 4340 North Winchester avenue. Mrs. Brenner, cut by glass, was the most seriously injured.

When the storm broke nearly 200

ILLINOIS VOTES TODAY ON DRY REPEAL ISSUE

79 Judges Also Will Be Chosen.

VOTE TODAY

POLLS OPEN—6 a. m. to 5 p. m.

WEATHER —Unsettled.

REPEAL—Illinois votes today on the repeal of prohibition. Fifty delegates are to be elected to convention July 10 for ratifying dry repeal.

JUDICIARY—Seventy-nine judges of higher Illinois courts to be elected: Cook county votes for 1 Supreme court justice (7th district), 20 Circuit judges, 2 Superior court judges, 1 judge of Probate. Downstate elects 4 Supreme court justices and 51 Circuit judges in 17 circuits.

SMALL BALLOT—In Chicago a proposition to amend statutory powers of the city treasurer and the city corporation counsel will be submitted to the voters on a separate ballot.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Illinois today votes upon repeal of national prohibition, the ninth state so to act. At the same polls the electors of the state will choose 79 judges of the higher courts, including the entire Circuit bench of the state of 71 members and five of the seven Supreme court justices.

Cook county will vote for one Supreme court justice, twenty Circuit judges, two Superior court judges and one Probate judge. It is the most important Illinois judicial election in decades.

Repealists and organized drys, and workers in the Democratic and Republican parties, both of which are on the side of repeal, concentrated yesterday upon efforts to get out the largest vote possible. Sunday proved a day of unusual activities for a June election, which ordinarily arouses little interest among the electorate.

Work for Church Vote.

Among the church vote both anti-prohibitionists and drys worked assiduously. In political headquarters in the 50 Chicago wards both major parties adjured their precinct workers to leave no stone unturned today. The doorbell ringers were besought to turn out in full force and keep busy rounding up stay at home voters.

In three referendums in the last ten years Illinois has voted against prohibition overwhelmingly, and the political lights see no reason for doubt that the state will vote for repeal today. But the aim is to roll up the largest vote possible, with a view to its effect upon other states. Today's vote in Illinois is held by repealists and drys alike as likely to exert a profound influence upon the voting in Indiana tomorrow and in Iowa on June 20.

Bitter Fight in Indiana.

In Indiana the organized drys have concentrated their forces for a last ditch struggle. That state will not elect its repeal delegates by a statewide vote, as Illinois will do, but is to select them by counties, and for weeks the drys have been putting on a campaign which approaches the frantic. The repealist forces in Indianapolis believe the state will go for repeal in tomorrow's polls. Yesterday they were repeating their warnings against overconfidence among the anti-prohibitionists and were exerting efforts to bring out the vote.

So many folks who are against prohibition, the repealists say, appear to have the idea that since beer arrived the battle to wipe out the 18th amendment is all over. The repealists in both Illinois and Indiana have been emphasizing that the vote on repeal is the one chance to land the final wallop.

Predict 700,000 Vote in County.

In the Cook county Democratic organization final orders from headquarters were that precinct captains would be expected to poll 200 votes in each precinct for the repeal and judicial ticket. With 3,553 precincts in the county, this would mean 710,000 votes.

Estimates at Democratic headquarters were that between 700,000 and a million votes will be cast in the county. For a June judicial election this would be a tremendous poll. In an ordinary June bench campaign, a 20 per cent vote, or about 300,000, is normal.

At the election board, Chief Clerk John S. Rusch estimated a minimum of 750,000 votes. He voiced an expectation that it may run higher.

The ballot on prohibition places before the Illinois voters a clean cut issue on repeal versus anti-repeal.

Fifty delegates are to be elected by statewide vote to the convention to be held at Springfield at noon July 10 to ratify or reject the 21st amendment to the constitution submitted to the states by congress. This amendment would repeal the 18th, or prohibition, amendment.

There are two tickets on the ballot. One ticket of 50 candidates is for ratification, meaning repeal of prohibition; the other ticket of 50 is dry, or anti-ratification. Circles above each ticket enable the voter to register his sentiment by a single cross.

The repeal ticket is composed of Democrats and Republicans from Cook county and downstate, a joint ticket with the view of taking the repeal issue out of partisan politics.

Eight States Already for Repeal.

Eight states in popular elections have already elected repeal delegates. Five of these states have already held their conventions and have ratified the amendment wiping out national prohibition. They are in order: Michigan, which went 99 to 1 for repeal in convention; Wisconsin, 15 to 0; Rhode Island, 31 to 0; Wyoming, 65 to 0; and New Jersey, 220 to 2. It takes 36 states to ratify repeal.

The three referendums in which Illinois has gone against prohibition—better than 2 to 1 in two of them—were held in 1922, 1926, and 1930.

In 1922, in a referendum on light wines and beer, the vote stood: 1,065,242 for and 515,211 against. In 1926 on a question of modification of the Volstead act the vote stood: 840,631 for and 556,592 against. In 1930, in a three question referendum on repeal prompted by the Republican state convention, the vote went 1,060,004 for and 523,130 against.

Following this the state legislature two years ago repealed the state search and seizure and the state prohibition laws, but Gov. Emmerson vetoed the repealer. This session the legislature passed another repeal measure which was signed by Gov. Horner.

Final Appeal for Repeal.

The Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, headed by Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Mrs. William H. Mitchell; Col. Ira L. Reeves of the Crusaders, and other repeal organizations and leaders sent out final messages to their branches in the various counties downstate.

"Illinois," they said, "gets its one opportunity tomorrow to vote on repeal, an opportunity the voters have clamored for during the last 13 years. This is the vital day in the battle against the evils of national prohibition, and the eyes of the nation are on Illinois.

From Democratic headquarters, Patrick A. Nash, party leader, sent out a final word:

"Support President Roosevelt. Repeal the 18th amendment. Elect judicial leaders. Vote the repeal ticket straight. Vote the Democratic judicial ticket straight."

Message from G. O. P. Leader.

A similar message, only vice versa on judicial tickets, was put forth by William H. Weber, Republican county chairman. It said:

"Vote the Republican judicial ticket straight, and destroy the receivership ring."

In their talks to party workers, Democratic managers stressed the economic features of repeal, with emphasis on taxes and federal income. They pointed out that Postmaster General Farley recently remarked in Washington that unless the eighteenth amendment is repealed every income tax payer in the country, after deducting legal exemptions, will have to contribute $6 to $10 to the government out of every $100 he earns.

Further, it was set forth, congress, at the suggestion of the President's director of the budget, Lewis Douglas, has given the President power to wipe out all tax increases now being contemplated as soon as repeal becomes a fact and liquor taxes, which in the year before prohibition brought in 365 million dollars, start pouring into the national treasury again.

Women Make Repeal Plea.

In a final exhortation to get out the vote, the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform said last night:

"A vote for the delegates pledged to vote for ratification of repeal will be a vote for a cleaner nation, a vote to give the states their rights, a vote for temperance, prosperity, lower taxes and a vote against crime and racketeering. We hope no citizen in Illinois will fail in his duty to go to the polls and cast his vote for repeal delegates, doing his part in bringing an end to the prohibition law and its evil results."

Candidates on the opposing judicial tickets put in their final words yesterday. Judge Kickham Scanlan, Republican Circuit judge who is running on the Democratic ticket in company with seven other Republican Circuit judges, and Justice Frederic R. De Young, a Republican, of the Supreme court, said:

"We are now in a Democratic day, with the people standing solidly behind President Roosevelt in his magnificent fight to restore prosperity.

"The Democratic party could have nominated a judicial ticket of Democrats and elected it. But Patrick A. Nash, leader of the Democratic party, thrusting aside the vehement demands of the Democratic partisans, publicly declared for nonpartisanship and for the retention of the sitting judges, regardless of their political faith. Thereafter, the Democratic party nominated all the sitting judges, save one, who desired a renomination.

Hits Republican Leaders.

"When five sitting judges, of whom I was one, refused to run upon a partisan Republican ticket and elected to run on a Democratic nonpartisan ticket, the vacant places thus made on the Republican ticket were filled by candidates who were willing to defeat, if they could, not only the Democratic sitting judges, but the Republican judges who refused to join in a political fight having for its object the defeat of worthy Democratic judges. This action of the Republican party was an instance of partisanship run wild.

"That the sole desire of Mr. Nash was to keep the courts out of politics is evident. Yet this able, worthy citizen has been assailed as if he had performed some unworthy act."

G. O. P. Hopes for Big Vote.

In the Republican camp, which has been groaning because of lack of adequate campaign funds, the chief hope is that the repeal issue will bring out a great vote. If a large poll is rolled up throughout the county, the G. O. P. leaders hold that holes may be smashed in the Democratic fusion slate. Candidates on the Republican ticket who are deemed as most likely to win are Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas, City Judge Craig A. Hood of Chicago Heights, and Municipal Judge Theodore F. Ehler, who ran highest in the bar primaries among the candidates not sitting Circuit judges and who in other elections have proved great vote getters.

Republicans hold that some others may break through the Democratic ticket.

Some of the candidates on the Republican ticket are reported still behind in paying their campaign assessments, a matter for lamentation at headquarters, although it is quite a usual thing, while some of the Republican ward committeemen are helping friends on the Democratic fusion ticket.

The third ticket, the People's Judiciary, was busy yesterday distributing its literature, and it claimed some of its candidates might prove a surprise.

ASSAILS JUDGE SHURTLEFF

Accusations that Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo has reversed a decision of the Illinois Supreme court and the federal courts in a suit over the boulevards and parks of Zion City gave added heat yesterday to Judge Shurtleff's candidacy for reëlection today in the 17th circuit. The charges were in the form of a letter sent by Charles F. Caldwell, trustee of the Zion estate, to Attorney General Otto Kerner. The letter said:

"I am asking you as trustee of the Zion estate to take action to have the Supreme court set aside and expunge from the records Judge Shurtleff's conveyance of the streets, parks, and boulevards of Zion City to Wilbur Glenn Voliva. The conveyance was in contempt of the federal court's decision, where Judge Landis ruled that the receiver could not sell or convey the parks, holding they belonged to the leaseholders and were no part of the estate of John Alexander Dowie or the church.

"For a further reason, the Shurtleff decree is in contempt of the Supreme court's decision in the Stevenson case against John A. Lewis, successor to John Alexander Dowie and trustee of the Zion estate. In this case Stevenson sued to foreclose a mortgage of $25,000 on 75 acres of Shiloh park, given by John Alexander Dowie. The Supreme court held the mortgage void because neither Dr. Dowie nor the church had power to mortgage or sell any of the parks.

"I am writing you this after reading your opinion and your action in the case of James [Fur] Sammons, the public enemy, who was released by Judge Shurtleff, reversing the Supreme court decision and giving the convicted murderer his freedom."

BRITAIN SHIES AT FRENCH DEMAND IN PEACE TREATY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 4.—Final stages leading either to an ultimate agreement or a final breakdown over the Mussolini four power peace pact are of intense interest to Great Britain. The British are concerned over interpretation of article XVI. of the league of nations' covenant dealing with sanctions, a reference to which France demands in the pact on behalf of its allies in eastern Europe.

Under treaties now in force Britain undertakes to guarantee French and Belgian frontiers against German aggression. But not even Chancellor Adolf Hitler hints of German aggression to the west. What he constantly harps on is the Polish corridor separating East Prussia from the rest of Germany.

It was pointed out in London tonight that Britain has not undertaken to guarantee the eastern frontiers of Germany. France is seeking an agreement on the part of Britain that it will at least blockade Germany should Poland's refusal to discuss readjustment of border lines ultimately result in open conflict. At the same time it is stressed here that Britain would not guarantee anything other than assistance should France or Belgium be invaded.

SMALL BALLOT PROPOSITION UP TO CITY VOTERS

Would Redefine Powers of Two Officials.

When Chicago voters go to the polls today in the prohibition repeal and judicial election they will be asked to vote on a referendum amendment to the statutory powers of city officials.

The amendment proposal is contained on a separate small ballot.

The proposition is to amend two sections of the cities and villages act to define more specifically the powers of the city treasurer and the corporation counsel. One amendment would give the city treasurer authority to deposit city funds outside of Chicago. At present the law requires that such deposits must be kept within the city.

The city council had two reasons for submitting this proposal to the voters. The first is that Chicago tax warrants are made payable on presentation either in New York or Chicago, but because the city cannot deposit funds in New York it must ask a Chicago bank to keep funds on deposit there on behalf of the city.

Second Reason for Proposal.

The second reason for submitting the proposal was the dissatisfaction of members of the council with the bids of Chicago banks for city deposits during the present year. The banks offered to pay only one-half of one per cent interest. If the deposits can be sent to other cities, officials believe that competitive bidding may force the interest rate up.

The second amendment under the small ballot proposition affects the coporation counsel's office. It provides that the corporation counsel shall defend a city official or employé who is made a personal defendant in a suit, only when the city council authorizes such defense.

The small ballot proposition requires only a majority of the votes cast on the proposition for approval.

Civil Service Issue in Oak Park.

Residents of Oak Park will ballot today on the proposal to place the police and fire departments of the village under civil service. The cities and villages' act was amended last year to permit villages as well as cities to institute civil service in their police and fire departments. Maywood, River Forest, and Elmwood Park have already acted favorably on the proposal.

In Evanston, in addition to voting on the county judicial and repeal questions, voters will pick two justices of the Evanston Municipal court. The court was started six months ago, and the two judges elected at that time are now running for six year terms. They are Harry H. Porter and Walter W. Ross. Also in the race are James M. Corcoran, William B. Keefe, and C. L. Maltby.

Berwyn will vote on the question of issuing $400,000 of funding bonds. If the proposition is approved, money from the sale of the bonds will be used to pay city employés, election officials and outstanding obligations of the suburb.

News of Accidents at Fair Being Suppressed, Charge

News of accidents at the World's Fair is being suppressed, it was charged yesterday, because of an official connection between the emergency hospital and the Zurich Insurance company, which has underwritten a blanket liability insurance policy covering injuries to all visitors and workmen. The hospital is headed by Dr. Edward Baylor, who told reporters yesterday that he had been instructed by officials to withhold information on injuries. The officials denied this. It was learned that Dr. Baylor is also a surgeon for the insurance company.

ARRESTED AFTER 4 YEAR SEARCH.

New York, June 4.—(AP)—Four years ago Detroit, Mich., police requested the New York police department to be on the lookout for Russell Aldrich, a seaman, wanted in Detroit in connection with a murder. Today Aldrich was found at the Seaman's institute. Word of his arrest as a fugitive was flashed to Michigan City. Detroit police replied that Aldrich had been freed of the charges.

SEXTON HOLDS 3.2 BEER SALE IS LEGAL TODAY

Disagrees with Election Opinion of Assistant.

Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton yesterday gave an opinion that the sale of 3.2 beer today while the polls are open will be legal, notwithstanding a contrary opinion offered the day before by his first assistant, Leon Hornstein.

Mayor Kelly and Sheriff Meyering had declared they would ignore Hornstein's opinion on the ground that policemen and deputy sheriffs were needed for the work of guarding the polls instead of closing all cafés, drug stores, ice cream parlors, and department stores where beer is sold.

Mr. Hornstein's opinion was given at the request of Ald. John A. Massen [48th] while Mr. Sexton was in Springfield, where he has been all week. The Hornstein opinion was to the effect that the legislature had forgotten to repeal the old section of the election laws requiring saloons to close on election days.

Under this law policemen were required to visit every saloon on their beats the night before an election and inform the proprietors that the places must be closed next day.

Mr. Sexton, who returned to Chicago from Springfield on Saturday night, said yesterday:

"I haven't spoken to the mayor nor do I have his view on the subject. My own view of the law is that Mr. Hornstein was correct in most of his opinion but not in the assumption that the old law applies to the 3.2 beer now legalized by congress and by the state. The old law was directed at intoxicating beverages and not at nonintoxicating beverages.

"In my opinion, therefore, it would be contrary to the intention of congress and of our legislature, and of the city council, to interfere with the sale of lawful beer during the election."

Seek to Identify HitchHiker Killed by Auto in Troy, Ill.

Dr. W. W. Billings, coroner of Madison county, Illinois, is trying to identify a man about 50 years old who was killed by an automobile Friday at Troy. The victim was hitch hiking to Chicago from Kansas City, Mo. He was 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighed about 185 pounds. He had a mole on the right upper eye lid.

WETS AND DRYS WORK FOR BIG INDIANA VOTE

Indianapolis, Ind., June 4.—(AP)—Still hopeful the voters may be aroused from their lethargy, the wets and drys today made plans to carry through their efforts to get the electorate to the polls Tuesday to ballot at the special election.

The voters will elect 320 delegates, who will assemble here June 26 to register formally the Hoosier state's stand on the 21st amendment, providing for repeal of the 18th amendment.

From many pulpits throughout the state this morning voters were urged to cast their ballots.

The drys will bring their local campaign to a close tomorrow night with another massmeeting at which Earl Crawford of Milton, Democratic speaker of the Indiana house of representatives, will deliver the principal address.

William Stokes, executive secretary of the United Repeal council, expressed confidence that Indiana would be added to the list of states favoring ratification of the 21st amendment. He said he expected only a light vote, but that if the voters did turn out in large numbers it would be a repeal landslide.

As an indication of the wet sentiment, Stokes pointed out that in Marion county, of which Indianapolis is the county seat, wet delegates to the convention obtained 62,000 names on their petitions, while drys mustered only 15,000.

Swear In New Grand Jury Today Despite Election

Contrary to precedent, the grand jury will be impaneled and sworn today, election day, by Chief Justice John Prystalski. Judge Prystalski, who is a candidate for reëlection, declined to comment on rumors that special instructions would be given to the new grand jury. There will be no other election day activities in the Criminal Courts building.

16,000 VISITORS AN HOUR PASS GATES AT FAIR

Clear Skies During Day Help Draw Crowd.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Sunny skies and genuine summer weather brought a holiday crowd jamming through the gates of A Century of Progress exposition yesterday, which officials of the Fair estimated would pass the 100,000 mark in paid admissions before the gates were closed for the day.

Visitors were pouring into the grounds at the rate of 16,000 an hour during the afternoon. At 9 p. m. 84,019 visitors had passed through the turnstiles, but shortly after a severe squall and rainstorm swept the grounds, ending all possibility of a new attendance record being established.

Despite the storm, visitors continued to pass through the gates and by 11 p. m. 85,315 paid admissions had been recorded for the day. On this basis officials announced that total attendance for the first nine days of the present Fair had reached 651,527, approximately a 165 per cent increase over the same period at the Columbian exposition of 1893.

Crowds Come Early.

The balmy weather brought the throngs of Sunday visitors in early. Family groups predominated, with children eagerly leading their parents to the delights of the Enchanted island and the Midway. The renters of gondolas, rickshaws, and wheel chairs did their biggest day's business to date.

The proportion of out of town visitors yesterday presaged the trek to Chicago which is expected as soon as summer gets under way in earnest. Highway police reported an unusually large number of cars from other states headed in the direction of the Fair.

Drug stores on the grounds reported that hundreds of visitors came in asking for sunburn lotion, and gaily colored umbrellas presented a swimming sea of color, to testify to the warmth of the summer sun. Light tropical seersuckers and linens were predominant among the men. Cooling breezes from the lagoon, however, kept the crowd in a joyous holiday mood.

Gondolas Are Popular.

The motor gondolas on the lagoon were one of the most popular features yesterday. Hundreds of youths toured the lagoons, singing college songs and strumming ukeleles, to the vast amusement of visitors strolling the board walk.

To make it easier to see the Fair, both for children and adults, officials yesterday announced additional service by the Junior Fair Tours from the headquarters on Enchanted island. Tours are now provided for the entire Fair Grounds in addition to those already being made through the children's playground on the island.

The tours are designed to present the Fair in such a way that children will understand and enjoy it. The tours are an outgrowth of the "park your children idea" sponsored by the Fair, and is intended to keep the children amused while the parents are seeing exhibits that interest them. The average group tour is planned for thirty children, and is under the direction of guides recruited from kindergarten colleges and universities.

Plan to Test Midgets.

A psychological test of the midgets in midget village will open this morning under the direction of Prof. Paul A. Witty, head of the psycho-educational department of Northwestern university. The study will embrace the intelligence, capability, and interest of the midgets, using standard tests as gauges. The psychologists are particularly interested in three children, two born of midget parents, and one born of a midget mother and a normal father.

Today will be Kentucky day at the Fair. No official program has been announced, but the Kentucky exhibit in the semi-circular Court of States is now open and will be ready for visitors. The cultural and industrial history of the Blue Grass state is depicted in the interior.

Tomorrow will be electrical day, in honor of the four day convention of the electrical industry. Special programs will be presented in all the electrical exhibits, showing feats of magic, presenting musical entertainment, and illustrating the development of culture and industry under the guidance of electricity during the last decade.

Illustrative of the attractions of electrical day is the dishwashing exhibit, and the cleaning of cooking and eating utensils. A girl in modern garb, standing over a dishpan, swishing dirty dishes in a soapy solution, is shown in a life size illustration. Adjacent is another modern girl, letting an electric washer do the work.

Plan Insurance Exhibit.

The other feature attraction of tomorrow's program will be the opening of the institute of life insurance in the social science hall. The exhibit is an illuminated, three dimensional portrayal of the complete activities of an average community. The part that insurance plays is depicted in dioramas and marionettes. As the figures move a talking record explains the action.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Automobile license plates from all over the country are seen in the parking lots around the Fair grounds. Out of town visitors in increasing numbers are arriving daily.

The submarine S-49, stationed in the lagoon, was opened to the public yesterday morning.

The anniversary of the victory at Chateau Thierry was observed yesterday by world war veterans, nurses, and U. S. marines at the building on the Midway housing the Pantheon, huge world war painting. Officials of the American Legion presided at the ceremony.

Photostatic copies of the front page of THE TRIBUNE of July 5, 1863, containing the news accounts of the battle of Gettysburg in the civil war are on display in the Battle of Gettysburg building on the Midway.

The giant waterfall which spills its water musically among rocks and tall trees brought from the north woods is attracting many visitors in the Michigan exhibit, which opened Friday. Large dioramas nearby depict hunting and fishing scenes. Others show Michigan's industries.

Upright citizens are getting a thrill out of being finger printed at the Bureau of Investigation's exhibit in the Federal building. A large chart shows the various types of fingerprints, the whorl, arch, ulnar, and other features. Each morning a wire from Washington gives the latest figures on the number of criminal fingerprints received, the total yesterday being 3,739,589.

A large animated exhibit of the Department of Health in the Federal building which apparently fascinated visitors was entitled "Transmission of Malaria." A vicious looking mosquito flew around the scene, first stopping to bite a malaria victim, then buzzing over a peaceful cotton plantation and halting to bite a well man. The public was informed that the well man might soon have malaria.

During the hottest part of the day a group of women sat before the 30 by 12 foot diorama of Mount Rainier in the National Parks exhibit in the Federal building and watched a snowfall. The falling snow is a light illusion, as is the cloud effect, but the glacier on the mountainside is the product of refrigeration.

A mural in colors, exhibit of the United States Office of Education, shows the school rooms of yesterday, today, and the future. That of yesterday is labeled "Three R.'s Only." Today's bears the descriptions, "30 Million in School" and "None Too Old or Too Young to Learn." That of tomorrow shows the school, a skyscraper called "Theater, Library, School, Civic, and Sport Center." As part of the Marine corps exhibit in the Federal building a series of large paintings, executed by Capolino, a marine, show historic victories of the marines. One is the victory of Lake Erie in the war of 1812. All the flags used by marines, including the first, a red flag with a green pine tree on a white field in one corner, used by the Massachusetts navy and the Washington cruisers in 1775, before the 13 star flag was initiated, are on exhibit.

Starting next Friday night one may see motion pictures made in a Californian environment, and shown in the full sized theater four days later, at the Hollywood village. According to Harry Beatty, managing director of the village, Hollywood will be a complete portrayal of a motion picture colony.

Among pictures, models, and writings, in the Edison Memorial exhibit, can be found the original phonograph invented by the late Thomas A. Edison. It is still in perfect working condition.

The flag ship of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company, S. S. Greater Detroit, will arrive this morning, bringing a large party of Buffalo, Cleveland, and Detroit residents for a two day visit to the Fair.

Scandinavia will celebrate its day at the Fair on June 22, it was announced yesterday. Americans of Swedish, Norwegian, Danish, and Finnish birth will gather at 3 p. m. in Soldier field for a program of speeches, sport events, drills, and choral singing. It is expected that more than a hundred thousand persons will take part in the pageant.

70 MILE GALE SWEEPS CITY; 15 INJURED AT FAIR

Violent Squall Rips Up Trees and Roofs.

persons were in the observation towers of the Sky Ride, 628 feet above ground. The tower swayed nearly 9 inches each way, as it was intended to do by the construction engineers. Several women became excited but Guards Harold Barkstrom, Ben Waldron, and James Rose allayed their fears. The visitors in the open observatory were escorted to the lower, glass enclosed observatory to escape the rain.

The towers probably were the safest place on the Fair grounds because of the safety factor which allows for a 150 mile an hour wind, engineers said.

Outside the Fair grounds chief damage was done to electric wiring, windows, and trees, and also to some houses. Trees were uprooted all over the city and in several suburbs. In Evanston twenty trees were felled. In Highland Park electric service was disrupted 30 minutes. Oak Park streets were impeded by fallen trees.

Youth Killed in Auto.

The man killed was Albert Linnerall, 19 years old, 7128 South Washtenaw avenue. He was fatally injured when his automobile was struck by a section of roof torn from the building of the Chicago Tube and Iron works, 2531 West 48th street. He was taken to Holy Cross hospital, where he died a short time later.

The fallen live wires constituted a real peril in many sections, but were quickly repaired. One casualty was reported wehn Frank Griffin, 17 years old, ran into a live wire in front of his home at 4153 Arthington street, burning his right hand.

Clarence Porter, 3125 North Moody avenue, a watchman, escaped possible death in a roof cave-in of the one story brick building of the Universal Car Loading and Distributing company at Clark street and Roosevelt road. The building is two blocks long. The terrific wind hit it squarely, smashing in 120 feet of the roof. Porter crawled out of the débris as firemen were searching for his body.

Ten Saved from Lake.

On the lake, Chief Boatswain Carl Howell and a crew from the Central coast guard station at the mouth of the river saved Edward O'Shaughnessy, 2652 Coyle avenue, and W. P. Boyson, 2209 Arthur avenue, who were clinging to the bottom of their overturned sailboat two miles off Fullerton avenue.

Later Capt. John Anderson of the Central coast guard rescued a party of three women and five men from the Nip and Tuck, a large sailboat, which was being hammered against the breakwater near Randolph street. The boat is owned by M. J. Halloway, 2302 Asbury avenue, Evanston, a candy manufacturer. He was not aboard.

One airplane landed safely at the Chicago airport during the storm. The storm was not so severe there, however. Because of barometric warnings, the weather bureau at the airport had sent out warnings to three incoming ships to "slow down and wait out the storm."

Two Lose Lives in Water.

The two persons drowned before the storm occurred were an unidentified youth about 18 years old, and an unidentified young man about 22. The youth was seen to disappear in Lake Michigan a quarter of a mile off Wellington avenue. His clothes were found on shore. The only clew to his identity was a belt buckle bearing the initial B. The other victim lost his life in a pool in Calumet park.

C. A. Donnel, weather forecaster, said the storm resulted from the junction of a low pressure area from the northwest and a high pressure area—the heat wave—from the southwest. He predicted more warm weather for today with cooler temperatures tomorrow.

RECOVER DROWNED BOY'S BODY.

The body of Arthur Cohs, 12 years old, 11054 Lowe avenue, who was drowned Saturday while swimming in a water filled clay hole at 123d street and Kedzie avenue, was recovered yesterday by the state highway police.

Maj. Maas Arrives to Address Reserve Officers

In a plane accompanied by an escort of army aircraft, Maj. Melvin J. Maas of the United States Marine corps reserve, who is a former congressman from Minnesota, arrived yesterday at the Municipal airport from Washington to attend the national convention of the Reserve Officers' association which opens today at the Stevens hotel. He will address the convention this morning on national defense, Mayor Kelly and Congressman McSwain will address the reserve officers at a banquet in the hotel this evening.

RADICAL CHANGE IN FAIR TRAFFIC PLAN PROPOSED

Find Present Facilities Cause Congestion.

BY HAL FOUST.

Radical changes in vehicular traffic arrangements at A Century of Progress are expected to be proposed this week to Mayor Kelly as president of the south park board by the World's Fair administration.

Ald. John A. Massen, chairman of the Fair coördination committee, and Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer, rode through last night's congested traffic in THE TRIBUNE roadster. They pronounced the present facilities inefficient and inadequate. The alderman announced that he would call a meeting of his Fair committee this week to renew recommendations for a traffic system that was previously rejected by the south park commissioners in favor of their own plan.

Tells of Rejected Plan.

Jogging north in Columbus drive in a jam approaching Roosevelt road, Ald. Massen told of the rejected plans prepared by the leading traffic engineers in the city, Dr. Miller McClintock of the Harvard university traffic research bureau, Mr. Sorenson, George Barton of the Chicago Motor club, and staff engineers of the bus, taxicab, elevated, and street car companies.

"Our plan," said Ald. Massen, "didn't include this 90 degree turn into Roosevelt road that is causing this bottle neck. We would direct northbound traffic to continue on the inner drive as it did before the opening of the Fair."

The outer drive, under the engineers' scheme, would be used for Fair traffic only. The route would terminate in a double loop near the Roosevelt road gates to the exposition. One loop would be for busses, with loading and unloading platforms accommodating twenty vehicles simultaneously. The other loop would be used for taxicabs and private automobiles.

No Climb for Passengers.

"The passengers wouldn't have to climb over any of these bridges," Mr. Sorenson commented as the roadster passed under a pedestrian bridge in front of the Field museum. This passerelle requires a sixteen foot climb for bus and taxicab passengers discharged a quarter of a mile from the exposition's turnstiles.

"The pavement here is now idle," said the alderman, "and it could be modified into the proposed double traffic loop at very little expense, and with so little work that it could be done over night."

The engineer and the alderman, who is also chairman of the council traffic committee, were driven to the 39th street entrance to A Century of Progress. En route, on the inner drive, the roadster crawled with the traffic jam.

The engineer pointed out the efficacy of a thousand feet of pavement that was marked with five traffic lanes. On other stretches of pavement unmarked, cars were weaving with only three or four lanes of automobiles occupying all available space.

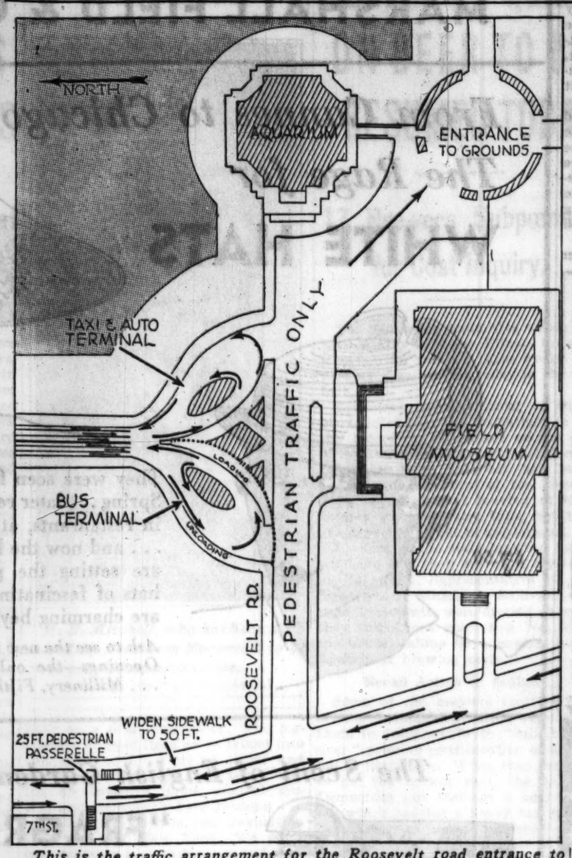
Blockade at Parking Lot.

At 39th street, an entrance to a privately operated parking lot leased by the south park board was guarded by two south park policemen who every few minutes halted the heavy streams of traffic in both directions to let a parking lot customer walk across the pavement. The policemen also permitted traffic to be blocked with left turns into the parking lot.

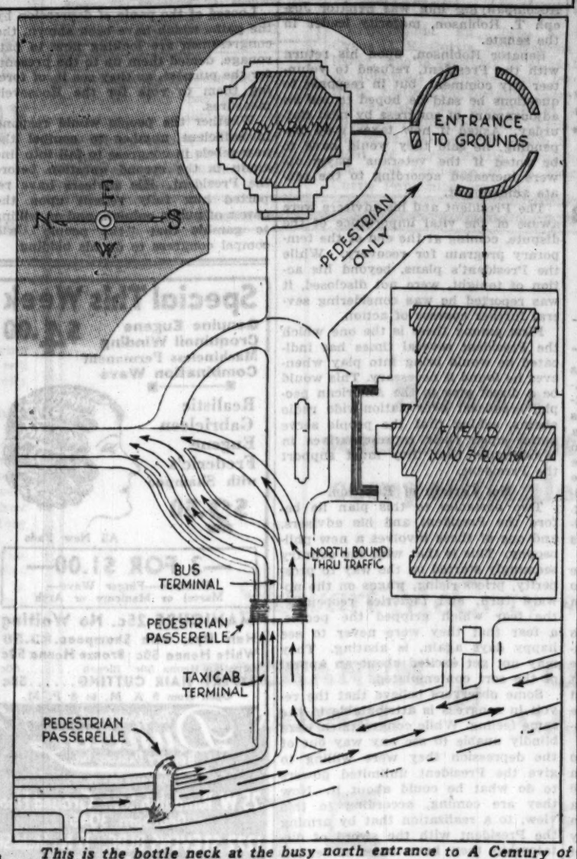
Driving back north on the inner drive, a squall broke. Automobiles poured from the larger parking space on Illinois Central property opposite the 18th and 23d street gates to the Fair. Motorists who had been loafing pleasantly tried to get out of the storm. The pavements were deadlocked.

"This," said Ald. Massen, "is probably what will happen in fair weather if we try to accommodate this summer's attendance at the Fair without reforming our traffic system. There have been blockades under the present system with the comparatively moderate attendance we've had so far. The improvement is imperative."

DRAFT NEW PLAN TO SPEED WORLD'S FAIR TRAFFIC



This is the traffic arrangement for the Roosevelt road entrance to A Century of Progress as prepared by engineers for the Fair but abandoned by the south park board. Note the north bound through traffic would not conflict with taxicabs and buses en route to the Exposition and that pedestrians would have free access to the gates without crossing overhead bridges.



This is the bottle neck at the busy north entrance to A Century of Progress with through traffic, taxicabs and buses all concentrating in front of the Field museum under the arrangement operated by the south park board after abandoning plans prepared by engineers for the World's Fair traffic committee.

BASE SHIPS FOR ITALIAN ARMADA OFF TO LABRADOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, June 4.—The royal Italian fleet's yacht Alice and the supply ship Senef will sail early tomorrow morning for Cartwright, Labrador, to await the arrival of Air Minister General Italo Balbo and his armada of twenty-four flying boats. Five Italian newspapermen are aboard the Alice to report the mass flight which is scheduled to leave Italy shortly for Chicago's A Century of Progress exposition.

Col. Barba, in charge of flight preparations on this side, will send Gen. Balbo information which will determine the date of the start. Departure has been delayed by unfavorable weather conditions around Labrador. Two submarines and four trawlers will remain at St. John's while the armada leaves Italy, then will proceed to the north Atlantic to police the route the flying boats will follow.

Newfoundland has an historic interest in the flight, for in May, 426 years ago, Henry VII. issued letters of patent to another Italian navigator, John Cabot, to take possession of this island for England. The present government will send greetings along with the airmen to the United States and the World's Fair.

BOLIVIANS LOSE 1,500 MEN; FALL BACK FROM FORT

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 4.—(AP)—The ministry of war announced today that Bolivian troops have abandoned Fort Herrera and are retreating toward Fort Platanillos. One of the major battles of the last year's warfare between Bolivia and Paraguay in the Gran Chaco was fought during the last three weeks in the Herrera sector.

The announcement today said Bolivian losses in the engagement reached 1,500, including slain, wounded and captured. Several Bolivian officers were reported captured. Paraguayan losses were listed as 12 wounded, including one officer, and 25 wounded in the latest encounters.

Important positions in the vicinity of Fort Arce were reported captured. Bolivians had launched a drive directed at Fort Arce. Unofficial reports said the Bolivian Col. Rivas and Capt. Dubrez were gravely wounded.

CHINESE TO BUY WHEAT, COTTON WITH U. S. LOAN

R. F. C. to Make Advance of $50,000,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—The government of war torn China was granted a $50,000,000 loan today by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the money to be spent in buying American wheat and cotton.

The primary purpose of the loan as stated by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the R. F. C., is to contribute toward relieving the surpluses in the United States in both cotton and wheat.

At the same time the statement declared the loan to be satisfactorily secured, and questions as to whether the advance to a country in such governmental disorder as China is today might not be in the last analysis a grant brought denials.

Repayment Over 3 Years.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation is not giving 50 millions to the American farmers by buying their cotton and wheat for Chinese consumption, it was declared at the corporation offices. Repayment of the loan is expected during the three years term of the loan, it was stated.

The formal announcement issued by Chairman Jones stated that about four-fifths of the total sum loaned, or $40,000,000, will be used by Chinese agents to buy American cotton and that one-fifth, or $10,000,000, will be spent for wheat.

Mr. Jones would not hazard a guess as to the degree of beneficial effect the purchases would have. However, the sums indicated would purchase at the present market about 900,000 bales of cotton and 11,000,000 bushels of wheat. The cotton surplus in the last crop year was 12 to 13 million bales, indicating that China might take about 8 per cent of the year's surplus. The effect on the wheat surplus was reckoned at less than cotton.

Discussed with Roosevelt.

The contract was signed on behalf of the Chinese government by T. V. Soong, minister of finance, prior to his departure for the London economic conference. Although the transaction has been hanging fire for several months, according to the R. F. C. announcement, it was learned that Mr. Soong discussed the matter with President Roosevelt during their recent conversations in Washington.

In making public the terms of the loan the R. F. C. statement declared:

"It is believed that this credit will be mutually advantageous, as it will assist to remove surpluses from the American markets and will increase Chinese consumption of these commodities, and stimulate economic activities in China and tend to contribute to world-wide economic recovery."

Ship in U. S. Vessels.

The loan contract specified that whenever possible the cotton and grain shall be shipped in American flag vessels. The expenses of loading and shipment will be borne by the Chinese government independently of the loan, all of the $50,000,000 going directly into cotton and wheat purchases.

The purchases will be made in the open market, it was declared. A question as to whether the huge stores of cotton now held by cotton coöperative associations, which owe large sums to the federal farm board, might be sold to China brought a reply that "some of the coöperative cotton may be included."

The loan is at 5 per cent, the principal payable in installments. The security was explained as follows:

"Security for the R. F. C. loan to China is a first charge on certain [Chinese] taxes, including roll tobacco tax, flour tax, cotton yarn tax, match tax, cement tax and other taxes that in 1932 produced 22 millions of American dollars," it was announced.

"A lien will be retained through warehouse receipts both in this country and in China until the commodities are taken from warehouses for processing and consumption, at which time 10 per cent shall be paid in cash, 15 per cent additional within 90 days and the balance of 75 per cent over a period of 3 years."

SAYS VETS' BENEFIT BOOST WILL BRING $1.25 PER CAPITA TAX

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—Intimate sidelights on means being adopted by the administration to cut government expenses and balance the budget were given by Col. Louis M. Howe, secretary to the President, in an interview tonight.

He discussed the senate vote to increase veterans' benefits. He took a figure of 150 million dollars as the prospective cost of the senate action to reduce the cuts in veterans' benefits, $20,000,000 less than the estimate of Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.] and more than $50,000,000 less than other estimates.

"Incidentally," he said, "that means additional taxes will have to be raised which will amount to about $1.25 for every human being in the United States. You can be assured that eventually you will have to dig down and give Uncle Sam $1.25 for yourself, your wife, and all the kiddies, if you happen to be the head of the family because in the long run any deficiency in the budget has to be paid for by the people."

FITZHENRY TOLD HE'S NAMED FOR APPELLATE BENCH

Bloomington, Ill., June 4.—[Special.]—Judge Louis FitzHenry of Bloomington, federal judge for fifteen years of the southern district of Illinois, received official notification today that President Roosevelt had nominated him in a message to the senate yesterday for the position of judge of the Seventh Federal Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago. Approval of the appointment is believed certain.

FitzHenry succeeds Judge George T. Paige, Peoria, retired. His work the last 15 years has been considered outstanding. His district had to dispose of large numbers of prohibition and other cases. He is a former member of congress, having served in the sixty-third. With the advancement of FitzHenry there will be a scramble for his place on the bench of the southern federal district, but there is some doubt whether it will be filled at this time, because of the decrease in work in federal courts with the wane of prohibition, and the government desires economy.

FIND MAN DYING IN STREET.

A man tentatively identified by papers found on his body as James Shelton of Anderson, Ind., died yesterday in the County hospital after having been found unconscious on the sidewalk Saturday at Roosevelt road and Halsted street.

veterans' appropriations. The bill, as amended by the senate, will add $153,675,000 to the expenditures for veterans, and other senate amendments raise the total amount of the extra expenses above the Roosevelt program to $170,675,067. These figures were read to the congressmen at the White House tonight by Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, who, with Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, supported the President's fight.

Mr. Douglas said that the senate amendments would add 249,582 men to the hospitalization rolls, none of whom had service-connected disabilities.

Gen. Hines, answering arguments that some veterans with service-connected disabilities would suffer severe cuts in compensation, declared that the Roosevelt regulations proposed only 21 per cent reductions in the cases of men who suffered their disabilities in actual war service.

He cited a number of examples to prove the points raised. One veteran he said, was now drawing $250 monthly, although suffering from a disease with no possible connection with war service. Under the Connally amendment in the senate this amount could be reduced only to $187.50. Gen. Hines pointed out and he declared there was no justice to taxpayers in such payments.

Pledges Aid for Needy.

The President gave his promise, as he has done before, that no destitute and ailing veteran who is unable to pay his hospital expenses would be denied hospital care. The President declared that his whole purpose was to be fair to both government taxpayers and to veterans.

The congressmen present to hear the President's challenge, all Democrats, were Speaker Rainey of Illinois, Gordon Browning, Tennessee; Francis Lewis, Colorado; James P. Buchanan, Texas; William Bankhead, Alabama; Clifton Woodrum, Virginia; John McDuffie, Alabama; Lindsay Warren, North Carolina; Sam Rayburn, Texas; Jacob Milligan, Missouri; Edward Pou, North Carolina; John McCormack, Massachusetts; William Arnold, Illinois; and Joseph W. Byrns, Tennessee, the floor leader.

The President's course of action was decided upon during the day while he cruised on the Potomac river aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia. Accompanying him was Senator Joseph T. Robinson, majority leader in the senate.

Senator Robinson, upon his return with the President, refused to volunteer any comment, but in response to questions he said he hoped to see an adjournment of congress by next Saturday. Asked if new taxes were impending, he said they would have to be voted if the veterans' payments were increased according to the senate amendment.

The President and his advisers were aware of the vital importance of the dispute, coming at the end of the temporary program for recovery. While the President's plans, beyond his action of tonight, were not disclosed, it was reported he was considering several further courses of action.

First among these is the one which the President several times has indicated he would bring into play whenever he found it necessary. This would be a direct plea to the American people, broadcast over nation-wide radio chains, asking that the people serve notice upon their representatives in Washington that they must support the President.

Not Certain of Reaction.

Two obstacles to this plan lie before the President and his advisers, and one of these involves a new philosophy. This is that with the country seemingly started on the way to prosperity, prices rising, wages on the upward turn, and factories reopening, the fear which gripped the people, a fear that they were never to see happy days again, is abating. They may not get excited about an appeal of the sort contemplated.

Some observers believe that the revolt in congress is attributable to the same feeling. While congressmen were blindly unable to see any way out of the depression they were willing to give the President unlimited powers to do what he could about it. Now they are coming, according to this view, to a realization that by arming the President with the sword of dictatorship they have been surrendering the rights of themselves and of what may be called the American form of government to a point impossible of regainment.

Loosed of the panic of depression by the gains which have been shown, the congressmen are looking now to patronage, denied them up to the present, for the purpose, as they see it, of forcing them to vote for the Roosevelt measures.

Whether the people would respond in sufficient number to compel the new rebels in congress to fall into line again is the second question before the President. His advisers have reported him fully reliant upon the power of public opinion, and as willing to gamble that "the people" will compel congress to do his bidding.

CLOSING SMALL BEER SELLERS BREWS STORMS

New York Press Hits at Mulrooney.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—More than 20,000 hot dog stands, cigar stores, coffee shops, and sandwich stands in and about New York City have lost their beer licenses. That happened under a "surprise" ruling by the new state alcoholic beverage control board this week. Proprietors of the places affected are making the biggest kind of a fuss about it.

A test suit already has been started. Some of this city's leading newspapers have taken up the cudgels in behalf of the little victims of the board's decree. Some uncomplimentary adjectives are being used.

Evidently the average New Yorker wants his beer handy when he wants it. Under the commission's ruling it will be necessary for him to go to a hotel, restaurant, or other establishment pretentious enough to maintain dining table accommodations for twenty guests "and a kitchen with adequate equipment to provide meals for twenty guests at one time." Beer bars are banned.

This means—to the so-called man in the street at least—that the recent joyous days of the 5 cent glass of beer to be had at almost any street corner are about over. Hereafter beer drunk on the premises must be served at a "dining table."

Charge 35 Cents a Bottle.

The hotels already are charging as much as 35 cents a bottle for it and smaller "eating places" are boosting prices accordingly. Thus the "poor man" feels that the new control board has put one over on him.

The so-called discrimination against the little dealer has become a favorite topic of conversation. There is much speculation over the reasons for the board's ruling.

Since the new beverage is specifically held to be nonintoxicating under the act of congress that brought it back into being, why, it is being asked, should discrimination be exercised in its sale any more than that of any other "soft drink?" Also critics of the new "beer czar," as Edward P. Mulrooney, chairman of the board is called, and his colleagues would like to know where the board got its authority to define a "restaurant," since the state legislature neglected to do so. How about the hundreds of thousands of dollars in sorely needed taxes that the state is going to lose as a result of the ruling, a form of income which provided the prime reason for the return of beer?

Why Play Favorites?

The New York Daily News, in a recent editorial, said:

"What is the reason for this favoritism? Beer has been put on a par with any soft drink by act of congress. What possible objection, then, can there be to allowing beer to be sold wherever any soft drink is sold?

"Our trouble is that the whole New York state system of beer control was built on a misapprehension. The legislature allowed itself to be talked into this mistake by a lot of ladies and serious thinkers who had been looking at Sweden's liquor control system and Germany's beer gardens.

"What we want is beer regulation that will suit New York. We don't care whether it suits Sweden and Germany or not. And the only kind of beer regulation that will suit New York is a license system open to all comers with the cash to buy the licenses to make or sell beer, their places and sales practices to be supervised by local police."

"The ruling against the sale of beer at bars," the Times editorialized, "where there are no restaurant table facilities will be fought by the coffee shops and the open air drink stands. It is a decision to be regretted by people who would like to see the European open-air café domiciled in this country.

"The nearest approach to the transcontinental café is precisely the beverage booth and drug store counter. They are actually, or to all intents and purposes open-air. The customers are not ashamed to take their drinks or light repasts before the whole world. Under what more innocent circumstances could a glass of beer be taken than on a summer's day at a hot dog stand beneath the spreading chestnut tree?"

ASSEMBLY QUIZ ON BEER TO BE RESUMED TODAY

17 Brewers Subpœnaed for Cost Inquiry.

The legislative committee which has been poking into the Illinois brewing situation for the last three weeks will hold another hearing today in the city hall.

Seventeen brewers, most of whom disregarded previous invitations to testify before the committee on the cost of making beer, have been subpoenaed to appear today with all their books and records. Several of the brewers have protested that moving of their records would require vans, but they are expected to put in appearance.

Leaders in the state brewing industry have said they are a bit mystified as to what Representative G. G. Noonan and Mason S. Sullivan, Chicago Democrats, were driving at when they introduced resolution No. 60 in the house, calling for a general investigation of brewing costs.

Recall Action in Indiana.

Some of the brewers recalled that certain Indiana legislators summoned them to Indianapolis to "talk things over" prior to consideration of a beer bill in that state. When they declined to go, the brewer said, the Indiana Democrats put through a beer sales bill which saddled a heavy tax on the beverage, required consumers to buy a sandwich with every glass of beer, and placed the wholesale distribution of the beverage in the hands of political favorites in the various districts.

On the Illinois legislative committee with Representatives Noonan and Sullivan are Representatives Albert J. Mancin and M. A. Ruddy, Chicago Republicans; I. H. Streeper, Alton Republican, and Peter P. Jezierny and William J. Connors, Chicago Democrats.

"The legislators are just trying to make a little political capital for themselves," Attorney John P. Hart of Aurora, legislative agent for the state brewers' association, said. "Most of them are from the poorer districts, where 5 cent beer might be made a hot political issue. If they could get from the brewers a set of cost figures justifying nickel beer and then force the brewers to set that price their constituents would cheer them.

"Brewers Haven't Got Figures."

"What they don't seem to understand is that the brewers haven't got the figures. The brewers have been on a honeymoon since the legalization of beer—just going along, turning out their product as fast as possible and taking in the money without getting down to the hard figures of cost, production, and taxes. I can't see how the Noonan-Sullivan committee will get very far.

"Prices are being set now on the basis of what near beer cost to produce. When the brewers get straightened around they may discover that the product can be sold more cheaply. If and when they do, the laws of competition and of supply and demand will take care of the situation without help of the legislature."

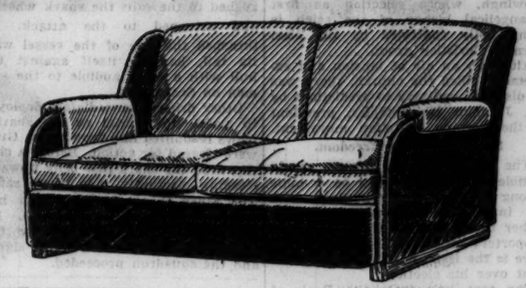
Chicago's Finest Exhibit of the New Modern



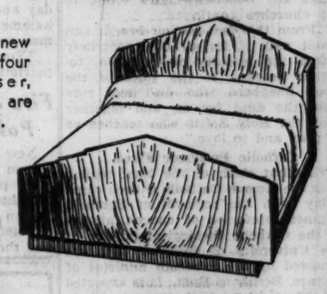
This Love Seat at $90 is a companion of the sofa exhibited in the Rostone House at the World's Fair along with many fine Tobey pieces.

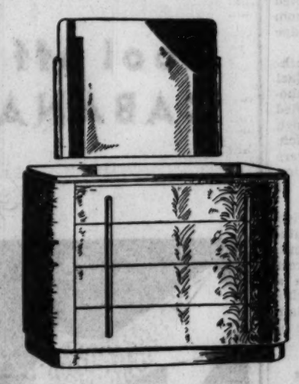
This new Modern carries out in furniture the style trends so admirably expressed by the great Century of Progress Exposition. New in design, in materials and in beauty, the earlier fantastic outlines have been supplanted by a new treatment of design and handling, making it truly "liveable" and extremely comfortable.

We have devoted an entire floor to the most complete and interesting exhibit of the new Modern to be seen in all Chicago. With five other great floors displaying the furniture most wanted today, in all styles as well as Modern, a visit to Chicago is hardly complete without a trip through Tobey's.

This bed is from a new Modern Suite the four pieces of which (dresser, vanity, chest and bed) are an unusual value at $195.

The wood is Oriental Walnut, exquisitely made and finished—a product of the leading creator of Modern bedroom furniture.





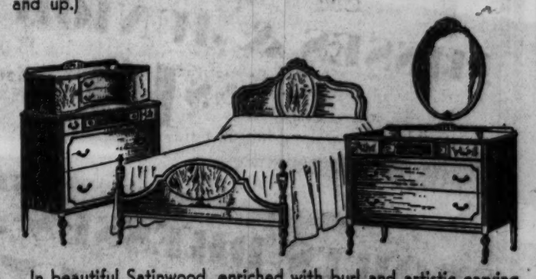
The dresser pictured shows the new Modern at its best. It is from a four piece suite (bed, dresser, vanity dresser and chest), priced unusually low at $275.

The beautifully figured acacia wood is carried over every edge and flawlessly joined, through cabinet work of the highest type. For those wishing more striking effects the same suite may be had in ivory maple.

And Tobey's is not content with showing the newer things first. For here modern methods of retailing—Cash Selling and the elimination of other useless items of cost—enable us to bring you today's finest furniture at prices far under what one must pay in any store doing business according to old methods.

Designed in the more usual manner—yet distinctly new—is this all walnut, 8 piece suite, consisting of the 8 foot extension table, buffet and 6 chairs, one an arm chair. The surfaces are exquisitely figured. The maker created this suite to sell for $225, but due to a fortunate purchase, combined with our Low Cost Retailing Methods, we are able to price it..... $119
Cabinet, $39. (Other 8 piece dining suites from the same maker at $69, $89 and up.)

(Other 8 piece dining suites from the same maker at $69, $89 and up.)



In beautiful Satinwood, enriched with burl and artistic carving, this suite is entirely new, yet conforms to a style which will always be correct and pleasing. For years suites of this quality sold for $300 up. Today's low markets and our own low cost methods make possible the very low price of..... $125
Twin beds, vanity and smaller pieces priced proportionately low.

GERMAN BISHOP MAKES PLEA FOR CHURCH FREEDOM

Huge Throng Listens to Sermon in Berlin.

BERLIN, June 4.—(AP)—Zion church in Berlin's east side was crowded with 2,500 worshipers, including many Nazis, today to hear the Pentacostal sermon by Dr. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, whose selection as first Evangelical bishop of the reich is being hotly contested by the Nazi German Christian group.

Although an air of tension and expectation filled the church, there was no disorder, contrary to predictions by Dr. Joachim Hossenfelder, president of the German Christian movement.

Speaks of Inner Freedom.

The reichsbishop's address, made audible by loud speakers to a huge throng outside, was concerned with the inner freedom of the church, rather than its outer freedom, which supporters of Dr. Bodelschwingh declare is the issue now involved in the fight over his election.

The text was from the Book of Romans, viii., 2: "For the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."

Outside the building the police kept a way clear for Dr. Bodelschwingh, who was respectfully saluted by the multitude.

A message from the reichsbishop, who before his elevation to the post was widely known as a social relief worker and pastor of the poor, was read in other Protestant churches in Germany today.

Message of 225 Words.

This message, of only 225 words, was not political in character but entirely concerned with spiritual matters.

"The church's service must be nothing except to spread the gospel of word and deed," the message said. "The gospel, however, can and will make us free and save us."

Announcing that the German Protestant church is preparing to close ranks Dr. Bodelschwingh's letter to the churches continued:

"From this fact lasting benefit can result only if we all bow contritely before the majesty of our God, together hearken to the voice of the Good Shepherd who died and rose from the dead for us, and together obey the Holy Spirit who teaches us to pray and to love."

Catholic Professor Fired.

The first clash of the Nazi régime with the Roman Catholic church came today with the removal of Berthold Altaner, professor of church history in the Catholic theological faculty of the University of Breslau. He was removed by the Prussian minister of culture, Bernhard Rust. It is expected that Cardinal Adolf Bertram, to whom Prof. Altaner is responsible, will lodge a protest.

There is astonishment also in Catholic circles at the prohibition by Nazi Bavarian police of the Roman Catholic gesellentag, a meeting of qualified journeymen of different trades, which was scheduled for June 8 at Munich. At this gathering 30,000 persons were expected to be present, including Franz von Papan, vice chancellor of the reich.

At Karlsruhe the Catholic Heinrich Koehler, former reich's finance minister and Badenese state president, was placed under protective arrest yesterday after the publication in a Nazi newspaper of allegedly incriminating correspondence with Adam Remmele, former Socialist minister of the interior of Baden.

FOUR SHARKS ATTACK BRITISH FLEET; GUNS CLEARED FOR ACTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 4.—A school of four sharks attacked his Britannic majesty's fleet in the North sea today. The sharks were driven off with the loss of one of their number. The British fleet sustained no damage other than frayed nerves after a bad scare.

The ships of the British home fleet were undergoing "submarine attack exercises" off Scapa Flow. During the drill the drifter Muriel struck a 27 foot shark. The ship reeled under the force of the impact and the shark was badly injured. As the crew rushed to the rails the shark wheeled and returned to the attack. It thrashed the side of the vessel with its tail, banging itself against the hull with a force audible to the seamen on Scapa pier.

Other drifters immediately deployed to assist the Muriel as the shark's blows resounded like drumbeats. Guns were cleared for action. Before a shot was fired the shark rose belly upward, bleeding profusely, and then sank. The other three sharks, which had stood by, retreated in formation. By the time reinforcements arrived the Muriel hoisted an "all's well" signal and the squadron proceeded.

BALUSTRADE OF LOUVAIN LIBRARY DESTROYED AGAIN

BRUSSELS, June 4.—(AP)—The famous balustrade of the Louvain university library which has been the subject of hot controversy for years because of an attempt to place an anti-German inscription upon it, was destroyed again today by Edmund Morren, a mason's foreman, who also smashed it five years ago.

A proposed inscription which had been placed on the balustrade by Whitney Warren, the American architect of the reconstruction of the famous building, was removed by order of the Belgian Supreme court. It was a Latin phrase, translated as "Destroyed by German fury; restored by American generosity."

An excited crowd watched Morren climb the roof of the university today and break the balustrade with a hammer. On descending the workman surrendered to police, saying:

"You see, there are still true and patriotic Belgians."

Fire on New York Ferry; Passengers Not Informed

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—The Staten island ferry Richmond, with 1,160 passengers aboard, caught fire tonight about 100 feet from the Manhattan slip. Most of the passengers did not even know there was a fire, and there was no panic.

$2,000,000 DRIVE TO HELP GERMAN JEWS APPROVED

Leaders in 15 Central States Hear Plan.

Several hundred Jewish leaders of fifteen central states met yesterday at the Standard club and unanimously approved the campaign of the American joint distribution committee to raise a $2,000,000 relief fund for Jews in Germany.

The approval was "enthusiastic," according to Rabbi Jonah B. Wise of New York City, a leader in the drive.

Many Small Gifts, Is Plan.

"The status of the joint committee, it was agreed, should be utterly divorced from any protest of policies in Germany," said Rabbi Wise. "It was also agreed that the raising of the funds should be so widely distributed that no donor need sacrifice his contributions to his local charities."

According to the joint committee's plans, all funds raised in America will be placed at the immediate disposal of the Jewish relief agencies in Berlin. This is possible because the committee has established definite contact with the necessary agencies there. In that way, aid will be started much sooner than under ordinary routine methods, it was pointed out.

Makes Report on Progress.

Sol Klein, president of the Chicago Federation of Jewish Relief Agencies, called the meeting to order. James G. Becker presided at the morning session and Henry Movisky of Omaha over the afternoon session. Paul Baerwald, president of the joint committee, read a report of the progress thus far in the $2,000,000 campaign.

Mr. Becker was elected central western manager of the campaign.

Five Penny Matchers Are Arrested in Loop

Sergts. John Griffith and John Warren of the confidence game detail at the detective bureau yesterday arrested five men who were attempting to operate the penny matching racket on strangers in the loop. The prisoners were James E. Luther of Tulsa, Okla., and his partner, Jack E. Farrenburg of Kansas City, and John Davidson, Arthur Bogue, and Charles Eastman, who gave fictitious addresses in Chicago.

NAZIS OPEN AIR WEEK; 2 PILOTS KILLED IN CRASH

(Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.)

NUREMBERG, Germany, June 4.—The first National Socialist flying week was opened at the airport at Fuerth, near here, today by Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, aviation minister, in the presence of national, state, and municipal authorities and hundreds of thousands of spectators. The day was marred by a collision in midair of two participating planes in which both pilots were killed. An observer in one plane saved himself by jumping just before his craft crashed to the ground.

Flying week was organized, so it is said, to show Germany's need for defense against aerial warfare. Capt. Goering, who piloted a plane from Berlin, demanded in a speech the restoration of Germany's air defense. Germany, he said, is able to defend herself only on land and water, and even there only insufficiently, and therefore needs an air defense to fight off enemy attacks in case of need.

Swarms of sports and training planes from all over Germany assembled for the occasion. After the accident part of the program of double parachute jumping and trailer flying was canceled.

PILOT KILLED WHEN MAIL PLANE CRASHES IN VIRGINIA RAVINE

Bowling Green, Va., June 4.—(AP)—W. L. [Larry] Jamieson, Eastern Air Transport pilot since 1930, died of burns early today after his mail plane crashed into a 75 foot ravine in a heavily wooded section near Bowling Green.

He was pinned beneath the wreckage and died as a searching party reached the scene.

Residents of the neighborhood said they were awakened shortly after 3 o'clock by the sound of an airplane flying low and in apparent distress. A few minutes later they heard the crash.

Two farmers, led by a dog, began a search for the plane and found it after a half hour. They said the craft had cut a swath of 100 feet or more through the tops of trees bordering on the ravine.

County investigators said that most of the mail was destroyed.

A native of Lawrence, Kas., Jamieson had lived for several years at Sandston, Va., with his wife and two children, both boys.

LAKE LINE BUYS SHIP TO REPLACE WRECKED VESSEL

George M. Cox, president of the Isle Royale steamship line, Fort William, Ont., announced yesterday the purchase of the Tennessee, a trans-Atlantic passenger ship, to replace the steamer George M. Cox, which was lost when it struck a reef off Isle Royale on May 27.

The purchase, it was said, was made over long distance telephone with New York. The vessel will leave immediately for Montreal. The Tennessee has a capacity of 500 passengers for a lengthy cruise or 2,200 passengers on a short trip. For years the Tennessee has plied between New York and English and French ports.

Mr. Cox said the Tennessee will be use on the Chicago-Sault Ste. Marie route, with stops at Mackinac, Milwaukee, Traverse City, Manistee and other points.

FIND VICTIM OF SLAYING.

The body of Paul Marozas, 27 years old, 2343 South Leavitt street, was found early yesterday at Royne avenue and 24th street. His throat had been slashed and he had been stabbed in the chest several times. Police believe he was slain in a drinking brawl.

THE STORE FOR MEN...

A GREAT WORLD'S FAIR FOR MEN

Beginning this morning

ANNUAL JUNE SALE

A store-wide event which offers fresh, new Summer merchandise at end-of-the-season prices. Not a clearance of odds and ends but a great selling bringing to the men of Chicago and visitors to Chicago scores of values that again prove that The Store for Men leads in value as well as in style. Here are but a few of the many thrilling specials you'll find on sale all this week—look for the special June Sale cards that tell their own story of the many other values we've planned!

SANFORIZED LINEN SLACKS—Launder them as often as you want to—they won't shrink because they're specially processed. Cut in full slack style and well-tailored of an excellent quality linen. (The golf shoes shown are priced at $10.) The slacks, Fifth Floor $3.95

CREPES • FOULARDS • FAILLES—Beautiful, clean printed foulards from England, crepes and failles from France and Switzerland; many are silk-faced; every pattern is a knockout—and these ties would ordinarily sell for much more. Get in early!—First Floor 75c

PURE THREAD SILK HOSE—In vertical stripes and clocked patterns—a value that you can't afford to overlook. Smart shades, good-looking designs and a complete range of sizes. Better buy a dozen pairs for we may not be able to duplicate this price again. First Floor. Pair 45c hand-tailored .... and at a price usually associated with clearances

$37.50

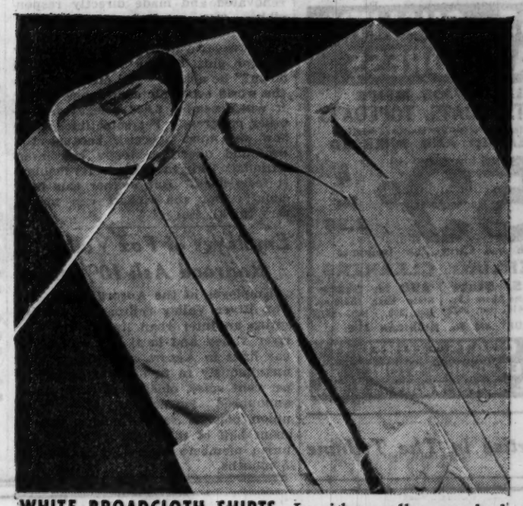
New! Up-to-the-minute! Patterns that hint at what will be what next Fall! The woolens for these suits were purchased last month—just before the phenomenal rise in fabric prices. Then these materials were made up to our own specifications and as a result this selling brings you hand-tailored garments of fine woolens at a price that you'll admit is mighty low for such quality.

The selection is complete—it includes: single or double-breasteds; Deerpath Drapes; hairline stripes; chalk stripes; small checks; Glenurquhart plaids; browns, oxfords, blues, grays, tans; in fact, every color and pattern practically is represented in this extraordinary event.

SUITS FOR MEN AND YOUNG MEN, THIRD FLOOR

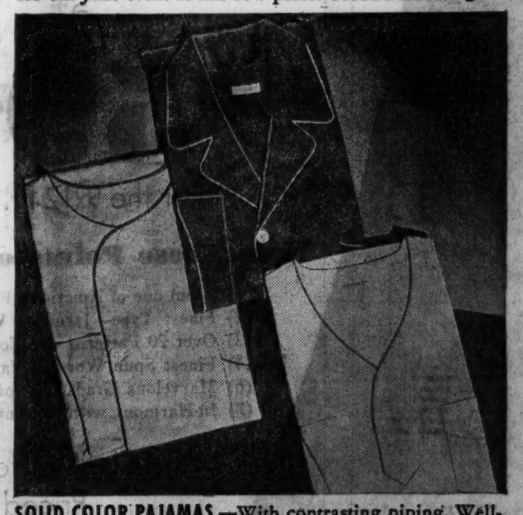
Many of these values also in Evanston and Oak Park

WORSTED SPEED SUITS—A very special value because all-wool bathing suits made of fine two-ply worsted yarn ordinarily sell for a great deal more. Cut for comfort; will wear and wear and wear; in navy or black—Fifth Floor $1.95



WHITE BROADCLOTH SHIRTS—In either collar-attached or neckband style. You probably can recall what these shirts used to sell for. Made to our own specifications of superb broadcloth. Every size from 14 to 18 with 32 to 37-inch sleeve lengths—First Floor $1.65

TRIMMED BUCK SPORT SHOES—Smart white buck oxfords with a neat black or brown leather trim. Ordinarily you'd expect shoes of this type to sell for much more—but we've planned these two Aristo Specials exclusively for our June event at this low price. Second Floor $6.50



SOLID COLOR PAJAMAS—With contrasting piping. Well-styled with just enough fullness to insure comfort and made of a fine, light-weight poplin for warm weather wear. Notch collar, middy or low neck styles. Smart colors, exceptional values—First Floor $1.85

MUSSOLINI SEES WORLD DRIVEN TOWARD FASCISM

Asserts Events Push On to Form New Order.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

ROME, June 4.—"The whole world is in revolution," Premier Mussolini said in an interview today. "Events themselves are a tremendous force, pushing us on like some implacable will. President Roosevelt's new plan for coördination of industry follows precisely the lines of Fascist cooperation.

"It is inevitable that the complex social and economic problems of today should force a new order—neither capital nor labor in control, but both in proper balance, with the state the guiding influence.

Says Dictators Inevitable.

"Dictatorships are inevitable. The best parliament cannot govern in a time like this. They represent only themselves. What would happen to a ship in a tempest if it were not directed by a single captain?

"Fascism is an invention resulting from the necessity for modern apparatus for government. I venture to say that the crisis the world suffers will never be resolved until national governments are rationalized, renovated and made directly responsible.

"Another Congress!"

"How can you negotiate with a row of nine pins, always bobbing up and down?" he asked. "The difficulty with the world economic conference is that it will assemble 2,000 delegates. Another congress! Yet sometime, somehow we must succeed, because the profound questions today are international. Italy marches in its fashion. It feels itself. But neither this poor country nor the richest can march very far all alone."

Employes of Fox Valley Railroad Ask 10% Raise

Employés of the Aurora, Elgin and Fox River Valley railroad, which operates an interurban line in the Fox river valley and local bus and street car lines in Aurora and Elgin, voted unanimously in favor of asking a 10 per cent raise, officials of their union announced yesterday. The raise, union officials said, would make up about half of the pay cuts which the union members have had in the last 18 months.

JOHNNIE LIVINGSTON AGAIN WINS HONORS AT WICHITA AIR RACES

Wichita, Kas., June 4.—[Special.]—Despite high temperatures, 8,000 persons today watched the aerial exhibition staged at Travel Air field.

Johnnie Livingston of Aurora, Ill., again took top honors in the day's show with his speed flying in his small white Howard racer, attaining more than 200 miles an hour down the runway. A series of eight barrel rolls at a low attitude was another thriller.

Roy Hunt of Oklahoma City gave an exhibition of acrobatics in his Great Lakes special. Bettie Lun, Art Davis, and Harold Neuman added to the best program Wichita has seen. George Burrell, in a tri-motored Ford; Bob Moore, in his 1910 model pusher plane, and Wayne Wagener, with a 6,000 foot delayed parachute drop, completed the three hour program.

The races were run off yesterday and today without a single accident, the flying being marked with care and skill. The Women's Aeronautical Association of Kansas sponsored the meet.

The pilots and ships here, part of a circuit group of the American Air Race association of Chicago, will race at Kansas City Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

ALL-WOMEN AIR RACE IS WON BY CALIFORNIAN

New York, June 4.—(AP)—Miss Henrietta Sumner of Los Angeles won the second annual Annette Gipson all-women air race today over a 45 mile course from Floyd Bennett field. The event had been postponed from Memorial day.

Mrs. Frances Marsalis, co-holder with Mrs. Louise Thaden of the women's refueling endurance record, was second; Miss Jessamine Goddard, social registerite, was third, and Mrs. Mary Moore Sanson, stunt flyer of Hartford, Conn., fourth.

The winner received $500, the next three $200, $100 and $50, and all 21 entrants were given silver fox fur pieces.

Miss Laura Ingalls and Miss Viola Gentry, probably the best known among the contestants, finished ninth and eleventh, respectively.

Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam was official starter and Miss Ruth Nichols scorekeeper.

CHICAGO MILK IS FIRST OBJECT OF U. S. PRICE FIXING

4 States Represented at Hearing.

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—Milk producers, dealers, and distributors of the Chicago area and representatives of the governors of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Michigan are expected to appear tomorrow before Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in the first price fixing hearing under the farm adjustment act.

"Price, practices, and conditions in the marketing of fluid milk in the Chicago metropolitan area," will be the focal point of the hearings, which are expected to run for at least a day and a half, according to Secretary Wallace.

Based on Present Prices.

The proposed marketing agreement filed with the secretary by the Pure Milk association, the Milk Council, Inc., and the Chicago Milk Dealers association will be the basis of the arguments before the secretary.

Price schedules to the householder which the agreement would fix are those which have been prevailing in Chicago since May 15, when the milk council raised the price of milk to 10 cents a quart and 7 cents a pint. These prices were set forth in a temporary price and practice fixing agreement entered into by the producers and dealers. They are now seeking formal approval of the department of agriculture.

Expect Some Opposition.

Opposition to the general arrangement is looming, officials of the department said today, but they refused to disclose from what sector they expected the trouble other than to say that "there are always some ultra-conservatives who are slow to agree."

Sitting with Secretary Wallace when the hearing starts may be George Peek, administrator of the farm adjustment act.

Flying Forecast

Special flying route forecasts for the period from 11 p. m. June 4 to noon, June 5 [C. S. T.]:

RARE EXHIBITION OPEN TOMORROW IN FIELD MUSEUM

Bronze and Stone to Tell Story of Races.

The Chauncey Keep Memorial hall in the Field museum, in which appear representations in sculpture of the principal races of mankind, will be opened to the public tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by Stephen C. Simms, director of the museum.

The sculptures, in bronze and stone, are the result of more than three years' work in all quarters of the globe by Malvina Hoffman, sculptress, of New York and Paris. The life size figures, busts, and heads which she executed were made from living subjects, carefully selected as representative of their race.

Miss Hoffman's Work Praised.

No other museum in the world, it is said, possesses a comparable series of exhibits in physical anthropology. Sir Arthur Keith, conservator and professor of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, pronounced Miss Hoffman's work "the finest racial portraiture that the world has yet seen."

The civilized races as well as members of primitive tribes which Miss Hoffman had to seek out on dangerous journeys into the jungles are represented in the exhibits. Many of these races are on the verge of disappearing before the march of civilization, according to Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology in the museum.

Action typical of the lives of the subjects is portrayed in many of the statues. A Hawaiian is balanced nimbly on a surfboard. A Solomon islander is climbing the trunk of a cocoanut palm. An African girl sways to the rhythm of a jungle dance, while an old savage beats a drum beside her.

Malayans and Japanese.

A group of Malayans gather about a cockfight. An Australian bushman poises his spear, and a pigmy of the Kalahari desert draws his bow as he stands before his wife and child. Near an elegant lady of the upper class of Japan is the figure of an old woman of India's untouchable caste. The central group of the hall comprises three figures of heroic size, a white, yellow, and black man, typifying the three principal races, supporting on their shoulders a globe on which are outlined the continents.

Chauncey Keep, for whom the hall is named, was a Chicago lawyer and a trustee of the museum for fifteen years before his death in 1929. Mr. Keep left a $50,000 bequest for the hall, which has been augmented since by gifts totaling more than $150,000 from Marshall Field III., Mrs. Stanley Field, and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe.

MOUNT VESUVIUS POURS HOT LAVA NEAR WINE TOWN

NAPLES, Italy, June 4.—(AP)—An ominous wall of smoking lava, pushing relentlessly down the crater toward the rim of Mount Vesuvius, today had covered two-thirds of the lava area of the destructive eruption of 1929 and was ready to cascade into the Valley of Inferno. Some of the lava is flowing in underground channels in galleries created by the 1929 eruption.

The upper portion of the valley is uninhabited and part of it is protected by a wall, but observers said if the lava continued to flow at the present rate the stream of molten rock would flow over the wall and threaten the town of Terzigno. Terzigno, with a population of 2,000, is famous for its wines produced in a rich vineyard territory. Residents are prepared to evacuate to Naples at any moment.

Prof. Malladra, director of the Vesuvius observatory, reiterated this afternoon his belief that the lava would not go beyond the valley wall, although admitting that anything is possible in the case of the famous volcano. He said tonight that the force of the lava flow was diminishing and that it would last two or three days longer.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE SCHOOL BOND ISSUE.

The proposal of a school board bond issue of 40 million dollars to place the school system on a cash basis ought not to be condemned out of hand. At the same time it ought to be given most careful study to make certain that it is not another scheme for temporary relief which before long will leave the fiscal problem of the schools more difficult of solution than it is today.

There is no doubt that the school employés and the bills for supplies should be paid. In so far as the money needed will come from the sale of tax warrants, the board must pay 6 per cent for it. If bonds can be floated at 5 per cent or less, a considerable saving can be achieved. The school system should never have fallen into debt, but it is in debt, and the more cheaply the debt is discharged the better.

Nothing will be gained, however, by easing the temporary money stringency if this and subsequent boards are to go on spending in excess of their current revenues. Unless the permission to issue bonds carries with it an ironclad provision that the board must limit its outlay for all purposes, including the service of its debt, to its actual receipts [not its expected receipts, but its actual receipts], the bond issue can only do injury to all concerned. If the present school law does not provide, without ambiguity, for criminal and civil liability of board members and fiscal officers of the board who spend in excess of income, that provision must be written in. And unless any taxpayer may mandamus the board to stay within its actual income, the bonds should not be voted. Finally, the funds to be derived from the bond issue itself must be amply protected from raids.

One other point deserves consideration. Most property owners have paid their taxes. If all had done so there would be no need for the bond issue. It would be grossly unjust to require those who have paid to meet not only their own taxes but the interest and principal of the bonds as well. The bond issue can easily become a device for transferring the burden of unpaid taxes from those who owe them to those who have already done their full duty, many of them at the cost of intense personal privation. If the bond issue is not accompanied by some assurance that the delinquent taxes will be forced into collection without delay, it ought to be defeated.

The uncollected real estate taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930 still total more than 154 million dollars. The uncollected portion of the 1931 taxes [not all of which is delinquent] is 115 million dollars. The collection of more than a million dollars on a recent day, impressive though it seemed, was actually small in the perspective of the vast sums in default. It is obvious that the expenses of all the local governments, including the schools, must be reduced and the pressure for tax collections must be redoubled.

AN INCOME TAX ON SAVINGS.

The superlative cruelty in the application of the income tax principle is found in the announcement of John H. Leenhouts, Milwaukee county income tax assessor, that 85 per cent of this year's income tax bills are assessed on the average of the 1930 and 1931 incomes. The reason for this is that 1932 incomes have shrunk until they can stand less tax burden than in previous years.

The Wisconsin tax law provides that the assessor must average incomes for the two years preceding the last, compare the result with the 1932 return and assess the tax on the larger of the two.

The law is the enactment of the last La Follette administration and is the stinger attached by them to the repeal of the wretched three years' average law which formed the basis on which income taxes previously were assessed. It has reached its refinement of absurdity and viciousness this year.

The actual result of the law is to demand payment from many who have been completely without income during the last year. There are, unhappily, thousands of worthy persons in this classification. Professional men and business men whose incomes have completely disappeared or replaced by losses, white collar office men and skilled mechanics, long out of work and idle, living meagerly on their accumulated savings, must pay again on the earnings of two and even three years ago if those earnings were above a subsistence level.

It is altogether probable that income tax bills are being sent to some who for the last year have been actual recipients of aid from the public purse or who have avoided that embarrassment only by fierce sacrifice and good management of their families and themselves.

Mr. Leenhouts' statement also reveals how the radicals have abandoned their much exploited theory of an income tax calculated on the ability to pay. In providing that the average previous income should be taxed if it were larger than the current year's return they recognized the probability that many former payers would be without taxable income for 1932.

The implication of the law is "that's their hard luck if they're out of work. If they have no income, tax them on what they used to have." The tax spenders disregarded altogether the bitter plight of the unemployed man for the last year and reached back to take a second toll from the more prosperous years when he had a job or when his business was recorded in black.

There is no reduction consequent upon unemployment or absent profits. There is no consideration of the citizen's desperation and his fight to keep free from tax liens and penalties.

The nature of the alternative shows the tax was conceived in cruelty. Anticipating that many normal tax payers would be without income this year, the state compels them to turn to their savings and their small accumulations to pay a miscalled income tax on a year in which there were no incomes.

Of last year's income tax levy for Milwaukee county of approximately five and a half million dollars there is still $1,306,166 delinquent. What the delinquency will be this year taxes the imagination.

The sole virtue of the Wisconsin tax situation is that this misnamed income tax law applies to this year only. It was the expiring effort of an administration facing defeat. After this year the tax will be assessed on the actual earnings of the current year.

The imposition is painful this year, but it should be certified as the final application of the radical distribution of wealth theory of the La Follettes.

LAWLESS POLICE.

Police Commissioner Allman is doing an important service to the public and to the police department in pressing for the trial of three policemen responsible for the outrageous treatment of Miss Lilyan Zagel. Miss Zagel was accused of reckless driving resulting in injuries to a child. She was denied her rights under the laws and kept in a station cell all night with a demented woman, in defiance, according to legal opinion, of laws and regulations as well as constitutional guaranties. The accusations against her appear to have little foundation, but even if they were established offer no legal justification for her treatment by officers of the law. There is no place in this country for a cheka and police officers who do not know the limits of their authority or refuse to be bound by them should be removed from the force. There is too much reason for complaint of abuse of police power and an example of swift and stern punishment is needed for the good of the public and the force. There is lawlessness and disrespect for reasonable regulations in this community, but it does not excuse abuse of authority by the guardians of the peace.

PROFITABLE FURLOUGHS.

As a measure of economy in the army and navy it would be entirely satisfactory to permit officers furloughs without service pay to take private employment. In the event of war or when otherwise required by the service, these officers could be called back and assigned to staff work, where they would be exceedingly valuable. If they lost their private employment and returned to service the government would still have saved their pay during the period of furlough.

The experience gained in private enterprise would broaden the training of these officers and many of them would be the better for it upon their return to the service. This is especially the case in the navy if the officers took service in the merchant marine, where they would acquire more experience in navigation than in the naval service, notably near the coast. The navy is compelled to save fuel and also cannot afford to risk its ships unnecessarily in cruising near the land. This restricts actual experience of its officers in navigation of coastal waters, where navigation is most difficult and critical and the greatest possible practice most desirable.

If there had been a leaven of naval officers, merchant trained, in the British navy in 1914-'18, they would have obviated the terror of shallow water that immobilized that overwhelming force far from the coast for four years. It was the merchant training that gave our naval officers in the wars of 1776 and 1812 their vast superiority in seamanship and navigation over those of the seasoned navy of the greatest sea power, just as experience in woodcraft gave our generals dominance over the parade ground and amateur theatricals officers of the English professional army.

Editorial of the Day

THE ARMY CARRIES ON.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

Quietly, smoothly and with an orderly efficiency characteristic of the service the United States army has been and is now occupied with carrying out one of the greatest tasks ever imposed upon it—the conditioning and equipping of 250,000 men for the civilian conservation corps so that President Roosevelt's orders to have the forest "army" in full operation by June 7 may be carried out.

Few outside the military establishment realize what a tremendous responsibility the presidential mandate imposed upon the regular army. Enrollment, examination, and equipment of the men is being carried on at the rate of 8,540 per day, higher than the daily average for the United States during the world war for both army and navy combined.

Yet it is a striking testimonial to the smooth working efficiency of our army that the conditioning is progressing up to schedule in every corps area, and that it is confidently expected all members of the civilian conservation corps will be in camp ahead of the date set by the President.

Nor does the responsibility of the army then end. It is estimated that 5,400 officers will be required for field work alone, and practically all remaining officers on duty in continental United States will be occupied with additional work in connection with the supply and administration of the corps. Beside this, 8,000 enlisted men will be needed to round out the program.

Despite drastic curtailment in appropriations and reduction in personnel, the army has proved itself equal to the task and has not been, nor will it be, compelled to employ civilians to do any of the necessary work in getting the forest camps organized and keeping the men supplied and equipped. This includes every detail, from maintenance of health and sanitation, feeding and clothing the recruits, to supervision and direction of work programs.

The entire project was placed on the army's shoulders without warning and as an emergency matter that had to be handled with utmost speed and precision. No provision was included for outside help despite the magnitude of the undertaking. Perhaps the finest tribute that can be paid to our military men for the magnificent way in which they are carrying through the big job is simply to say that the army is the only institution in the country capable of handling so many thousands of men in such short order without confusion, without delay, without extravagant overhead expense to taxpayers, and without grumbling. It has been a striking demonstration of what rigid discipline, combined with quiet, orderly efficiency, may accomplish in an amazingly short time.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE GOVERNMENT has ruled that the noble red man, or what's left of him, can't have the three point ten beer. Which is as it should be. The ghosts of Geronimo, Sitting Bull, Rain in the Face, Blackhawk, and all the rest of the great chiefs would break off the reservation on the happy hunting ground and come back and start scalping the whites again if they heard that their descendants were drinking three point ten beer instead of firewater.

WE FIND we are a bit pained in the back of the neck to see a big, husky gent leaning back in a rickshaw while a sad-eyed, flat-chested college student in funny bathing trunks drags him up and down the road at the Fair. At least they ought to have auto horns on the chairs and make the riders sound 'em when going around curves. And there ought to be auto cops out there to ride up to a husky gent in a rickshaw now and then and yell, "What's the hurry? Yer pinched fer speedin'," just so's he wouldn't look so darned complacent. That's what gets our goat.

FOR THOSE OLDER.

Let me run and let me fall and do not hear me when I call.

Let me say, when I am older,
when the dawns are grayer, colder,

"I have learned," not "You have taught,"
else the lesson brings me naught.

Let me say it "I have learned";
let me get my fingers burned!

JEANNE DELAMARTER.

NEW SALEM.

It was christened "New Salem," and officially it is New Salem still, although it is very old; although, in fact, it is but the vanishing ghost of a town that no longer exists materially at all, and can be visualized only by visitors of sentiment and imagination.

Its site is a lovely promontory of a hill, overlooking the silver Sangamon—an ideal and entirely unpractical place to build a town. Viewing it in the soft April sunshine, one is inclined to believe its founders must have been artists or altruists; and to wonder,—for the most charitable tradition bestows upon the pioneers no such qualities. Then it occurs to one that New Salem was made to nestle there on its narrow wooded hill in the days before the coming of the railroad and the paved highway; in the days when commerce was routed along rivers; and that, after all, there was, perhaps, a utilitarian urge in the selection of such a site, illogical as it seems now. But, if so, the Sangamon played them false, for it proved a shallow, unnavigable, foppish stream, flirting with the virgin little town, and bringing it nothing but vain promises. The railroad failed it by a few miles, and the paved road by four score of years. So its fate was settled. It could never attain the common ambition of all American towns. There was no chance for it to grow into a metropolis. It dwindled and was gradually deserted, and grew more picturesque and less prosperous year by year. And, at length, it died.

An aura of romance remains about the site of New Salem, augmented by its pastoral peace and glamour, and by its relics—really tangible ghosts—that have been faithfully preserved. The rude log cabin that was once the Rutledge tavern; a replica of the Lincoln-Berry store; sign posts that mark the limits of the village street, its ruts and footprints hidden evermore by generations of greensward. The grave of a street. The ghost of a town that died in its virginal youth, and is chiefly remembered because of its ineffable native charm and chiefly because Lincoln was its citizen in his most formative years . . . At Petersburg, two miles away, Ann Rutledge lies buried; humble, virginal, unwedded, like the town in which she lived. And people who have visited the modern city of Springfield and gazed upon the tomb of Lincoln there will do well to make their way to New Salem and the grave of Ann Rutledge, not far away in miles, but remote as Eden in the journeying of Time, where success and glory never came, but romance perpetually lingers in the legend of a great, unsated love.

New Salem. Perhaps, in a way, misnamed; yet, when cities shall have tottered and monuments crumbled, the grass will still grow fresh and green each April in its sylvan sanctuary, and its memories survive all times and seasons. For, having died in youth, it can never grow old. EOLUS.

IN A SUICIDE'S APARTMENT.

Yes, he has left these clothes he never wore;
Here hangs a suit, there stands a violin,
On that wall hangs a masterpiece of yore,
And here upon this table . . . can't begin
To read these scrawls . . . they're Arabic, I guess;
Some black and gold pajamas idly thrown Across a bed that never did know rest;
He lived for beauty and he died alone.

I can imagine him with cynic's smile,
Drinking a toast to all the gods that be,
Lighting this two-foot pipe and watching pile
Blue smoke clouds on a lost eternity;
Yes, here's a hat, new-cleaned, he'll never doff,
And now . . . who knows . . . he may be better off!

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

ANYHOW, AFTER TODAY one lovely old bromide will be dead. No one within the borders of the grand old commonwealth of Illinois can wail again, "They slipped prohibition over on us without giving us a chance to vote on it."

Moral—All right, here's your chance!

"GERMAN PRINCE Weds Commoner Today."—Headline. All right, all right, but princes are getting commoner, too, these days. Oh, commoner and commoner. Lots of people are getting so they won't go to a night club that hasn't got a prince or at least an earl for doorman. As for washing automobiles, a peer of the realm or a grand duke does a lots better job than a prince. R. H. L.

ON THE ROAD TO CANCER PREVENTION.

WE are approaching the time when we should no longer say of a person "he has cancer." Instead we should specify the kind of cancer he has, since there are as many kinds as there are varieties of arthritis or heart disease, and they vary greatly. Some are easily cured and others are incurable. Some are inaccessible. Cancer is not one disease. It is a group of them, and the answer to more than one question hinges upon the kind of cancer that is under consideration.

In recent years we have learned much about cancers, and some of the information should serve as a basis for further studies. It has been known for some time that a prolonged exposure of the skin to certain oils might cause a kind of skin cancer. It was next decided which oils would cause the trouble and which would not. Then the physical and chemical qualities of the harmful oils were found.

The latest discovery in this series is that the constituent of oils which causes cancer is a substance known as benzpyrene. Nor is oil the only source of this chemical. Chemists can make it from pyrene. It is certain that experimenters will busy themselves producing cancers in lower animals with benzpyrene and then try to find methods of cure.

Another recent discovery is that a certain microbe can cause cancers of a certain kind. Previously it was determined that certain kinds of cancer could be transferred from one animal to another. This discovery shows that the active agent in producing some transferred cancers is a microbe.

Scientists now have choice of several methods of causing experimental cancers. These are the use of benzpyrene or of oils that contain it, the use of certain microbes, transplantation of cancers, and radiation. In addition, cancer susceptible animals can be bred. With choice between so many methods cancer of experimental purposes lies within the reach of all laboratories.

Progress in the cure of cancers goes forward. Dr. John C. Bloodgood at Baltimore has kept records of cancer cases variously treated for so many years that he is able to supply information as to which methods "cure to stay cured" and which can be expected to be followed by recurrence.

The cure of visible cancers should be on a 100 per cent basis. The fatality rate from skin cancers should have fallen to zero. While it is low and going lower steadily, it is still considerably above zero. For this there are several reasons. One is the lack of fear. Many men and a few women are too complaisant about facial blemishes. For one reason or another they neglect face ulcers until, if they are cancerous, the glands are infected. Another reason is the disposition to use poor cures rather than better ones. Some skin cancers can be cured by pastes. But is that any reason for using a method that has 10 per cent of cures when one with more than 90 per cent of cures is available? Another reason is the use of right cures in the wrong way. Poor surgery that leaves some of the growth behind or that scatters some of the infection is one illustration. An inadequate use of X-rays is another. An inadequate or improper use of radium is a third.

The art of using radium for skin cancers has progressed until it approaches an exact science. It is possible to determine within reasonable limits just how much radium is required to cure a cancer in a given location, of a given size, in a given time. If an insufficient dose be given the case may be made incurable.

Knowledge of skin cancers will be followed in time by the knowledge of like kind and efficacy about cancers elsewhere.

FAINTING OR FITS.

M. R. writes: 1. When a person faints is the body always limp and still?

2. Would the fact that a person kicked mean that it was a fit more than a faint?

3. Can persons become epileptic after they reach maturity?

4. Are goiter patients likely to become epileptic?

REPLY.

1. Yes. If the body is not limp a cause other than fainting is to be sought. This is of special significance when diagnosis lies between hysteria and fainting.
2. Probably it would.
3. Yes.
4. Not especially so.

NOT BAD OFF.

J. M. writes: After many years of illness (nervous troubles, etc.) the examination of my urine shows, for the first time, everything normal or about normal except that it is alkaline. What should I eat or drink to improve an alkaline condition of the urine?

REPLY.

If that is your only trouble you are not bad off. To overcome alkalinity of the urine eat more meat, eggs, cereal, and bread. Eat less vegetables and fruits.

ABANDONED COAL YARD.

Chicago, June 1.—[Friend of the People.]—In our neighborhood there is a coal yard which is no longer used. The coal shaft and other structures are falling apart and this not only is an eyesore but dangerous as well. Why not remove or repair this relic before it collapses? F. J. G.

Our inspector reports that the property in question is an abandoned coal yard with screens, elevator and conveying machinery, loading bins, sheds, etc. The premises are enclosed with a fence eight feet high on three sides and elevated right of way railroad tracks. There is a watchman on the premises day and night to prevent any case of vandalism. The owner has been notified to remove all loose sheet iron housing and put premises otherwise in a safe condition. This order will be enforced.

JOHN E. ERICSSON,
Commissioner of Buildings.

CONSTITUTES MALPRACTICE.

Chicago, June 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I retained an attorney, paying him his fee in advance, to file suit for me. He filed suit, but failed to notify me of the date of the trial and failed to appear at the time, so the case was dismissed on account of lack of prosecution. He refuses to take any further interest. 1. Would it be possible to get any kind of action against him? 2. If so, by whom? 3. If he refuses to reopen the case, am I entitled to the refund of the fee paid him, $62.50?

L. M.

1. In our opinion this would amount to malpractice, so that you would be entitled to recover damages.
2. You might first try taking the matter up with the Bar association.
3. Yes.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 5, 1917.

NEW YORK.—Representative John Fitzgerald, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, declared in an address that unless the United States provides three million tons of cargo shipping to her allies within the next eighteen months "the war will be lost."

LONDON.—The Daily Express prints the following from Geneva: "Most of the Swiss towns are now full of Turkish diplomats and deputies, all of whom are seeking to get in touch with the allies with the object of negotiating a separate peace. More Turkish envoys are on the way here, including representatives of the Young Turk party."

CHICAGO.—Capt. Stephen K. Healy, for nearly a quarter of a century a member of the Chicago police force and long regarded as one of the most commanding figures of the department, admitted yesterday on the witness stand that he had taken bribes for the protection of gamblers and grafters. This confession was made at the trial of former Ald. Oscar De Priest in Judge Barrett's court.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Emmons Blaine has furnished a $50,000 souvenir for Americans who register today, consisting of 10,000,000 copies of President Wilson's war message. When it developed that the government presses were too busy to furnish the copies needed Mrs. Blaine offered to pay for the printing and expressage. THE TRIBUNE carriers and corner news stands will distribute 550,000 copies in Chicago this morning.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

Q.—How many states are officially represented or presenting exhibits in the Fair? What are the states so represented?

A.—There are twenty states represented in the official exhibits. They are: Wisconsin, Puerto Rico, Illinois, New York, Iowa, Washington, Ohio, North Dakota, Georgia, California, Indiana, Minnesota, Texas, Missouri, South Dakota, Mississippi, Michigan, Colorado, Florida, and Alaska. Most of the other states are represented by industries and displays of a private nature.

Q.—Is there any place in the Exposition grounds at which one may make arrangements to meet another person or leave messages?

A.—A message exchange service which embodies these features is maintained in the Sears building, just south of the Administration building at the north entrance to the Fair grounds.

Q.—Is there any place in the Exposition where picnics may be held?

A.—Picnic facilities are provided on Northerly island just south of World's Fair beach.

Q.—Is there a lost and found department in the grounds?

A.—Yes, in the General Exhibits building.

Q.—When and where did the idea of A Century of Progress Exposition originate?

A.—On Aug. 17, 1923, Myron E. Adams submitted to Mayor William E. Dever a plan for celebrating the centennial of the birth of Chicago as a corporation.

AN INDIGNANT DEMOCRAT.

Chicago, June 1.—The ultimate in political cynicism and hypocrisy has been reached by the Democratic organization in its plea for support of the entire Democratic judicial ticket as something demanded by loyalty to the national administration. This is indeed a piece of amazing effrontery and an insult to the intelligence of the citizens of Chicago. Such arrogance will, if continued, bring to the Democratic party in Chicago and Cook county a defeat as overwhelming as that deservedly inflicted in recent years by indignant voters upon the Republican party because of its greedy and unscrupulous factions and its clownish leadership. Are the Democratic leaders so stupid as to believe that they have been given carte blanche to advance the interests of selfish factional leaders and ward committeemen at the expense of the public interest?

DISGUSTED DEMOCRAT.

PUERTO RICO.

Chicago, June 1.—In your column inquiry is made what is the English interpretation of "Puerto Rico." It is "rich port," and the name was first used by Ponce de Leon, the romantic first governor of Uncle Sam's Isle of Enchantment in the Caribbean.

There has been some confusion regarding the spelling of Puerto Rico, as some wily politician had changed that to "Porto," which is very antique Spanish, and more Portuguese than Spanish. For that reason congress in 1932 passed a joint resolution directing that we should return to the correct Spanish spelling of the island's name, and thus "Puerto Rico" was readopted and used in all public documents and translations on the island and in the continental United States. WILLIAM D'EGILBERT,
Commissioner Director for Puerto Rico to A Century of Progress.

PAYMENT OF THE DEBTS.

Lima, O., June 2.—It seems very strange to me that in presenting claims for the cancellation or reduction of the allied debts there is little reference made to the confiscated German colonies or the mandates. I do not know the present or future values of the confiscated territories, but there is no doubt if retained they will net several times the total cost of the war. Some of the mandated lands are already proven valuable enough to at least pay the United States all the debt owing by France or England. The Iraq oil field is undoubtedly the richest in the world. Not only would this field repay the international debt but would give us almost a monopoly on the oil production of the world, or at least a great preponderance.

AN HONORABLE JUDGE.

Waukegan, Ill., May 27.—Referring to Judge Hugo M. Friend: So shines an honorable judge in a politics ridden judiciary. G. B. CAIENNE.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Chicago, June 2.—From the point of view of government administration many citizens of all political parties are asking themselves if the present Democratic reign is to be merely a break for the boys, an orgy of patronage and spoils, or if some dignified and creditable redemption of pledges and record of advance in interpretation and application of civil service laws and merit practice will develop.

At the present session of the Illinois legislature none of the well devised bills to strengthen and extend the merit system have been passed out of the civil service committees. Only a month to adjournment now, with a pressure of important measures to be considered. Yet favorable action on no measures would show more responsibility to the principles of good government or be more in harmony with the wishes of the public. The merit law was adopted by a popular vote of two to one, and this choice has since been twice affirmed.

About the civil service of Cook county there are constant reports of the manipulation of merit rules to serve political ends, as the evasion of the holding of examinations and the continued extension of temporary appointments. Is the public expecting a more authentic observance of the civil service code in the city hall? No such assurance can be offered when, as recently, a position was abolished, the merit employé dismissed, and temporary employés appointed who perform these same duties. Just this course has been pursued with the position of head of the bureau of moving picture censors and with the fifty employés of the city license bureau.

MRS. MURRY NELSON,
Chairman Joint Committee for the Merit System.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS.

Carmi, Ill., May 31.—From time to time your paper records the sailing of gold star mothers to visit the graves of their sons. At this time, when many, many other mothers with small children are suffering for the necessities of life, wouldn't it be more sensible and Christianlike to defer these visits until the country is in a prosperous condition? Many of these gold star mothers are, I presume, also drawing pensions. Too often there is an excess of emotionalism and too little common horse sense when the public foots the bill.

A MOTHER.

JAIL BREAK.

Chicago, May 31.—I notice that several murderers and other naughty, naughty boys ran away from the ball game at the Kansas penitentiary. If something could be done to make our well meaning so-called uplifters realize that penal institutions should be places for penal servitude and not centers of high class club life our prisons would not be built and maintained in vain.

MILLION TO GET '32 PERSONALTY TAX SCHEDULES

Compares with 270,000 for 1930.

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs announced yesterday that nearly one million schedules for 1932 personal property will be mailed out this year. Last year 843,000 schedules were mailed for 1931 personal property. In 1931 when the old board of assessors was in office, only 270,000 schedules were sent out for 1930 personal property.

"We have already mailed the schedules to the country towns," Mr. Jacobs said, "and the assessment work is being done there now. The country town assessors are coöperating with us for a uniform assessment. We have also mailed schedules to corporations and these have been returned and are being audited.

"We began the mailing schedules to individuals by sending 30,000 to the residents of Rogers Park on Friday. For the first time, we have 60 men in the field checking the schedules, and we are progressing rapidly with the work of setting up an equitable assessment."

Other Towns to Get Schedules.

After all the Rogers Park schedules have been mailed, schedules will be mailed in order to residents of the towns of North, Lake View, Hyde Park, Jefferson, West, Lake, and South. The schedules will all be out by Aug. 15, the assessor said. It is estimated that 30,000 schedules will go to corporations, 35,000 to estates in the Probate court, 126,000 to unincorporated businesses, and the remainder to individuals.

The new schedules contain for the first time complete information for the taxpayer on how to value his property for assessment purposes. The schedule explains that horses and mules are to be listed at $70 each; dairy cattle at $40 if they are good milkers, and $30 if they are ordinary milkers; sheep at $2.25; hogs at $4, and poultry at 60 cents each.

List Auto Valuations.

In the automobile listing, 1932 models are to be estimated at 60 per cent of the factory price; 1931 models at 40 per cent; 1930 models at 25 per cent; 1929 models at 15 per cent; 1928 models at 7 per cent; and all models of prior years at the owner's valuation, which must exceed $25. Household and office furniture, according to instructions, are to be listed at a fair cash value, which is defined as utility value and not liquidation price.

Watches, clocks, jewelry, radios, musical instruments, and manufactured articles are also to be estimated at the fair cash value. The schedule explains that shares of stock of national banks and state banks, incorporated in Illinois, need not be listed.

SPAIN ON GUARD AGAINST CLASHES OVER CHURCH LAW

MADRID, June 4.—(AP)—Precautions were taken throughout Spain today to prevent religious clashes as a result of the invoking of the new law turning church property over to the state and transforming religious orders into civil societies. Newspapers avoided a direct mention of the excommunication of all Spanish government officials by the Catholic church. However, they commented on the papal and church reaction to the religious law, invoked Saturday, according to their political faiths.

The newspaper Debate published the pope's encyclical fully, as did the newspaper A B C, which pointed out the serious situation created. The Socialista said "the bishops' action is complete hypocrisy." Spanish bishops issued a statement calling the law "a grave outrage against divine rights of the church" and ordered Catholics to keep their children from lay schools.

Congressman Luis Bello, a follower of Premier Azana, wrote in El Sol that "the bishops' document is a declaration of a war which is now open and not concealed as previously." He urged the government to "answer with words or deeds."

A Scholarly Thief Takes Student's Cap and Gown

George Bakke, 26 years old, of Grand Forks, N. D., told police yesterday that his cap and gown were stolen from his automobile at 1100 North Dearborn street Saturday, which he had intended to wear at the graduation exercises of the school of medicine at Northwestern university. The cap and gown had been used by Bakke's father and other relatives.

PITTSBURGH HEIRESS ACCUSES NEW YORK MAN OF BEATING HER

Reno, Nev., June 4.—(AP)—Eugene A. Bowen, former New York restaurant owner, was held in the city jail today on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Miriam V. Hostetter Young of Pittsburgh, heiress to the Hostetter patent medicine fortune.

Police said the attack occurred at an exclusive hotel here several days ago. J. M. Kirkley, chief of police, said Mrs. Young was "covered with black and blue marks."

Rumor linked Bowen and Mrs. Young in a romance when she came here about April 1 and established residence with the announced intention of seeking a divorce from Charles Fuller Young of Pittsburgh. Bowen a week ago announced they were to be married but Mrs. Young issued a denial.

Chief Kirkley revealed he was investigating the disappearance of jewels, later recovered, valued by Mrs. Young at $20,000. Chief Kirkley said Bowen entrusted the jewels to a bartender for safe keeping and that the gems disappeared.

NEW ECONOMY PLAN ADOPTED IN 1933 CITY BUDGET

Pay Appropriations on Man-Month Basis.

In the 1933 city budget, now pending before the city council, the aldermen have written in an innovation by setting up virtually all salary appropriations on a man-month basis. This was done as an economy measure and will enable the city to lay off employés at periods when their services are not needed.

In a large number of the city departments, it has been the practice in the past to set up appropriations for each position separately, on the basis of a yearly salary. Thus in a department having three senior clerks the appropriation would appear in the budget as "senior clerks, three, at $2,480 per annum."

To Be Employed as Needed.

Under the new plan this appropriation appears as "senior clerk, 36 months, $206.66 per month," with the number 3 and a notation that they are to be employed as needed at not to exceed the number specified. The number is specified as a maximum to prevent any department head employing six clerks for six months, thus using up the year's appropriation in one-half that time.

While the budget shows decreased appropriations for many departments, some of the council committees were given additional sums to spend. The health committee was raised from $300 to $4,000 at the request of Ald. John J. Terrell [29th], chairman; the new license committee got $4,000; Ald. David L. Sutton [8th], chairman of the World's Fair committee, requested and was given a raise from $500 to $5,000, and the committee on consolidation, reorganization and taxation, Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman, was raised from $2,400 to $4,800.

Cut Election Commissioners.

Some of the decreases are as follows:

Department.	1933.	1932.
Election commis'ners.	$ 580,847	$ 824,680
Brd. local imp'v'm'ts.	693,232	1,865,150
Bureau of streets	6,377,247	6,876,416
Debt service	2,549,200	3,473,000

Slight increases were made in the appropriations for the police and fire departments, due mainly to the filling of vacancies in the ranks. The police appropriation was increased from $13,962,564 to $14,394,537, and the fire appropriation was raised from $6,255,356 to $6,364,973.

14 DEAD, 116 HURT AS PARIS-NANTES TRAIN PILES UP

NANTES, France, June 4.—(AP)—Fourteen persons were killed and 116 were injured, many gravely, early today in the derailment of the Paris-Nantes express train laden with excursionists on the way to Brittany for the Whitsuntide holiday. The engineer was arrested.

The express was supposed to take a switch to pass the spot where another derailed train was piled up. The engineer is reported to have failed to observe the signals. Then he saw his error, suddenly reversed the engine and applied the brakes. The train left the tracks.

The engineer later admitted that he ran through four "slow" signals at high speed and also neglected to read cautionary orders.

HOMER J. BYRD OF COUNTY BOARD WEDS TEACHER

County Commissioner Homer J. Byrd and Miss Leonore Grethe of Decatur, Ill., were married yesterday at the Presbyterian church in Arlington Heights. The Rev. H. A. Kossack officiated.

Commissioner Byrd is serving his first term as a member of the county board, representing the country towns section of the county. Six years ago, when he was assistant county superintendent of schools, he met Miss Grethe and helped her get a job as teacher. Since then she has been employed at the James Giles school in Norwood Park.

The couple left immediately on a six weeks' honeymoon trip to California, Washington, and Alaska. Upon their return they will reside in Arlington Park.

LARGEST CLASS IS GRADUATED AT NOTRE DAME

Students Urged to Work for New Era.

Notre Dame, Ind., June 4.—[Special.]—Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana today told the graduating class of the University of Notre Dame that "the game is in our own hands; to play it well is all we have to do. Nothing but honesty, harmony, industry, and frugality are necessary to keep us a great and happy people."

The Notre Dame gymnasium, decorated in gala fashion, was packed to its 8,000 capacity to hear Gov. McNutt's commencement address to the 564 members of Notre Dame's 89th and largest graduating class. The baccalaureate sermon was preached this morning by Father Charles E. Coughlin, militant radio speaker. Tonight the crowd saw the awarding of the Golden Jubilee Laetare medal to John McCormack. Alfred E. Smith was chairman of that program.

Urges Life of Study.

"The purpose of education," said Gov. McNutt, "is to teach men how to think, to make them students for the remainder of their lives, students of great books, students of men, students of events. Study most the great and ever changing book, the life of the people around you. If you read that deeply enough, you will see that underneath the greed, the lust, the treachery there is something worth saving."

Gov. McNutt outlined the immediate tasks of government, stressing as foremost the provision of food, clothing, and shelter to the destitute, the aged and the infirm.

Father Coughlin said:

"We have multiplied graduates for 400 years and with all their learning and pedantry they have lived to create a hell upon earth. The last 400 years of education have been devoted to rugged individualism, pride, covetousness, and greed.

"Production should not be for a profit, but at a profit. Christian charity and justice must be restored to end the depression."

Smith Introduces Others.

Al Smith, 1929 recipient of the Laetare medal, introduced James J. Walsh and Margaret Anglin, who spoke respectively of the men and women medalists during the past 50 years. The presentation was made by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university in his first public appearance since he was stricken with a serious throat infection three months ago.

Honorary degrees of doctor of laws were conferred on Father Coughlin and Gov. McNutt.

Gov. Horner of Illinois and Mayor E. J. Kelly of Chicago were among the guests.

Vatican Police Eject Maniac As Pope Saints French Priest

VATICAN CITY, June 4.—(AP)—Pope Pius, in a solemn canonization ceremony in St. Peter's today, bestowed the rank of saint on a French priest, Andre Fournet, founder of the order of Daughters of the Cross. The sisterhood has seven branches in Canada and nine in Argentina. The ceremony was performed in the presence of President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State and Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria.

Twenty-one cardinals, including Cardinal Verdier of Paris, and a hundred prelates surrounded the pontiff as he performed one of the most spectacular and at the same time curious ceremonies of the Catholic church. Tens of thousands of spectators, many of them holy year pilgrims, including hundreds of Americans, crowded the huge basilica.

Harangues Crowd.

The address of canonization was suddenly interrupted by an insane man who made a speech at the top of his voice. The interrupter harangued the amazed crowd and invited them to gather in the Piazza Colonna this evening, where he said he would explain at length his own ideas on life. The pope glanced in his direction in time to see the papal gendarmes hustle the man outside the cathedral. The man was handed over to Roman police, who said he was mentally unbalanced.

Pope Pius entered St. Peter's in formal procession, borne aloft on a portable throne on the shoulders of twelve attendants, with two additional attendants walking beside him and gently stirring the air with enormous ostrich feather fans. Cardinals, prelates, acolytes, Noble guards, Palatine guards and Swiss guards preceded him. His holiness passed through cheering and handkerchief waving ranks of people held back by wooden barriers.

Ask Three Times.

As soon as he arrived at the high altar, descended from the portable throne and took his seat on the fixed papal throne, the canonization began. A cardinal and two prelates approached him, knelt before him, and thrice asked him formally to declare Blessed André Fournet a saint. The first two times the pope responded that they all had first to pray for God's assistance. Prayers and the Litany of the Saints were recited.

When the request was repeated for the third time, the pope signaled for the lofty mitre to be placed on his head, and rose. He declared in a loud voice that Blessed André Fournet be "inscribed in the catalogue of the saints and his memory be celebrated in the universal church every year with pious devotion."

Six silver trumpets were blown by Swiss guards in token of joy, and the choir and the whole basilica burst into song with the "Te Deum," hymn of rejoicing. The bells of St. Peter's rang out, and the bells of the more than 400 churches in Rome echoed their notes.

Gifts of Gratitude.

As a mark of their gratitude for the pope's declaration of canonization, three cardinals, following an ancient ritual, offered his holiness two huge loaves of bread, two little kegs, one containing wine, the other water; three bird cages, one containing two doves, the second two pigeons, and the third a number of small birds of various species; and candles.

This is a revival from the early church, when a priest's congregation presented him with similar objects. The priest took part of the bread and distributed it among the faithful as a communion. The remainder of the bread, the wine, water and fowl were for his own sustenance in lieu of a salary. After the offertory of the mass the pope was borne to his private apartments.

The exterior of St. Peter's was illuminated by thousands of oil lamps tonight, a traditional custom in celebrating canonizations.

FEAR JOCKEYING BY NATIONS WILL RUIN CONFERENCE

Called Biggest Danger by U. S. Delegation.

S. S. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, AT SEA, June 4.—(AP)—The biggest danger facing the world economic conference was described in American delegation quarters tonight as the risk of a stalemate as a result of jockeying for position.

It was explained that all the topics on the agenda of the conference are interrelated, thus presenting a real danger since it is difficult to get an agreement upon one until the others are settled.

To avoid inconclusive maneuvering, the American delegation led by Cordell Hull, secretary of state, hopes that a definite line of prompt action will be carried through.

Some progress in this direction was made in the Washington conversations, the American representatives believe. They feel that much depends upon British coöperation.

As an example of the difficulty involved in the fact that the subjects are interrelated, an official today cited the war debts. Although debts are not formally on the agenda of the parley, the British government contends that a solution of this problem is a prerequisite to economic recovery. The American government, however, takes the position that debts form only part of the problem.

Asked to what extent decisions can be made at the London meeting, an American delegation spokesman said that the British delegation of seven cabinet members would probably have full authority but that the Americans must refer some of the subjects to Washington.

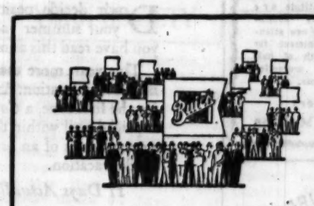
MORE PEOPLE BUY BUICKS THAN ALL OTHER EIGHTS IN ITS PRICE RANGE COMBINED!

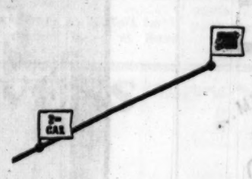
BECAUSE BUICK GIVES MORE AND BETTER MILES



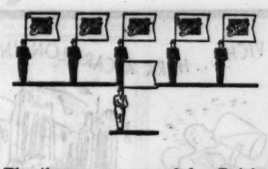
*People look at the eleven eights in Buick's price range, and purchase more Buicks than all of the rest combined.

*Every state in the Union purchases more Buicks than any other automobile priced above $1,000.

Nearly nine out of ten—89 per cent—of the 1,300,000 Buick owners say they will buy Buicks again.



There are 600,000 more people driving Buicks than the next most popular car in Buick's price range.



*Five times as many people buy Buicks as any other car priced above $1,000—sixes, eights, twelves or sixteens.

*Every city with a population of 125,000 or over buys more Buicks than any other car priced above $1,000.

• WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM . . . A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE •

* Based on figures taken from Polk's National New Car Sales Service

Buick wishes to thank the men and women whose demand for Buick cars has made possible this great sales leadership. There can be only one reason for such overwhelming preference for Buick in all parts of the country. People are convinced that Buick is the wise investment—that Buick gives more and better miles. The new Buicks are bound to give better miles. They are surpassingly dependable because they reflect thirty years of experience in fine car building. They have the long wheelbases (119 inches to 138 inches) which assure real riding comfort. And the well-distributed weight (3866 to 4901 pounds) which means ability to hold the road firmly at all speeds. Buick gives more miles, too. The records show that many Buicks continue to serve their owners for more than 200,000 miles. That's reliability—and economy, too. You and your family will find Buick the ideal motor car. And remember—there are twenty Buick models—all moderately priced and all available on the convenient G. M. A. C. time-payment plan.

ESCAPED CONVICT WHO KIDNAPED 12 IS CAPTURED

Kansas Fugitive Seized in Oklahoma.

BULLETIN.

St. Louis, Mo., June 4.—(AP)—Two men, identified by photographs as Billy Woods, 22, and Clifford Dopson, 18, escaped convicts from the Kansas penitentiary, held up a man and a woman at Fredericktown, Mo., today, drove them to St. Louis, and escaped, taking the couple's motor car. Identification of the men was made by McBride Rayfield, a salesman, and Miss Callie Stewart, both of Bonne Terre, Mo.

Chickasha, Okla., June 4.—(AP)—A desperado accused of abducting 12 persons was arrested and Bob Goodfellow, kidnap victim, was wounded in a gunfight today.

Sheriff Horace Crisp said the kidnaper confessed he was Frank Sawyer, 33, bank robber and killer who escaped from the Kansas penitentiary with ten other convicts Memorial day.

Goodfellow was shot through the groin as Sawyer attempted to use him as a shield in a gunfight with Sheriff Crisp and Deputy Sheriff Al Marlow at Binger, near here.

Hold Up Filling Station.

Two men believed by officers to be escaped Kansas convicts held up a filling station west of Mammoth Springs, Ark., fired upon J. D. Bookout, the owner, and kidnaped Cleo Reeves for a short ride.

Reeves said they threatened him with death before throwing him from their motor car. Officers said the gunmen apparently were the ones who kidnaped a man and woman at Pine Bluff, Ark., Friday night, released them at Malvern, Ark., yesterday and drove off in the couple's machine.

Previously two men had forced Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Payne of Monroe, La., to drive them from Monroe to Pine Bluff.

Other kidnapings in Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas have marked the trail of the fugitives from the prison at Lansing, Kas. A bank holdup and various robberies are laid to the convicts.

Second One Recaptured.

Sawyer was the second to be arrested. Lewis Becttel, Kansas bank robber, was captured Friday near Dripping Springs, Okla.

Scattered posses of officers and farmers continued to comb the hills of northeastern Oklahoma and western Arkansas today in hopes of finding other Lansing fugitives.

4 Boys Drowned as Their Boat Is Swept Over Dam

Spokane, Wash., June 4.—(AP)—Their small boat swept over a power dam, four boys drowned in the Spokane river here today. They were: Leon Jackson, 14; Allen Jackson, 12; Robert Wagner, 14, and John Weller, 7. The boat was caught in an eddy and hurled against a retaining wall. The impact plunged boat and boys over a log boom into the racing waters below.

HOWE TO TELL WHY HE DECIDED KITS CONTRACT

Relied on Opinion of Budget Bureau.

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, will explain in detail his part in the award of the contract for toilet kits by Robert Fechner, director of the civilian conservation corps, when he appears tomorrow before the senate military affairs committee.

His testimony will show, he said, today that he had only a small part in the transaction and that he relied on what he thought was an investigation by F. W. Lowrey of the budget bureau, which purported to show that the kits offered by Be Vier & Co. were cheaper than kits of similar quality that could be purchased through the war department.

Introduced by Lawyer.

Mr. Howe will tell how he came to take an interest in the matter.

It has been said that his attention was called to Be Vier & Co.'s offering through a letter of introduction Robert B. Be Vier, president of the company, presented to him from Basil O'Connor, New York attorney, and former law partner of President Roosevelt. Mr. Howe said today that he never received the letter, but that it reached his secretary who, on the basis of this introduction, ushered Mr. Be Vier into Mr. Howe's office.

Referred to Budget Bureau.

Mr. Howe explained that he listened to Mr. Be Vier's proposal to sell a better kit at a cost lower than the army could buy it, could not believe that this could be done, and referred the matter to the bureau of budget for an investigation. The investigation, he said, was presumably made by Lowrey, who sent a letter to Mr. Howe dated May 16. This letter, apparently upholding Mr. Be Vier's contention that superior kits would be furnished by his company, was accepted by Mr. Howe as the result of a thorough investigation.

Accordingly, Mr. Howe signed the letter and forwarded it to Robert Fechner, after it had been approved by the President.

Mr. Howe said today that at no time was he aware that an investigation had not been made by Mr. Lowrey.

Fifty Years Old

St. Patrick's academy, 2303 Maypole avenue, began the observance of its 50th anniversary yesterday morning by the celebration of a jubilee mass in the historic edifice. The Very Rev. Msgr. Joseph Casey officiated at the service. This school, together with many leadini parochial educational institutions, was formed and operated by the Sisters of Mercy, who first came here on the call of Archbishop Feehan. The sisters arrived just fifty years ago yesterday from their house at Nashville, Tenn.

Eight sisters formed the first local community of the order. They established a convent at Oakley boulevard and Park avenue. The 45th academic year of St. Patrick's academy, which has been attended by two generations of Chicagoans, opened in the academy's new home at Touhy avenue and Mannheim road.

NEW YORK GANG WARFARE CLAIMS 350 POUND VICTIM

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—The number of Waxey Gordon mobsters that Dutch Schultz is planting in the cemeteries was enlarged today. Big Bill Oppenheim, 350 pounds, was the victim today.

Oppenheim followed Max Hassel, Max Greenberg, Abe Durst, and Charles [Duke] Brady. He was the third of Waxey's followers killed in forty-eight hours of beer warfare.

Oppenheim, 42, stepped across the tiled flooring of his doorway at Paterson, N. J. A machine gun began chattering. Oppenheim fell.

YOUTH ADMITS KILLING WOMAN IN FARM HOLDUP

Warrensburg, Mo., June 4.—(AP)—Garland Phillips, 21 year old farm youth, sought by posses since Mrs. Eugene Stewart, 50, was shot to death Thursday night in the driveway of her home northeast of Leeton, was captured today in a deserted house a mile from the scene of the slaying.

Three youths surprised Phillips, bound him with ropes and took him by motor to the Johnson county jail here. Sheriff Perry Jones said Phillips confessed.

"I stole some fruit to eat at the Stewart house Wednesday night," the sheriff quoted the youth. "Thursday night I went over again. The Stewarts were away. I found a flashlight and shotgun and decided to hold them up, take their car and leave the country."

The couple returned, he said, and Mrs. Stewart stepped from the car first.

"I pulled the hammer back and hollered, 'Hands up!' the sheriff said Phillips confessed. "I got excited and the gun went off."

Stewart seized the shotgun and Phillips fled. He said he had been without food and water until he was captured.

ALL COSTS SLASHED IN NEW TWO-WEEKS VACATION PLAN

California resorts and transportation lines join in cutting costs drastically . . . placing this glorious vacation within the time and money limits of all for first time.

DON'T decide positively about your summer vacation until you have read this announcement.

This year, more than ever, you need a real vacation. And this year, for the first time, a California trip is placed well within the time and money limits of an ordinary two-weeks vacation.

11 Days Actually Here

Coming by train from where you live, you will have at least 11 days actually in California, and still be home again within your two weeks.

You will enjoy all the most thrilling attractions of this world-famous vacationland, and you will return home with enthusiasm restored, mind stimulated, your whole life enriched by a series of unforgettably glorious experiences.

Sensationally Low Costs

For all this you need spend no more than you would for an ordinary vacation. Normally, costs in California are about 16% under the U. S. average. In the last three years, drastic reductions have brought them still lower. Now, still further important cuts are offered this summer for the first time, bringing a California trip well within the time and money limits of an average two-weeks vacation.

Not an Escorted Tour

This is not an escorted tour. You go as you please. But for your convenience—and to show you how easily such a trip can be made—an entire vacation of this kind has been outlined from start to finish in specific detail, based on the attractions which thousands of visitors have told us appeal most to them.

This typical itinerary has been prepared for you by the All-Year Club, Southern California's non-profit community organization serving vacationists.

It tells in day-by-day detail all the things you'll want to see and do. Takes you, in word and picture, from your home to California, then up and down the length and breadth of this area's fascinating playgrounds . . . and back home again. Shows how to arrange transportation so that you can make the trip within two weeks. (You can of course take more time, use whatever transportation you prefer or vary the trip in any way you like.)

All costs are itemized. Nothing is left to your imagination. Thus you can plan ahead of time exactly what you want to see and do, and what it will cost.

At the right are suggested just a few of the experiences that will be yours—at unbelievably low cost. We sincerely believe that no other vacation plan gives you so much within the same time and cost.

Opportunity May Not Be Repeated

Don't delay. Prices may never be so low again. And this year you owe it to yourself and your future to take a real vacation . . . to get clear away from routine scenes and experiences. We have the word of thousands of experienced world-travelers that Southern California offers the vacationist a greater variety of attractions . . . more to see and do and remember . . . than any other single resort area anywhere.

Rainless Days, Cool Nights

Here summer days are clear and rainless, summer nights so cool you'll sleep under blankets. You'll swim in exhilarating Pacific surf, sail to gay pleasure-isles, climb forested mountains, tour palm-lined boulevards, explore ancient Spanish Missions and Old Mexico herself, mingle with the stars in Hollywood, and find every sport—at its sportiest. Each day a glorious new adventure!

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

Chorus of 6,000 Sings 'Messiah' with Majesty

Orchestra of 1,400 Also Heard at Fair.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Music as it was given at A Century of Progress yesterday was to be measured almost by army corps rather than the conventional organizations of the winter season. In the afternoon there was a performance of "The Messiah" with 6,000 singers in the chorus; in the evening the national high school orchestras, who for two days before had been holding their annual contest in Elmhurst, massed until there were 1,400 of them and gave a concert. Both events took place in the vast court of the Hall of States.

It takes an audacious imagination to conceive putting together such enormous bodies of musicians, and more audacity to conceive the possibility of their working together in anything like unison. But in this, as in other spacious undertakings, fortune favors the brave. Those who went to the Hall of States yesterday learned both that such things can be done with majestic, impressive sweep and that the great court is a good place to hear music. Even off at the extreme corners on the west, melodies, words, too, came across with complete clarity, and at times with great power.

"The Messiah" performance came through the efforts of the Choral Directors' union. Some 240 choirs and choral organizations were there, not only from Chicago but from the suburbs, from the states around Chicago, from as far away as Detroit.

George Lee Tenney conducted with great success. Principles of expansion were applied in all directions. The only normal sized unit was the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and even that body was augmented to 100 men. Instead of individual soloists, groups of soloists were employed. Until you have heard twenty-five coloratura sopranos sing "Rejoice Greatly" with all its florid ornamentation, or twenty-five basses sing "The Trumpet Shall Sound" with four expert trumpeters to illustrate the words, you have missed some of the possibilities of "The Messiah," and when 6,000 choristers boomed out "For Unto Us a Son Is Born," and again the famous "Hallelujah" chorus, they became the musical thrill of a whole series of years.

Fifteen states were represented when the massed high school orchestras got together in the evening. As a matter of fact there were two massed orchestras, classes A and B, the division having been made less because of the merits of the players than of the size of the schools from which they came and the compositions which they had prepared.

Each orchestra took half of the program and each number was conducted by a different musical director. Among those who took the baton were Joseph E. Maddy, director of music of the University of Michigan; Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y.; Charles Righter of the University of Iowa, O. E. Dalley of the University of Wisconsin, and two Chicagoans, George Dasch, conductor of the Little Symphony, and Edward Meltzer, conductor of his own band.

A stirring climax was reached when Dr. Hanson took the organization through the third movement of Tschaikowsky's sixth symphony at a tempo that rivaled that of the most expert professional orchestras. Some of the other numbers were Henry Hadley's May Day dance, two brief bits of Beethoven, and the overture to Glinka's opera "A Life for the Czar." Altogether it was a program well calculated to test the tone, ability, and discipline of the young players and they met the test with fine serenity.

The high school band of El Reno, Okla., which has been playing well on the Exposition grounds for several days, will give two concerts today, the first at 11:30 o'clock in the court of the Hall of Science, and second at 6:15 at the Roosevelt road entrance. The Mundy choristers, a highly capable Negro organization directed by James A. Mundy, will sing on the lagoon barge south of the Administration building in the evening at 8 o'clock.

U. of I. Commencement to Open This Evening with Senior Class Ball

Urbana, Ill., June 4.—[Special.]—Approximately 900 couples will participate in the annual senior ball at the University of Illinois tomorrow night, which will open commencement week activities.

Senior Class day will be held Saturday morning with J. H. Rickerman, Godfrey, Ill., as valedictorian and Miss Placide Daues, St. Louis, the salutatorian; baccalaureate services will be held next Sunday with Rabbi Solomon B. Freehof of the K. A. M. temple, Chicago, delivering the address.

Commencement exercises for the Chicago departments will be held Friday morning and for the Urbana-Champaign departments on Monday morning, June 12. Approximately 2,200 degrees will be conferred.

The 1933 Edward L. Ryerson $1,200 scholarship for travel and study of architecture in Europe has been awarded to H. P. T. Tideman, 2011 Bradley place, Chicago, a senior in the University of Illinois, who will be graduated next week, according to word received here today. Tideman designed a music festival building for the ground adjoining the planetarium in Grant park, Chicago, in competition with architecture students from five other universities.

N. U. Students Woo Downtown Theatergoers with Good Show

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

It seems that if the professionals of the stage cannot open up Chicago's ghost theaters for a World's Fair fling the amateurs are ready to take a chance at this form of rescue work. At any rate, this explains last night's première at the Studebaker of a collegiate frolic called "Hats Off," which truthfully announces itself as the only musical comedy in town.

This amusement originated at Northwestern university some months back and now deserts its cheering classmates with an ambition to woo the exacting downtown playgoer. It is a student affair from principals to chorus, but since its campus birth pangs it has had professional stage direction. Its equipment of costumes and scenery carries a certain degree of big league theatrical atmosphere, and its performance is what might be expected from a group of well drilled young amateurs who have taken to the footlights in the spirit of a college lark.

The right thing to say about "Hats Off" is that it is a good college musical show. Its libretto, which follows a standard formula, makes sense; its many tunes have a pleasant tinkle; and its chorus girls [all co-eds] go through their paces with an eagerness to imitate their more supple, if less educated, professional sisters.

The story of the piece deals with the appearance at a certain mythical university, named Milton, but resembling Northwestern, of Princess Margot of Mudlavia. The presence of this royal maid in the student body throws the faculty into brainstorms, flutters the sorority houses, wrecks havoc with the football team, and causes a young man with a pleasant tenor voice named Charles Apley [the best player in the cast] to break out into ballads worthy of the microphone.

Mild satire of alleged characteristics of Alma Mater runs through the show. The football team, for example, is depicted as a gang of uncouth "dese-and-dose" men, jealous of the publicity that Princess Margot is getting. To win its way back into the newspapers, the desperate eleven goes out and marries eleven taxi dancers. The coach of the squad is acted by James Evans, a Wildcat of the championship 1931 team, who is said to enjoy All-American rating. And is he tough!

"Hats Off" is the Studebaker's first stage offering since the week of Feb. 28, 1932, when Maude Adams and Otis Skinner appeared there as co-stars in "The Merchant of Venice."

"The Piccoli," Signor Podrecca's marionette company from Rome, ended its stay at the Erlanger theater suddenly last Saturday night. Another week's performances had been announced, but a refusal of the musicians' union to grant concessions in the wage scale caused impresario S. Hurok to close the engagement.

"HAT'S OFF."

A musical comedy by Northwestern university students, given in the Studebaker theater June 4, 1933. Libretto by Rollin Laughner, score by Charles Dietz. Management of Joe W. Miller.

Garden Club of America Opens Convention in Chicago Today

Visit to Art Institute Loan Exhibition, Tea and Buffet Supper Constitute Social Program.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVER since the middle of last week the women who are to attend the annual meeting of the Garden Club of America this week in Chicago have been arriving, for no organized visits to A Century of Progress are included in the program, and so those who want to see the Fair have planned to see it either before or after the meeting, which convenes today and lasts through Thursday. Husbands would be rather excess baggage during the first four busy days of this week to the 500 women who will be here, so only a few of them are accompanying their gardening wives, but many of them are coming here to join their wives on Friday and "take in" the Fair then.

The Garden Club of America is a very swanky organization, we would have you know, in case you aren't "in the know" about it, and its annual meetings are not in the least like conventions. Each garden club affiliated with the Garden Club of America—they are elected to membership just as individuals are elected to an exclusive club—is eligible to send delegates according to its size and no extra, unaccredited delegates are welcome, at least that is our understanding of the situation. Howsoever, beginning at 9:30 o'clock this morning, five hundred women from all parts of the country will register at the headquarters in the Drake and the annual meeting, at which the Garden clubs of Evanston, Kenilworth, and Lake Forest are hostesses, will be under way. Most of the delegates are staying at the Drake, although some are visiting friends in town or on the north shore. There is to be little private entertaining, for there will be no time for it, but many delightful entertainments are included on the program of entertainment.

Delegates to View Loan Exhibition at the Art Institute Today.

This afternoon there is to be a visit to the loan exhibition at the Art institute, followed by tea at 5 o'clock, and this evening at 7:30 o'clock there will be a buffet supper at the Shedd aquarium with Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, daughters of the late John G. Shedd and Mrs. Shedd, as hostesses. There will be an opportunity for the guests to see the lighting at the Fair later tonight.

A few of the many who are here for the meeting are the president of the Garden Club of America, Mrs. Jonathan Bulkley of New York, and her daughter, Mrs. Francis Fitz Randolph, who are at the Drake; Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne of Millbrook, N. Y., and Santa Barbara, Cal., who is arriving today and will be the house guest of the Potter Palmers, who already have visiting them their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Lewis Thorne (he is Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne's grandson) of Millbrook, Mrs. George C. Christian of Minneapolis, and Mrs. James Barnes of Princeton, N. J., who will be with Mrs. Howard C. Phillips of Winnetka, president of the Lake Forest Garden club (Col. Barnes is coming, too, to visit Mr. Phillips); Mrs. Randall Morgan of Philadelphia, Mrs. Harold Irving Pratt of Long Island, Miss Mabel Choate of New York, Mrs. Ralph Griswold of Pittsburgh, and Fletcher Steele, the well known landscape architect, who all will visit the Walter S. Brewsters in Lake Forest. Mr. Steele is one of the few men members of the club.

Mrs. George A. McKinlock to Have Several Guests from the East.

Mrs. George A. McKinlock will have as her guests during the meeting Mrs. Christopher Smithers of Long Island and Mrs. Willey Lyon Kingsley of Rome, N. Y., and for part of the time Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia and Palm Beach, and Mrs. Edward Hutton of New York. Mrs. McKinlock is president of the Palm Beach Garden club and one of Lake Forest's most enthusiastic lady gardeners.

In the long list of aristocratic and distinguished names of women and places that we saw Saturday none impressed us more than that of Mrs. Edward H. McKeon of Come-by-Chance, Eggleston, Md. Hasn't that the most delightful, casual sound? It must be a charming place with a charming mistress; don't you think so?

Mrs. Walter Ayer's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Williams, are arriving today for the Garden club meeting and will be at the Fortnightly during their week's stay here. Their neighbors in Bedford Hills, Westchester county, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. F. Leonard Kellogg, also are coming and also will be at the Fortnightly.

Mrs. Stanley Field is in charge of arrangements for the reception to be held this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock to open the Hall of the Races of Mankind in the Field museum, and that it will be a notable occasion with every one [except the members of the Garden Club of America, perhaps] who counts socially present, goes without saying. Malvina Hoffman, who did the sculptures that illustrate the Races of Mankind, is to be in the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Field. Miss Hoffman in domestic life is Mrs. Samuel Grimson of New York, and Mr. Grimson, who accompanied her on her extensive travels to get the anthropological specimens required for the sculptures, is here for the reception today, too. Also Miss Hoffman's sister, Mrs. William Draper.

Another noted sculptor who is in the city is Alexander Archipenko, who arrived yesterday for a week's stay. He is at the Pearson, but if he accepts all the invitations for luncheon and for dinner that we heard this lion of the artistic and social worlds has received, he won't eat anything but breakfast at the hotel while he is here. Tomorrow night Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick is giving a buffet supper for him. How small or large it will be she didn't know on Saturday, for she said

Miss Catherine Weary of Winnetka was as chaming as usual yesterday as she sat on an automobile bumper to watch the opening of the polo season at Oak Brook. A goodly crowd of society folk was present.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—Vicomtesse Edgar de Bresson and her son, Vicomte Chauncey Depew de Bresson of Paris, who had been at the Plaza, sailed on the Champlain. The vicomtesse is the former Miss Anne Hegeman, niece of the first Mrs. Chauncey Depew.

Mr. and Mrs. Barent Lefferts will give a dinner dance on June 23 at Head-of-the-Harbor, their country place in St. James, L. I., for their daughter, Miss Lysbet Lefferts, and Philip Golden Bartlett, who will be married the next day.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Flynn have left the Barclay for their new home in Greenwich.

Mrs. George B. Wellington has gone to Old Bennington, Vt., for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Moffett have opened their summer home at East Hampton.

New White Handbags May Be Kept Fresh Easily

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Two kinds of white handbags are available that will whirl through a busy summer season and be as spotless the last day they are used as the day they were bought. They are the wooden bead affairs and the white pigskin. Both of them take kindly to soapsuds or a damp cloth and both materials will wear surprisingly well.

If you spent last summer mending your wood beaded bag, you fully and thankfully appreciate these new models, for the beads are anchored securely by weaving them into the lining or base fabric. White pigskin bags are stunning and some white patent leather numbers are as slick to carry as they are easy to keep white and smartly in place under your shopping elbow.

Some flat envelope affairs in a rigid style are decorated with a huge shiny ball of chromium as a clasp and a capacious interior that can be opened wide and flat is something to cheer about. Chromium initials can be placed on the white exterior to good advantage.

There are any quantity of these wooden bead bags in other colors. The new shades of gray are mighty interesting and the blues, reds, and yellows and deep brown tones can be used all summer long with any cotton frock or suit you own.

Thick, nubby, white, tweedy looking cotton fabrics have been used for some exceedingly effective white and colored summer numbers. And even the practical, persnickity gal will approve of them and buy them, for they are easily cleaned with a trick prepared cleaner that keeps them immaculate.

Some Unknown Woman

By Elisabeth Sanxay Holding

SYNOPSIS.

Dinah Allen and Jane Rosslyn are roommates in a Manhattan boarding house. Dinah, from the south, envies and imitates Jane's air of mystery and sophistication. Jack Fiske, a young boarder from Vermont, is head over heels in love with Dinah, who considers him just a hick. Dinah and Jane stroll to the corner drug store for sodas. A good looking young man in a silk hat, not quite sober, invites the girls for a ride in his car. To Dinah's surprise Jane accepts for both of them. He takes them to his home. Dinah soon finds herself left alone, with Jane's purse instead of her own. In Jane's purse Dinah finds an automatic pistol. All the lights are turned out. Dinah rushes for the door and is grabbed by strong arms. She shoots. Jane reappears. She rushes Dinah away from the scene of their host lying in a pool of blood. Next morning the papers carry the story of the murder of Philip Divine, Broadway playboy, and said there were two bullet wounds. Jane and Dinah saw a tall, dark man with a mustache as they left Philip Divine's house. Jane recognizes Jack Fiske's sterling qualities and tries to bring Dinah and him together. Jane admits to Dinah that she knew Philip Divine before and that she also shot him. Dinah has a caller. He introduces himself as Pierre Baron. He is the tall, dark man with the mustache. Baron tells Dinah that Divine was secretly married to Jane. Dinah resents his hatred of Jane and doesn't trust Baron. She tells him it was she who shot Divine. Jane confesses to Fiske that she shot Divine and that she'd brought Dinah to his home. Jane's efforts to shield Dinah win Jack's admiration. Jane leaves not telling Dinah or Jack where she is going. Baron's sister, Jerry, a dancer, calls in search of Jane. She claims to have been married to Divine. She expects to frighten Jane into supporting her claim. Divine's widow will collect an inheritance. She moves in with Dinah. Jerry and her dancing partner, José Chavel, conduct a little blackmailing plot against Dinah and Fiske.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE.

"I've thought it all out. . . ." Fiske said, and, looking at him, her new insight into other hearts, so dearly bought by her own suffering, made Dinah realize through what sleepless hours, in what fear, he had 'thought it all out.' "She's never going to tell the truth."

"You mean. . . But you can't mean you think that Jane would do anything so cowardly and cruel as to run away and leave me to face this alone? If you do think that—I'm ashamed of you."

"It happens to be true," said he. "When you told her you'd seen Baron, she knew the end was coming. And she got out Dinah, don't you see. . . ?"

Dinah pushed back her chair and rose.

"I thought—you were fond of Jane," she said.

"Fond of her?" said Fiske. "It's—something more than that. . . I never knew there was any one like her. I . . . As far as I'm concerned, she's——"

"If you mean that you love her," said Dinah, steadily, "then it's a love that just isn't worth having. If you don't trust her——"

"O, for God's sake, can't you see . . . ?" he cried, raising himself. "She's—I'm going going to try to do—what she wants. If it takes every cent I've got—no matter what it means, I'm going to try to keep this thing quiet. That's what she wants."

"It's not what I want," said Dinah, curtly. "I'd like to go to the police myself—this very morning, and tell them . . . I'd do anything to get out of this horrible, shameful situation. I should not mention Jane at all. I'd just say that I'd—shot him—by accident——"

"And you know dam' well that the moment that got into the papers, Jane would come back."

"Well, what of it? She shot in self-defense——"

"She didn't," said Fiske.

"What—do you mean?" asked Dinah, in a whisper.

His face had grown white.

"I—I'm sorry I said that——"

"What do you mean?" she repeated.

When she mounted the steps of Mrs. Cotter's house she went in dread, not knowing what would meet her in there.

"I . . . You see—if the police did question you," he resumed, in a voice which he intended to sound calm and reassuring, "they'd be sure to find out about Jane. You wouldn't mean to tell them—but you'd have to. And——"

"I'm sorry," she interrupted. "I've got to go now, or I'll be late." Her blue eyes were cold now, and scornful. "If that's what you think. . . Good-by!"

She left the house in a mood of bitterness foreign to her nature.

"So that's his 'love'?" she thought. "He believes that Jane—is a murderess, that she shot her husband deliberately. Jane! . . . And he's nobly going to stand by her."

Unbidden, there came to her mind the image of Pierre Baron. He, too, had been convinced of Jane's guilt, but his one idea had been to keep Dinah out of it.

"No," she thought. "That's only what he said. He didn't mean it; not one word. He's Jerry's brother. He went with Jerry to the district attorney's with that story about her being Mrs. Divine, when he knew it was a lie. He told me Jane was Philip Divine's wife. . . No! He was only playing some game of his own. He doesn't care what happens to me."

It occurred to her that none of the actors in this drama cared what happened to her. Certainly not Jerry or Chavel, or Baron, Fiske very little. And Jane. . . .

"Jane does care!" she cried to herself.

And then she thought that, after all, there was something splendid in a love like Fiske's, a love that took no account of guilt, that made no reckoning, that counted no cost. It would warm the most forlorn and chilly heart, to be loved like that.

But there was nothing like that for her. She went to the office and did her work as well as she could, tried not to look forward to the abyss so close now to her feet, tried not to look back upon those days in which, so short a time ago, she had been so untroubled, so much happier than she had known.

It was Saturday and she went back to Mrs. Cotter's to lunch, and on the way bought a newspaper. There was nothing further about the Divine case; no new facts, only the same promise of "startling revelations," and a repetition of yesterday's news of a secret marriage. But there was a new photograph of Divine, and it was anguish to see it, that laughing face.

"If this would only, only end. . ." she thought. "I'm willing to pay for what I did. . ."

She was paying. Every waking hour was clouded with remorse, apprehension, and misery. When she mounted the steps of Mrs. Cotter's house, she went in dread, not knowing what would meet her in there.

But the dingy house was quiet enough; her room was empty, and so orderly and peaceful that she hated to leave it, even to go down to lunch. Perhaps she would find Jerry in the dining room.

Jerry was not there, though, or Fiske either. She had her lunch in blessed quiet and then went up to her room again.

"I think I'll go to sleep—while I can," she said to herself, with a yawn.

There was nothing else in the world to which she could look forward now, except to sleep and to forget. She had just slipped off her dress when the mutinous and consistently disobliging servant called from the hall outside:

"Miss Allen! Miss Allen! You're wanted—on the 'phone."

Jerry above all. She put on her dress and ran downstairs to the telephone.

"Miss Allen? . . . This is José Chavel. . . Are you too very busy?"

"For what?" asked Dinah, cautiously.

"I want very much to speak to you. It is important—for you. I have wanted to speak before—only Jerry is always there. She is home now?"

"No!" Dinah answered, reluctant, in her profound distrust of the man.

"You know where she has gone?"

"No!"

"Then she may return any moment. . . ? Miss Allen, will you meet me——?"

"I can't!" said Dinah, hastily.

"It is important—for you," Chavel repeated. "I do not want to say very much on the telephone. . . And when Jerry is there. . . I tell you the truth! I am afraid of Jerry. I make pretense to do what she likes—but in my heart—no! If you will talk to me, please——"

"I can't!" said Dinah, again.

"But it is important—for you—and Miss Rosslyn! This thing that Jerry tells you. . . As for me, I can't stand it to be so any longer. I wish that you know the truth. . . And I am the one who knows. Not Jerry. Only I."

Dinah was silent for a time. She could not understand his motives, but she was sure they were discreditable.

"Anyhow, things couldn't be any worse," she reflected.

"Will you meet me here at my hotel?" he went on. "It's only a little way from you. And we can talk without being disturbed."

She went up to her room again, put on her hat and powdered her nose, mechanically. Never before in her life had she cared so little how she looked.

BY MARY MEADE.

I'm doing something today—and getting away with it—that even an intrepid foods editor would have choked on twenty years ago. The matter before the house is frozen desserts for young runabouts—a title that not so long ago would have raised whoops of protest from nutritionists and shocked the very household gods. But among other things that research folk in food have found out in recent years is the fact that even romper-age youngsters can enjoy the goodness of ice cream—or something very like it—if they are taught the game of sipping it slowly, are presented with it as a regular part of their meal, and are not offered the richer, grownup types, but desserts planned and frozen specially for their own critical young palates.

Likely our main rule in selecting these cold desserts for young folks would be to turn our backs on too much fat, and instead ring in fruits and fruit juices, gelatin, milk and perhaps even cereal. And if you don't believe it can be done—take a look at the following and then try it out on your refrigerators. Small boys and girls love it—if hungry parents don't eat it all up first.

FROZEN RICE WHIPPET.

1 cup strained peach, prune, or apricot pulp.
¼ cup sugar.
1 cup cooked rice.
½ cup whipping cream.

The fruit should have been stewed, drained and forced through a sieve. While the pulp is still hot, add the sugar and rice. Cool and fold in the cream, whipped stiff. Turn the mixture into the freezing tray of a mechanical refrigerator and freeze 2 to 2½ hours. Six servings will come forth from this recipe, and since it has a deal of food value in it, I suggest that you serve it after a light noontime meal rather than as the finale of a nighttime dinner.

Frozen peaches are something you can make equally well with a mechanical freezer, a hand freezer, or simply a good stout bucket.

FROZEN PEACHES.

1 No. 3 can peaches.
Freezing facilities.

If you are using a refrigerator, open the can and turn the contents into the tray and freeze without further ado. Cut in squares when frozen and serve as a dessert or a salad. Or if you use ice and salt, mix them in the proportions of 3 parts of ice to 1 part of salt and pack the can of peaches, unopened, in the freezing mixture. Let stand 3 hours. Then open the can, dip it quickly in warm water, and turn out into a serving dish. To serve, simply cut in round slices.

But peaches can't claim all the glory. Any fruit with a medium rich sirup will do. Freeze mixed salad fruits and you have a frozen fruit salad in literally the turn of the wrist.

Milk sherbets are other desserts beloved by youngsters. Raspberry, pineapple, or peach sherbet result when we substitute milk for water in a standard sherbet or water ice. Either the canned or fresh fruits may be made use of. Try this one as a starter:

STRAWBERRY SHERBET.

1 cup water.
1 tablespoon level granulated gelatin.
¼ cup additional water.
1-3 cup orange juice.
1½ cups strawberry juice.
1 cup evaporated milk.

Cook the sugar and 1 cup of water together for five minutes. Meanwhile add the gelatin to the ¼ cup water and let soak five minutes. Add the soaked gelatin to the sugar sirup. When dissolved, cool the mixture and then add the fruit juices and the unwhipped milk. Turn into a refrigerator tray and freeze.

Jigsaw Effect Seen in Amusing Quilt Pattern

Cleopatra's Puzzle.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Cleopatra's Puzzle" is another outgrowth of the popular Drunkard's Trail, but with little semblance to the original. The designer has produced an unusual and attractive pattern by jigsawing the pieces of the puzzle to the right and left. You will find it an interesting one to piece, and simple too.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at The Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Good Morning!

Borrowing titles from best sellers and tacking them to pictures that bear no resemblance to the books appears to be extremely à la mode these days. "Looking Forward" was one example of this procedure. "I Cover the Water Front" is another.

When I heard that Max Miller's book of essays on the life of a California water front reporter was to be movieized, I couldn't see, for the life of me, how it could be done. It hasn't been done. As you view the picture you'll wonder if you really read the book—or if your memory is completely deserting you.

Well, you DID read the book and there's nothing wrong with the brain. For, while this picture has a water front reporter as hero, in all other ways it is a law unto itself.

You will find the piece an interesting program melodrama because of the acting and the chance provided to behold the late Ernest Torrence in his final characterization. A masterly portrayal! Sunk, now, in the mysterious Silence—Ernest Torrence—but he sure went down with flags flying and bands playing!

The story, as screened, concerns the smuggling of Chinamen into a California port. Mr. Torrence played a bearded, sinister, tobacco chewing, boozing fisherman, whose shark and tuna angling is only a cloak for nefarious activities. Eli Kirk's only redeeming trait is his love for his pretty, motherless daughter, who, in turn adores the bad old man.

As water front reporter it becomes Mr. Ben Lyon's fate to love the daughter and get hep to the dad. A pickle, indeed, for a well meaning young news hound to find himself in . . . !

Before he falls for daughter, he's had a line on the smuggling story, and his plot WAS to get the goods on Kirk by courting Kirk's child. He had, of course, not reckoned on the maiden's lure, or calculated on being jilted by his fiancée in the east . . .

Much variegated fracas ensues, ending in a scene that sends you away happy—that is, supposing it doesn't take TOO much to make you happy.

Dialogue is pretty banal—and you will be bored by the oft repeated wrangles between the reporter and his city editor.

Script writers really should have a year's practical newspaper experience. They'd be surprised!

You'll like Ben Lyon a lot as Joseph Miller. He has matured splendidly and acts his sometimes foolish rôle in sincere and workmanlike fashion. Claudette Colbert is ornamental and appealing as the smuggler's daughter. Hobart Cavanaugh as a perpetually tipsy newspaper man out of a job, does well enough in a part that cries for either Roland Young or Charles Ruggles. Minor parts are capably handled.

Photography is good, but not what it might have been. Here was a chance for some remarkably beautiful shots.

However, all in all, I think you will find "I Cover the Water Front" good average entertainment.

QUALITY: Fair—minus.
ACTING: Boisterous.
MUSIC: Several pleasing songs with "Sing to Me" outstanding. Ensemble numbers are interesting.
DIRECTION: Eccentric.
STORY: Wild affair re Willy Nilly and Hercules Glub, who are delegated to the Geneva peace conference by the chief of an Indian tribe. The boys meet a snag in the person of the representative of a bullet manufacturing company. In the familiar Wheeler and Woolsey fashion they gum up the works. Result—they find themselves back in the good old U. S. A., conscripted to fight . . .
AUDIENCE APPEAL: None so far as I'm concerned.
See you tomorrow!

It's Algonquin Weather; Camp Opens June 20

Gifts Needed to Meet Initial Expenses.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Typical "Camp Algonquin" weather settled down over Chicago yesterday, magnifying already soaring temperatures in the congested, treeless streets where the poor people live.

"Camp Algonquin" weather is the term Mrs. Astrid Save, superintendent of the summer haven for underprivileged mothers and their children, has given the first real hot wave of the season. When this hot wave comes along she knows that the first of her 1,800 summer guests will leave the city shortly to find comfort in the cool, shady acres of the Fox river camp. The "Camp Algonquin" brand of weather is also the signal for the camp reporter to remind TRIBUNE readers that their gifts are needed again this year to help finance these summer vacations.

The Camp Algonquin fund will start from scratch this year, which means that old friends will need to hurry their gifts along so that the expenses of the first group leaving Chicago on June 20 will be paid for. These contributions should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

How efficiently the camp is operated may be gleaned from the report of last year's activities prepared by Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities. The United Charities operates the camp, the financial support coming in most part from TRIBUNE readers.

"Last summer we provided 1,879 outings of two weeks each for mothers and children who were dependent on the United Charities for their support," Mr. Hunter's report said. "This was accomplished at a cost of $15,628 for the entire summer, an average cost of 60 cents a day for each. The smallness of the cost was due to the large number of volunteer workers, provision of free transportation by the Chicago and North Western railroad, and the excellent business management of Mrs. Save.

"From a health standpoint the camp could not have had a more complimentary record. We went through the entire summer without a single case of contagion."

Mr. Hunter pointed to the report of the Harlowarden section of the camp as a testimonial to the good the camp accomplishes. This section is composed of undernourished children from the stock yards district. They remain all summer under medical, dietetical and nursing care provided by the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial fund.

"The average gain in weight of the 86 children in the group was 3.9 pounds for the summer," he said. "Twenty of the girls gained nearly five pounds, while the same number of boys gained four and a half. They all went back to the city in much better health than when they came to us."

Because funds are needed in order to open the camp, readers are urged to send today, if possible, their annual contributions to the Camp Algonquin fund.

A check for $25.20 will send a mother and her two children to the camp for fourteen days. That total will provide her and her children with three nourishing meals—the vegetables and milk they seldom have in plenteous amounts at home. It will make possible boat trips, fishing, hiking, tennis, swimming, and long, long hours of sleep, undisturbed by thundering elevated trains and lumbering trucks.

Contributions will acomplish all this. A dollar, five, a hundred will help, but the sooner sent the fund the better for those making plans for the tenement families. Every gift will be acknowledged publicly in the columns of this newspaper.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Donnellon Love of Colonia, N. J., announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaretta Donnellon, to George H. Stanwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bannon Stanwood of Chicago, which took place Saturday morning at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Robert W. Elliott of the Church of the Holy Comforter, Rahway, N. J., officiating. Mr. Stanwood is a graduate of Rutgers university, class of '24, and he will bring his bride to Chicago to live.

she was inviting her guests in the most informal way—just inviting those whom she saw who she thought would be interested in meeting the Ukranian sculptor.

Mr. Archipenko is stopping in Chicago to see the Fair and to help Miss Helene Gaulois, one of his prize pupils, arrange the exhibition of his works which is to be shown at the Ukrainian pavilion this summer.

Mrs. Chadwick, by the way, is planning to be in Chicago for the early summer, but later she will be off for her annual summer hegira to Europe while Mr. Chadwick goes fishing.

Grandson Is Nicest Anniversary Gift.

The very nicest wedding anniversary present Dr. and Mrs. Horace A. Bridges received last Friday was a bouncing grandson, their first, David Parker Bridges, who was born that day at Henrotin hospital. Young David and his mother, Mrs. Leonard Bridges, are getting along splendidly and young Mr. Bridges is as proud as every young father is of his first born, especially when it is a son. The younger Mrs. Bridges is the former Elizabeth Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Stanley Parker of Winnetka. Dr. and Mrs. Bridges celebrated their 27th wedding anniversary last Friday and Leonard Bridges is the eldest of their sons.

In today's mail friends of the former Elizabeth Warren will receive announcements of her marriage to Richard Daniell Bolster on Saturday, June 3, in West Newton, Mass. The wedding took place in Fuller chapel of the Second church in Newton at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Boynton Merrill officiating. Only the relatives and a few friends were present. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Henry Chamberlain Warren of Chicago and there were no attendants. Miss Warren and her mother, Mrs. H. Ray Warren of Evanston, left shortly after the engagement was announced last December to spend the summer in southern Georgia. In May they went to Boston to visit young Mr. Bolster and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Marshall Bolster of West Newton, and it was decided to have the wedding there. The bride's father is Paul Chamberlain Warren of Shreveport, La., and Lakeside, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Bolster will be at home after June 15 at 505 Wayland avenue, Providence, R. I.

Chauncey McCormick's Dinner for Carpenters.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick are entertaining at dinner Wednesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter. The party will be one of the largest dinners before the first of the brilliant Century of Progress concerts at the old Auditorium theater.

Mrs. Frederick Stock is planning another of the large dinner and concert parties. Mr. Stock is now engrossed in the preparations for the Wagner-Strauss program the Chicago Symphony orchestra is to play that night. Charles H. Swift has taken over all the dinner and box plans for the Swift family to leave Mrs. Swift (Claire Dux) without any worry, since she is to be the soloist.

Others who are planning dinner parties before the concert are the Polish consul general, Titus Zbyszewski, Mrs. M. Cudahy, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Ira Nelson Morris, Mrs. Howard Linn, Russell Tyson, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster, Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mrs. John A. Spoor, Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. Francis Johnson, and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Litsinger and Eugene Cary Jr., which had been scheduled for Wednesday of this week, has been postponed until Wednesday, June 21, because of Miss Litsinger's emergency operation for appendicitis last Friday. Miss Litsinger is getting along splendidly. The wedding will take place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, 1400 State parkway.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt left this morning on the Sequoia for a day trip down the Potomac. He had as guests Senator and Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and his secretaries, Louis M. Howe and Marvin McIntyre, and their wives and Miss Margaret LeHand. They returned to the White House in time for dinner.

Miss Martha Ferguson and her fiancé, Charles Breasted, were guests over the week-end of Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, who came to the White House Friday.

Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, wife of the senator from Illinois, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Chevy Chase club in compliment to the American minister to Paraguay and Mrs. Post Wheeler.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter gave a dinner party last night in celebration of her mother's birthday anniversary at Grasslands, the oldest and most exclusive of Washington's country clubs.

Wide Shouldered Suit Is Favorite with Parisienne

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Some of the men around the town in Paris have been making mean remarks about the shoulders of society in those Schiaparelli suits this season. You've seen the copies all over America of her tray shoulders and those that come up in peaks at the arm joining. The men who make remarks about the way women will do anything to follow the styles like to point out these big shoulder suits with large gestures as proof of what they say.

They're wrong, the poor dears, as usual. Schiaparelli's wide-shouldered suits do something that no other kind of garment has done so well—they make the hips look slim and the silhouette seem young and boyish. Women would do a lot more to get this result and they are stampeding Schiaparelli for her suits.

One can't go anywhere where chic is chic in Paris without meeting up with some of these suits.

The fitted jacket has wide revers and collar with notches in between and is held by two copper cylinders at the waistline. The sleeves are peeked at the top. The slim skirt is topped by a blouse of eel gray silk printed with simple white flowers. The blouse drapes up high on the throat.

MINUTE MYSTERY
BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE PROFESSOR SEES THROUGH IT.

"Let's go in to dinner—it's twenty minutes after six and I'm starved," said Hawkins.

"Right!" responded Prof. Fordney, his train companion, "I'm hungry, too."

The two men had met only a few minutes before, as casually as travelers do, but already seemed to find each other agreeable company.

At dinner Hawkins explained he was a conductor on another railroad and bemoaned the loss of passenger traffic. Fordney, too, decried the depression and its effects.

When the conductors came through Hawkins tendered a pass with a friendly remark and Fordney, who said he had boarded the train in such a hurry he didn't have time to purchase a ticket, paid a cash fare. Neither he nor the conductors having proper change, he borrowed fourteen cents from Hawkins.

After an enjoyable dinner they went back to the club car for a smoke and continued their chat.

"Ever been in Savannah, Mr. Hawkins?" asked Fordney.

"Why, yes. Several times. Why?"

"O, nothing in particular. Charming city, isn't it?"

"Yes, it is, but I like the quaintness of New Orleans better, myself."

And so they chatted through a pleasant evening until Hawkins, with a yawn, said: "Well, it's a quarter to eleven. Bedtime for me. See you in the morning. Good night, professor. I've enjoyed knowing you."

"Good night," responded Fordney. "I'll give you the fourteen cents in the morning. Don't let the fact that I'm aware of your deception keep you awake!"

"What?" cried the amazed Hawkins.

WHAT DID FORDNEY MEAN?

Manicure Kit Inspires Young Girl to Beauty

Makes Her Nail-Conscious, Says Antoinette.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In nothing do we see the beauty advance made in the last decade so pronounced as in the parental attitude toward the girl of sub-deb age and her problems of pulchritude. We older ones cannot say about this phase of development that things were better when we were young. Some of us can recall how any attempt at improving on nature, no matter how miserably nature was, was looked upon as an inspiration of the monster, Vanity.

Vanity, we've lived to learn, is no monster. It's more monstrous to be without it, a fact repeated often to the young members of the family today. But then, the whole attitude toward beauty has changed. It has come out of the luxury class into the class of necessities. It's recognized as the open sesame to almost every opportunity in which woman is interested today. We don't mean great beauty, of course.

We mean only that broad, nevertheless exacting, standard of good grooming expected today. And in this the younger girls have precept and example pounded into them daily. So if they do not develop a generation of knockouts it will be only because they want to be different.

We are for parents doing everything possible for the very young daughter, for the girl of sub-deb age and deb age. We believe in teaching her nail care very early, and this is best done by supplying her with her own little nail kit. We think it wise to encourage girls along hair beauty lines, too, leaving nothing undone that will promote for them a head of glossy, well groomed hair.

But most of all we would beg parents to harp on endlessly about skin care. Especially as the girls get on toward the 'teens. I'll wager in ten years hence a blemished skin will be looked upon with the greatest intolerance. Parental indifference or girl indifference will be the charge made.

So great an advance has been made in skin care in the last ten years that I am daily impressed with the fine, clear skin condition of the average girl of today. I know from my correspondence that there are still serious enough blemished skins, but not anything in the proportion there used to be—and on this advance I state my premise about what ten years from now will ask.

Younger Generations Calling Their Elders 'Hiccuping' Forties'

BY DORIS BLAKE.

You can fool some of the young ones some of the time—

But you can't fool many of them much of the time!

Witness the outspoken charge of two very young women in the headlines recently:

"It isn't our crowd that's doing the heavy drinking," they pronounced. "It's that older generation that loves nothing better than to pan our generation." Or, with words to that effect they point an accusing finger at the older generation lineup in speakeasies and night clubs.

"It's that older crowd," they accuse, "that still thinks it smart to drink too much!"

Stealing a headline, we suspect, from one of the current best sellers, we heard a young man, nearing 20, refer to his mother and father's crowd as the "Hiccuping Forties!"

This outspoken revolt of the young ones is interesting! It's more than that; it's prophetic of good! Without being priggish, they can look upon the speakeasy table with its guzzling giggling forties and see the scene for what it is. No beauty. No charm.

And they're not going to be ridiculous, this younger tribe! Anything but that!

Yoked Bodice Lends Charm to Daytime Dress

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

The yoked bodice and sleeves that puff above the elbow create a becoming effect in this dress. The perfectly fitting hips and the deep point at the front of the skirt slenderize the figure and lend height. A plain silk crêpe in beige, gray, or blue, or one of the lovely silk prints, will be attractive.

The pattern, No. 3333, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅛ yard of 39 inch contrasting and ⅜ yard of 35 inch lining.

I'M GOING TO TELL HER ABOUT KOLYNOS RIGHT NOW!
TUESDAY
I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE MY EYES—MY TEETH LOOK BRIGHTER ALREADY.
WEDNESDAY
I'VE NEVER SEEN ANYONE WITH MORE ATTRACTIVE TEETH—THEY GLEAM LIKE PEARLS. HOW DID YOU EVER DO IT?
MY DEAR, I HAVE KOLYNOS TO THANK FOR THEM.

Results Almost Overnight

In a few days you'll see what others see—how much better Kolynos cleans teeth. They'll look whiter—shades whiter. They'll feel much cleaner. Here's the reason: Kolynos does what ordinary toothpastes can't do. As it cleans up ugly stain and tarnish—it foams into every tiny crevice and kills millions of germs that are the known cause of most tooth and gum troubles. Thus Kolynos gives RESULTS YOU CAN SEE. Cleaner, whiter teeth. Healthier looking gums. Give up incompetent ways of brushing and start using the Kolynos technique—a half-inch of this remarkable dental cream on a dry brush twice a day. It's the better, quicker way to cleaner, whiter teeth—try it.

Home Offers Big Adventure to Little Child

Lots of Fascinating Things for Him to Touch.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Yesterday, Sunday, we painted in a background. It was done to give a new starting point to the mother who has no key to the puzzle. "Why is my little girl of 2 such a bother about the house? She meddles and pulls things down and empties my bureau drawers, and I can't do a thing with her. I tell her to sit still and she promises, but she won't."

We said yesterday, you may remember, that the little child's world is bounded by his home and the people in it. In fact, his mother and his home are his whole world for most of the twenty-four hours. Therefore, this world of home which was originally planned only for adults, belongs quite as much to the child as to his parents. This is his home and he has certain rights. What are those rights?

"He has his own toys and playthings, but he's not contented with those," is a complaint that is repeated again and again by the mother who doesn't undertand. A small child must have the right playthings, of course—books and blocks and carts and crayons and big sheets of paper and dolls and wagons, but he can't be confined to those. He needs much more than that. The very furnishings of the house are his playthings and form part of the adventure of living and learning from the time he is a year or a year and a half old, on.

A little child learns so much from the time he leaves his actual babyhood until he is 2 or 3 years old. His muscles and his five senses and his growing strength demand opportunity to fulfill the urge that is behind them. Just see what he accomplishes; he goes, in a period of months, from actual helplessness to an amazing command of his balance and his skills and that delicate, subtle achievement called speech. All that is around him challenges his interest and his finger tips.

Stop, then, and look around the house with his eyes. How fascinated a small boy or girl is by all the things on your desk—especially if it's like mine, holding many things no desk should hold! Then, there's your sewing basket. And there are all the things you clean with: brushes, dustpans, big pails, nice soapy suds, and floor cloths—nice and clattery, or floppy and sloppy. There are clothes pins and clothes lines and washday paraphernalia. In the kitchen there are all kinds of saucepans with covers, pancake turners—the grocery order that's just been delivered—the fruits and vegetables. O, the kitchen is a grand place to play in!

The only reason why a child meddles and pulls things down is because he isn't permitted to do enough things about the house. Taken all together the average home, if it is used freely and intelligently, provides a wonderful playground for a child.

CUBS BEAT PIRATES, 9-2; LOSE FIRST GAME, 9-3

SOX WHIP BROWNS, 13-6 AND 10-2; TAKE 4TH PLACE

GREGORY AND DURHAM PITCH WINNING BALL

Kress, Appling Lead Hitting.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 4.—The White Sox used their bats to rifle their way back into the first division today. They whipped the lowly Browns with 18 hits, which assured a 13 to 6 triumph in the first half of a double header. Then they reeled off thirteen more in the second game to make the day a complete success with a 10 to 2 victory.

RALPH KRESS.

The Chicagoans didn't need much good pitching, but they got it just the same. Ed Durham supplied it in the first game, at least until the eighth inning when he was so far ahead he felt entitled to loaf a bit. He loafed so much that Manager Fonseca, who can't forget that 12 run eighth inning nightmare at New York recently, decided to let Joe Heving complete Durham's fifth triumph of the year. Then Paul Gregory took up the burden in the night cap and breezed through.

Everybody Gets Busy.

Not many of the Chicago boys missed out on the base hits and a few of them were especially busy. Red Kress, for instance, was back on first base and didn't neglect the opportunity to show off before the skimpy crowd of 5,000. He got five hits in nine times at bat, one of which was a homer with a man on base in the second game. The noted Al Simmons also was active, keeping himself among the league leaders with four hits in nine attempts. A few other choice items were five hits by Jack Hayes and a homer, among other things, by Luke Appling.

The first game was an affair of interest only until the fourth inning when the Sox decided it was high time to bear down on Jack Knott. They got him out of there shortly afterward with five runs and then continued to operate recklessly on three other fellows. There was no waiting in the second struggle, however. They took Dick Coffman for a ride in the first inning and forced his removal with only two out. That brought Irving Bump Hadley into action, but the firing kept up until the finish.

FIRST GAME

The Browns took a one run lead in the third inning of the first game, but didn't have much time to enjoy it. A single by Knott, Garms' double against the right field wall, and an infield out produced. The Sox showed their resentment by bouncing back with two runs in the fourth.

A single by Haas with one out was the first of a series of four hits, all of which bounced directly over second. Swanson supplied the second. Simmons then popped to short. Appling's single sent Haas home and Swanson to third. Kress' hit scored Swanson and put Appling on third. The rally died when Dykes fanned.

Simmons Busts One.

Two were out in the fifth before the Sox took after Knott for three runs. Hayes singled to center and Haas exercised patience which was rewarded with a walk. Swanson's single to left scored Hayes. Simmons then hit one that shocked everybody. He turned loose a liner that bounced off the upper portion of the center field wall, where few balls are hit. Haas and Swanson scored. Simmons had to stop at second because the ball bounced back so far it was quickly recovered by an infielder. Appling's fly retired the side.

The Browns picked up a run on Garms' homer over the right field roof in the fifth. Garms then proceeded to make it easy for the Sox to score three in the sixth. McDonald stepped in as Knott's successor and was appropriately greeted by Kress's double. A couple of outs followed, but Durham slipped a hit past second and Kress scored. Hayes singled to right. Then Haas flied to center, but Garms stagged around blindly in the sun and finally lost it. Durham and Hayes scored and Haas stopped at second for a double.

Heving Rescues Durham.

Berry singled to open the eighth. Durham sacrificed, Hayes walked, and Haas filled the bases by beating out a bunt on the unsuspecting enemy. Swanson doubled against the wall in left to score Berry and Hayes. Simmons' line drive plunked McDonald in the stomach and knocked him out. The ball caromed away for a single, Haas scoring. Stiles then took McDonald's place and Appling uncorked a long fly on which Swanson scored. Webb, who ran for Simmons, scored when Kress doubled to right.

Two doubles and three singles with only one out put Durham out of the party in the eighth. Three scored be-

LOOK FOR RECORD GOLF IN NATIONAL OPEN TITLE PLAY

Armour, Mac Smith Give Tipoff in Practice.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Some sensational sharpshooting may be expected at the North Shore Golf club during the national open tournament, which begins Thursday morning, if the players retain the form shown in practice rounds. With fair weather and dry turf it is not at all improbable that some one will hammer out a 67 or a 68 before the championship is decided Saturday afternoon.

There are a number of contestants who are capable of such a feat, for nearly every great player in the country will be competing. MacDonald Smith and Tommy Armour have scored 69 in practice rounds—and neither of these men is of the type which falters under the pressure of stern competition. They are quite likely to do better in the tournament than in trials.

Armour Has a Good Chance.

Armour has been playing in top form recently and has an excellent chance to recapture the national open title which he won in 1927. The first time he played over the No. 3 course at Medinah, his home club, he scored a 70.

Smith always has some fine shots in his bag. He is likely to cut loose with one of them at a time when a stroke is the deciding factor between victory and defeat. He beat every professional entered in the national open of 1930, but a certain young amateur by the name of Bobby Jones happened to be playing in the same event, so Mac had to be satisfied with second place, two strokes behind the Atlanta lawyer.

Sarazen Likes Tough Going.

Whenever golfers begin talking about low scores and playing under the stress of stiff competition, the name of Gene Sarazen, the defending champion, almost invariably bobs up. This fellow seems to thrive on tight situations. When the pressure is on, he is out there hitting every shot. While golfers of nervous dispositions are cracking under the strain, Sarazen seems always to be enjoying it. His untroubled, cocky smile and his air of complete self-assurance are among his outstanding characteristics.

Harry Cooper, Walter Hagen, Horton Smith, Johnny Farrell—and any one of a dozen other players have excellent chances of being at the top when the final putt is holed. This is one of the most open of the national open tournaments in history, for a dozen or more of the topnotchers appear to be at the peak of their games just at this time.

Dutra, Von Elm in Form.

Olin Dutra, the P. G. A. champion, and George Von Elm have been playing excellent golf in the St. Paul open. Although Von Elm won the national open title, he came mighty close in 1931 when he forced Billy Burke through a 72 hole playoff before the latter could win. That record breaking extra session clearly demonstrated the staying power which both golfers have, and if either should have a good week at North Shore, it's more than possible that he may the new champion.

The field of 151 contestants includes 130 professionals and 21 amateurs. Play will begin at 8:30 a. m. Thursday, Frank Walsh and Mortie Dutra being the first to tee off. Eighteen holes will be played on that day and another eighteen on Friday, after which all but the 60 low scorers will be eliminated. These 60 will fight it out in the final 36 holes Saturday.

Chicago Players Threaten.

With Armour, Smith, Walsh, Cooper, Bob MacDonald, and George Dawson representing the Chicago district, there is an excellent chance that the crown may be resting on the head of a local boy Saturday evening. Few other districts have a stronger contingent of first class golfers.

All the Gals Want to Marry Boxer Baer--or Else Sue Him

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4.—Max Baer ended training today for his prize fight with Max Schmeling with three rounds of boxing, five minutes of rope skipping, one lawsuit for 12½ per cent of his gross earnings heretofore, now, and forever, and a solemn reiteration of his Jewishness issued by his manager.

MAX BAER.

The most beautiful physique ever witnessed in the sport business seemed crowded to the pores with perfect health and audacious youth. Still, he had not unlearned any of his technical faults, and both of the sparring partners who toiled with him on a rickety pine scaffold on the field where Jack Dempsey trained for the Carpentier incident found his chin almost unavoidable.

There's Always a Lawsuit.

The lawsuit was reminiscent of Dempsey's other training camp in Atlantic City in 1926 when a staff of four city detectives borrowed from the police departments of Chicago and New York sat guarding his cottage fore and aft, playing "The Prisoner's Song" on their police whistles, with pauses now and again to heave subpoena servers over the rail of the porch. Today's suit against Baer was filed by one Lorimer, who claims to own one-half of one-third of him.

Although Dempsey was very sensitive about such matters in his time, Baer seemed not at all interested. Perhaps he is too young and dumb to understand, whereas Dempsey, by that time, had held the championship for several years and had been sued to distraction.

Baer's manager, Ancil Hoffman, explained that Max was cut up into so many little pieces already that he was practically nothing but so much hamburger. And you can't cut hamburger into any more little pieces.

"There is also a waitress in California who is suing him for $250,000 for not marrying her," Mr. Hoffman said. "Can you beat that for nerve? If every woman he doesn't marry gets $250,000, what do I get? It looks like everybody wants to get married to him. I don't blame them, of course, when they get a look at that body-job, but do they think he is King Solomon or something? Anyway, he isn't divorced yet.

He Writes, but What?

"Now it is an actress from New York. I tell him not to write any letters or he should let Mike Cantwell write them for him. But he sits down and writes them himself. There is no telling what he puts in them when he gets lonesome and sits down to write.

"He has changed and settled down a lot, though, compared to what he used to be," Mr. Hoffman said. "Like before the Schaaf fight when he was banging his head on the steam pipe in the dressing room to toughen it so Schaaf couldn't hurt him. He doesn't do that any more.

"And like when he used to sing. He paid some professor $150, in advance, for some Italian singing lessons when he was training at Gus Wilson's, so they would develop his diaphragm. But after the third lesson he decided he was the loudest singer in the world and didn't need any more lessons. And then he found out that the diaphragm was nothing but the belly and he said, 'What do I want to develop that for? That is what I want to take off.'

Come, All Ye Jewish Fans.

"But, no exaggeration, I am telling you nobody can outsing him for noise. For music, maybe, but not for loudness. It is no kidding about how the chickens quit laying eggs and the cats ran under the barn and wouldn't come out for days when he used to sing those Italian songs that the professor taught him. It sounded like a murder."

It seems that the management of

French Tennis Star Defeats Helen Jacobs

AUTEUIL, France, June 4.—(AP)—Helen Jacobs, American title holder, was eliminated in the semi-final round of the French hard court tennis tournament today by Mme. Rene Mathieu, first ranking French player, 8-6, 6-3.

Miss Jacobs was playing in her best form as the match opened, quickly ran into a 5-1 lead, and apparently had the first set stowed away.

Then she weakened suddenly and Mme. Mathieu rallied to square the count at 5-5. Miss Jacobs kept pace through the next two games, but Mme. Mathieu broke through the Californian's service for a 7-6 lead and then ran through her own to win the set at 8-6.

Helen's Errors Costly.

In the second set games went with service to 3-3 when the French star again broke through and then ran out the set at 6-3, largely through errors by the American champion.

Mme. Mathieu, who defeated Miss Jacobs in the fourth round of this tournament last year, will face Margaret Scriven of England in the final tomorrow.

Miss Scriven eliminated her fellow countrywoman, Betty Nuthall, 4-6, 6-3, today. Miss Scriven played the same steady brand of tennis which had enabled her to dispose of Mary Heeley, first ranking English player, in the quarter finals.

Cochet to Play Crawford.

The men's singles final, also scheduled for tomorrow, will bring together Henri Cochet of France, defending titleholder, and Jack Crawford of Australia.

Cochet beat Harold Lee of England, 8-10, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3, while Crawford, playing the best tennis of the day, eliminated the Japanese, Jiro Staoh, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2.

Only occasionally did Cochet show flashes of form. His timing was uncertain, his angle shots less acute, and his mistakes so frequent that he was visibly disgusted.

BROTHER-IN-LAW SHOOTS OFF PART OF WIGGINS' EAR

Indianapolis, Ind., June 4.—(AP)—Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis, former boxer, was shot in the left cheek late last night by Robert Moores, his brother-in-law. The bullet nicked off a piece of the ear.

Moores told police he shot Wiggins when the boxer rushed at Mrs. Wiggins with a butcher knife. He said Mrs. Wiggins previously had been beaten.

Wiggins was booked on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill. Moores was charged with shooting with intent to kill. Each was released on bond.

Wiggins has had much trouble with the police. A little more than a year ago it took a squad of police and firemen to subdue him in a hotel. The hotel lobby was badly battered before Wiggins was knocked out and taken to jail.

FOULIS SHOOTS 283 TO WIN IN ST. PAUL OPEN

Hinsdale Pro Breaks Par by 5 Strokes.

St. Paul, Minn., June 4.—[Special.]—Jim Foulis of Hinsdale, Ill., today won the St. Paul open golf tournament with a 72 hole total of 283, five under par and three strokes ahead of his nearest rival, George Von Elm, business man golfer of Los Angeles.

JIM FOULIS.

Only the most spectacular golf could have beaten Foulis today, and Von Elm didn't quite have it. Finishing before Von Elm, Foulis had a few anxious moments, but Von Elm himself relieved the load on the 17th hole.

Needing a birdie on one of the last two holes, a seemingly easy task because he had played some of his best golf on those two, Von Elm ran into tough luck on the 17th, and that was enough to put him out. His drive was a bit under average. His second also was short and hit a spectator, bounding into the rough. He tried hard to come out, but landed just short of the green. He laid up his approach putt, but missed the second and took a 6. He needed a deuce then on the 18th hole, could do no better than a par 5, and finished with a 73 and a 286 grand total.

Hagen Is Third.

Two strokes back of Von Elm was Walter Hagen of Detroit, Mich. After a glistening 69 this morning, three under par, Hagen came back with 71 this afternoon, one under perfect figures.

Harry Cooper of Glen Ellyn, Ill., likewise put on a good finish, but fell short. He shot a par 72 in the morning and went one under that figure in the afternoon to gain a tie for fourth place with Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., at 289.

Herman Barron of Portchester, N. Y., was sixth with 291. Olin Dutra followed with 292. Ed Dudley was eighth with 294.

Foulis Gets $1,500.

Neil White of Los Angeles and Pat Sawyer of Minneapolis tied for amateur honors with 296. In a one hole playoff White defeated Sawyer with a 4 against a 5.

For winning the open Foulis drew down $1,500. Von Elm picked up $1,000 for placing second. Hagen added $750 to his purse, Runyan and Cooper split fourth and fifth money of $400 apiece, and Herman Barron won $200. Olin Dutra won $150 and Ed Dudley $150. Scattering prizes were divided among ten others.

ANDRES WINS 2 AUTO RACES AT EVANSTON TRACK

Emil Andres won two events in the program of auto races at the Evanston speedway yesterday.

Cowboy O'Rourke made the fastest time in the qualifying events, but mechanical difficulties forced him out in three races.

Ted Wilmes, after driving a close second to Andres for 29 laps in the final event, was forced out when his car stalled with less than half a lap to go. Results:

FIRST RACE, 15 LAPS—Won by Charles Engles; Les Allen, second; Gordon Chard, third.

SECOND RACE, 15 LAPS—Won by Emil Andres; Andy Anderson, second; Charles Engles, third.

THIRD RACE, 30 LAPS—Won by Emil Andres; Charles Engles, second; Gordon Chard, third.

How They're Voting on American League Stars

The baseball fans of the nation will decide who will play in the game of the century at Comiskey park July 6. Fifty-five newspapers in all sections of the United States have invited fans to help pick the National and American leagues' greatest players.

The Tribune is offering $500 in cash prizes to the fans who come closest to naming the teams. The first award of $250 will go to the person who comes closest to naming the starting lineups [batting order] and the three pitchers for each team in the order they work. The fan who selects the National league's starting lineup with starting pitcher will receive $100. A similar prize will be presented for the American league team. Fifty $1 prizes will be distributed among the fans who can name the six pitchers.

In case more than the allotted number qualify for the awards, the prizes will go to those whose selections reach The Tribune first.

Address communications to Sports Editor, Box 1718, Chicago Tribune.

Gehrig and Cronin Appear Certain of All-Star Berths

BY ARCH WARD.

Gehrig, Gehringer, Cronin, and Dykes. They appear to be the American league infield in the game with the National league all stars at Comiskey park July 6.

Two of the four—Gehrig and Cronin—are certain starters. They have been given a lead in the nation-wide voting which their rivals will be unable to overcome. Lazzeri still is a strong contender for second base and Foxx is giving Dykes a real race for third.

Cronin, shortstop and manager of the Washington Senators, has 53,108 votes this morning. This is nearly nine times the number received by Crosetti of the Yankees, his closest rival. Gehrig, who has 50,687, is running about 5 to 2 ahead of Foxx at first base.

Simmons Still Leads.

Al Simmons of the White Sox continues to be the American league's heaviest vote getter. He has 58,078, which is 3,317 more than Babe Ruth can show. Simmons owes his leadership to the fans of no particular section. He has been slightly ahead of Ruth everywhere.

The returns published this morning are representative of the nation. They include votes from every section. Among the cities in the standings are New York, Boston, St. Louis, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Washington, Pittsburgh, Detroit, San Francisco, Omaha, San Antonio, Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Buffalo, Des Moines, Louisville, Nashville, Memphis, Columbus, Kansas City, Lincoln, Tulsa, Little Rock, Sioux City, Wichita, Topeka, Davenport, Madison, Peoria, Danville, Burlington, Streator, Fort Wayne, Quincy, and Erie.

It's Serious Business.

The voting will continue until the latter part of June. Players whose early lead gives them reason to feel sure of a place in the game are beginning to realize the responsibility they will carry. Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals, who is far in front for the National league second base job, was asked by a friend at Wrigley field Saturday if he thought the boys would bear down in the game of the century o. whether they would look upon it simply as a merry get together of baseball's big shots. This was Frisch's reply:

"It will be as hard fought as any world series contest. The class of each league will be tested for the first time and if you don't think it will be a battle royal you are goofy."

Ticket Demands Set Record.

The fans apparently realize the truth of Frisch's remarks. Otherwise they wouldn't be so anxious to buy tickets. The opening day's sale Friday broke all baseball records. It is not at all improbable that every seat in Comiskey park will have been disposed of before the end of this week.

After observing that five mail bags with ticket applications were delivered at the park Saturday, Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Hurry! Hurry!

The ticket sale for baseball's game of the century at Comiskey Park, July 6, has broken all records. All box seats and more than half of the grandstand sections were disposed of on the first day of the sale.

You have no time to lose if you plan to see the greatest team from the American league play the best from the National. Order today or you may be disappointed.

The price of grandstand tickets is $1.10, tax included. Mail applications to All Star Baseball Department, Comiskey Park, Chicago. Cashier's check or money order must accompany each order.

PITTSBURGH'S 7 RUNS IN NINTH DECIDE OPENER

Malone Yields Five Hits in Second.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday refused to be upset by the spectacle of a potential 3 to 2 victory slipping from their grasp through a seven run Pirate rally in the ninth inning of the first game of a double header. After swallowing hard over the 9 to 3 slapdown, they tore loose in the second encounter and seized themselves a handsome 9 to 2 triumph.

PAT MALONE.

Burleigh Grimes was the losing pitcher in the second number, though he had Roy Henshaw and Guy Bush to share his record of poor pitching. In the joyous reaction Pat Malone was the winner and did all the pitching himself. It was Grimes' fourth straight setback and his second of the week at the hands of the Pirates. And it was Malone's fourth straight win and his second of the week over the Pirates.

Hartnett Hits Tenth Homer.

For five innings Grimes was a good pitcher and at the end of the fifth was in possession of a 3 to 0 lead, by virtue of an unearned run in the first inning and Gabby Hartnett's No. 10 homer of the year, knocked in the fifth with Gink Hendrick on base. Grimes bogged down for four hits and two runs in the sixth, but rallied for two innings. Going into the ninth he still was leading, 3 to 2, although he allowed eight hits to four made by the Cubs.

Then followed a most disquieting panorama. A rookie named Young stepped up as a pinch batter to start the ninth and tripled. He immediately was driven in by L. Waner's single, the score thus being tied and the winning run on base when Burleigh went away. Roy Henshaw came in and yielded a homer to Vaughan, a triple to P. Waner, a single to Jensen, and a walk to Suhr. Then Roy limped away and Bush came in to throw a triple to Piet. The net of these and happenings was seven run on six hits and the end of the Pirates' four game losing streak.

P. Waner Gets 2 Homers.

The second game was a walkaway by virtue of Malone's five hit pitching and able slugging by Babe Herman, Frankie Demaree, and several others. Two of the hits off Malone were homers by Paul Waner to account for both the Pirate runs. Three of the five were made in the seventh inning after the Cubs had piled up their nine run total.

Babe Herman had another good day in his revival efforts. He made two of the Cubs' five hits in the first game and contributed a triple and two singles to the pleasant activities of the second game, in which his team knocked a total of 12. A total of five hits out of his team's total of 17 obviously was stimulating to the greatly beset Californian, who launched his revival on Saturday with a triple and single in four times at bat.

Four Triples in Inning.

There was an exceptional number of triples during the afternoon, three of them being concentrated in the Pirates' ninth inning of the first game. Besides these and the one by Babe Herman, Bill Jurges got one in the ninth inning of the first game, bringing the total for the entire inning to four.

The Giants, who went into first place through a double victory over Brooklyn, were the only first division fellows to gain ground on the Cubs. The New Yorkers are 3½ games ahead of the Cubs. The Cardinals are the same distance in front on the won and lost basis and the Pirates continue their lead of 2½ games over the Cubs.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs emerged from the first inning with a 1 to 0 edge, thanks to the nervousness of Woody Jensen, who had been sent to the outfield in a shift which benched Freddie Lindstrom because of an ailing leg. Traynor made a nice play to throw out English. Then Billy Herman shot a long one to left center. Jensen got to the ball, but let it bounce off his glove for a three base error. Babe Herman was called out on strikes, but Stephenson singled to right, scoring Bill Herman. Piet threw out Demaree.

Suhr made the first hit off Grimes with two out in the second inning and promptly was forced by Piet, Bill Herman unassisted.

Grimes Gets Out of Jam.

Grimes got himself into a jam in the fourth, but pulled himself out in sterling fashion. Vaughan led off with a single to right and went to second while Bill Herman was throwing out Traynor. P. Waner popped to Hendrick, but Jensen and Suhr walked, filling the bases. Piet then tapped to Grimes, who tossed to Hartnett to force Vaughan at the plate.

Hartnett's No. 10 homer gave the Cubs a 3 to 0 lead in the fifth. Hendrick walked. Hartnett lined one

BY FRENCH LANE.

Only an optimist can notice anything very outstanding in the events which have already taken place in the scramble for the 3 year old championship, the latest chapter of which was written when Mr. Khayyam won the American Derby on Saturday afternoon.

Some one peering through rose hued glasses might visualize Mr. Khayyam as a sensational thoroughbred. A close scrutiny of his record, however, brings forth the following inescapable items:

As a 2 year old Mr. Khayyam barely missed sinking into the selling plater mire. He was unable to win a stake race of any description in ten starts.

Is an In and Outer.

Showing sensational speed, he won the Chesapeake stakes early in the spring and then ran a miserable race in the Kentucky Derby. This shows just how inconsistent he is. He does seem to have something on Head Play, his triumphs in the Wood Memorial and the American Derby prove, but that may fall far short of making him a standout race horse.

As one old Kentucky horseman who had lost his carfare back to Lexington when Head Play was beaten in the American Derby put it yesterday, "There's either a 'hole' in Head Play or a mile and a quarter is too much for him. He stopped in the Kentucky Derby and he did the same thing in the American Derby.

"And, furthermore, you couldn't give me a horse that can't be taught better manners at the starting gate."

Lightning Fast Track.

Mr. Khayyam's time in the Derby, 2:04 1-5, wasn't as fast as it might have been. It is true it tied Mate's record, but the Washington Park racing strip was two or three seconds faster than the track over which Mate ran. Horsemen held to the opinion yesterday that a great 3 year old would have run the distance Saturday in right around 2:02.

On his breeding, Mr. Khayyam could be a great champion. His sire, Omar Khayyam, was a Kentucky Derby winner and one of the best 3 year olds to come along in 20 years. He is of the No. 9 family, noted for such horses as Fair Play, Friar Rock, Sysonby, and many others. He traces back to the old Vinter mare, as did such horses as Art Welles, Dick Welles, Master Charley, and Princess Doreen. Omar Khayyam was imported to America from England as a yearling.

Alice Foster, the mother of Mr. Khayyam, is a daughter of Petaud, another imported horse. So Mr. Khayyam is just about as undiluted a Britisher as they come.

Matt Brady, who trains Mr. Khayyam, believes the colt is just another one of those horses which do not get going until they are well on in their 3 year old year.

Baseball Player Killed When Hit by Pitched Ball

Orange, Mass., June 4.—(AP)—Kenneth A. Meehan, 28, captain and second baseman of the Orange town team, was killed today when he was struck on the head by a pitched ball.

Wood Wins $1,100 in Fair Golf Contest

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Craig Wood, that implacable gold digger from Deal, N. J., is up to his usual tricks. This young fellow, who has been in the money consistently in nearly all the more important golf tournaments of the winter and spring, earned himself another $1,100 yesterday afternoon by taking one first prize and a second prize in the golf contest at Soldiers' field.

Among the 35 contestants were nearly all the great players of the country. Throughout the afternoon Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Horton Smith, Johnny Farrell, and the others put on an excellent show for the 7,000 spectators. Competition consisted of drives, approaches, and full iron shots, seven prizes being awarded in each of the three divisions.

Wood Drives Well.

Wood took first prize in the driving contest with three tremendous wallops which totaled 736½ yards. His first traveled 247 yards, the second 243½, and the third 226. A ten yard bonus for accuracy was added to each of the last two drives.

For a time it seemed that Wood would take first prize in the approach contest also. From a distance of 135 yards he laid his first shot 19½ inches from the pin. His second was 9 yards 9 inches away, and his third, 4 yards 18 inches, making a total of 13 yards 27 inches.

But along came Walter Scheiber of Jamaica, L. I., with three consistently close approaches of 1 yard 31 inches, 3 yards 13 inches, and 5 yards 19 inches, giving him a total of 10 yards 27 inches. That forced Wood back to second place.

Shute Thrills Golfers.

Some of the most spectacular work of the afternoon was done by Densmore Shute, who won the full iron shot competition. From a range of 185 yards he dropped his first shot two yards 28 inches from the pin, his second two yards two inches, and his third one yard six and a half inches, the total being 6 yards ½ inch.

George Dawson was the only other player who was able to put all three shots on the green in the 185 yard competition, his total distance from the pin being 19 yards 30 inches.

The longest drive of the day was made by Tommy Armour—a smash of 250 yards with a ten yard bonus for accuracy. His second drive carried 249 yards plus another ten yard bonus for accuracy. His third stroke of 249 yards would have won him first prize, but was judged to be out of bounds. The prize winners follow:

DRIVES—Craig Wood, 736½ yards; Ky Lafoon, 718 yards; Joe Kirkwood, 710 yards; Frank Walsh, 707 yards; Walter Kozak, 697 yards; Al Espinosa, 688½ yards; Jack Forester, 672 yards.

FULL IRON SHOTS—Densmore Shute, 6 yards ½ inch; George Dawson, 19 yards 30 inches; Mortie Dutra, 10 yards 31 inches [two shots on green]; Phil Perkins, 12 yards [two shots on green]; Frank Walsh, 15 yards 6 inches [two shots on green]; Charles Manning, 15 yards 21 inches [two shots on green]; *Harry Hampden, 16 yards [two shots on green]; *Craig Wood, 16 yards [two shots on green].

APPROACHES—Walter Scheiber, 10 yards 27 inches; Craig Wood, 13 yards 27 inches; Billy Burke, 14 yards 29 inches; Harry Hampden, 15 yards; Carl Rocco, 15 yards 1 inch; Phil Perkins, 17 yards 23 inches; Charles Manning, 19 yards 25 inches.

*Tied for seventh place.

EVERGREEN PROS BEAT MID-CITY, 5 AND 4, IN GOLF

Pupils of THE TRIBUNE golf school who have been attending Mid-City and Evergreen had a chance to cheer for their teachers yesterday in a special match at Evergreen. A gallery of nearly 400 turned out to see four Evergreen professionals defeat the quartet from Mid-City, 5 and 4, in a best ball eightsome.

Don Gardner of Evergreen turned in the best card of the day by equaling par 71. Gus Fetz of Mid-City came through with a 74 and Al Megeff of Evergreen, a 73. The winning team was composed of Megeff, Gardner, Roy Hutchison, and John Takach. Joe Tivnan, Frank Springer, Danny Taggart, and Fetz played for Mid-City.

Mid-City, Evergreen, and Pipe o' Peace will hold their second men's class tonight, all having postponed it last week because of Memorial day. The third week of lessons will get under way at all 27 courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, which is sponsoring the school, tomorrow night with the regular Tuesday night men's class.

D. M. SLEWELLING WINS TRAPSHOOT WITH 98 TARGETS

D. M. Slewelling of Blue Island broke 98 targets out of a possible 100 yesterday to win the open event of the first of a series of A Century of Progress trapshoots at the Lincoln Park Gun club. J. W. Egarman of Naperville was second with 96 out of 100.

Charles Welch of Paris, Ky., led a field of 17 Kentucky and Alabama shooters with 98 out of 100 targets from the 16 yard line. C. R. Nelson of Chicago won the skeet event with 48 out of a possible 50.

Logan Harbican, member of the Lincoln Park Gun club, yesterday won the Northern Illinois Trapshooting league tournament at Geneva, Ill., with 99; C. M. Spainhour and G. R. Batten tied for second honors with 98.

Seems Gals All Want to Marry Baer

the prizefight is counting on the Jewish citizens of New York to turn out in large numbers to witness a sort of reprisal on Schmeling, as a German, for the persecution of the Jews in Germany. But sinister influences have been at work in New York spreading reports that Baer is only slightly Jewish, if any, and Mr. Hoffman is indignant over this unscrupulous attempt to injure the gate.

"We don't claim he is all Jewish," Mr. Hoffman said. "But he is half Jewish, and you can tell the Jewish people not to pay any attention to sinister reflections on this boy's Jewishness, but turn out and see a genuine half Jewish boy fight a 100 per cent German."

Mr. Hoffman added that the evil propaganda had had little apparent effect on the advance sale of tickets.

Melts Off 18 Pounds.

Mr. Baer's physical equipment is much more impressive than his skill at his business. He stands 6 feet 2½ inches, weighs about 208 pounds, and from the breadth of his enormous, loose shoulders to the flat of his large, shuffling feet he is such a young man as none of the sport writers who have been squinting at him has ever seen the like of in many a year of ogling fighters, wrestlers, football players, and college oarsmen.

He has taken off about 18 pounds in the last few weeks under the training of Mr. Cantwell, who used to fight heavyweights in the white hope days around Chicago, but most of the poundage came off his back, where he is inclined to acquire a layer of suet between fights. In the region of that which the Italian singing professor called his diaphragm he is as flat as a shingle, with a layer of smooth, hard muscle which is, for all that his sparring partners and his opponents hitherto have shown to the contrary, impervious to a blow of the human fist.

Reckless, gay, prodigal of his strength and health, he invites punches with a claim that punching never hurts him, and is an ideal specimen of the dumb athletic type of youth who has an excellent chance of winding up more or less silly from punishment around the head and broke from writing letters or otherwise encouraging susceptible ladies.

A Nudist Lady Writes In.

"Ladies go wild over him," Mr. Hoffman complained. "Ladies hang around his dressing room, and the other day I got a letter from a lady up at that nudist camp on the Hudson river that he should join the camp and run around without any clothing on. And he has got twenty suits of clothes!"

NORTH SHORE DAILY FEE GOLF MATCHES START

The North Shore league of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association got under way yesterday with matches at four of the member courses of the organization. The same series will be continued on a home and home basis among the clubs for fourteen Sundays. Dave Kaplan of Techny Fields is secretary of the association.

Techny Fields defeated Vernon at the latter's course, 11½ to 6½; Big Oaks invaded Mid-City, only to lose, 10 to 8; Pickwick journeyed to Elmgate for a 15½ to 2½ victory, and Northbrook won over Rob Roy, 16 to 2, at Rob Roy.

Graham Takes Midlothian Golf Derby with 141 Score

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Entries from the home stable ran off with most of the purse yesterday as the Midlothian Country club concluded its twenty-ninth annual Derby, the ancient of Chicago district invitational golf tournaments, with the running of the final eighteen holes.

First there was Sam Graham, who won the Derby proper going away with a thirty-six hole low net total of 197—56—141. Unlike the majority of other events of this type in which low gross is generally declared the winner, Midlothian's Derby goes to the best net effort for the two day race. Sam rode what the horse people call a well judged race, being timed in 99—28—71 in Saturday's heat and 98—28—70 yesterday. He finished two lengths in front of an outside entry, Fred Otte of Bunker Hill, who was clocked in 191—48—143 for the route.

Captures 3 Foursome Prizes.

Midlothian also captured all three of the foursome prizes, including the thirty-six hole low net prize, won by a quartet composed of Fred Slyder, 161—16—145; W. W. Schoff, pacemaker at the halfway turn, 172—24—148; R. A. Born, 180—30—150; and Warren Sapp, 184—32—152. Their net total was 595.

Saturday's foursome event went to another Midlothian four, including Henry Curry, 85—9—76; President David B. Johnson, 89—11—78; John Dwyer, 99—25—74; and J. J. Rutherford, 89—12—77. Their aggregate was 305. Yesterday's foursome prize was carried away by R. W. Regensberger, 92—25—67; C. B. Covert, 92—22—70; Ray Malvin, 95—22—73; and C. G. Mount, 108—20—88; with a total of 298.

Wins 36 Hole Low Gross.

Chick Evans of Edgewater, after turning in a 76 Saturday, carved out a 72, 1 over par yesterday. His total of 148 earned him the thirty-six hole low gross prize.

Other prize winners follow:

SATURDAY.

Low gross—John E. Lehman, Olympia Fields, 38—35—73.

Second low gross—J. Douglas Casey, Riverside, 40—36—76.

Low net—W. W. Schoff, Midlothian, 81—12—69.

Second low net—Fred Slyder, Midlothian, 79—8—71.

SUNDAY.

Low gross—H. F. Bowber, 40—37—77.

Second low gross—Don Hamilton, Beverly, 39—40—79.

Second low net—R. W. Regensberger, Midlothian, 92—25—67.

SHAW LEADS BLUE TEAM TO VICTORY AT OAK BROOK

A goal by Earl Shaw of Detroit, in the final chukker, his fourth of the game, gave the Blues a 5 to 4 victory over the Reds yesterday in the opening polo contest of the season at Oak Brook. Because of the heat the teams, which used three out of town stars, limited the game to six periods.

In addition to Shaw the visiting poloists were Baron Maximillian von Romberg of Santa Clara, Cal., who played with the Blues, and Cecil Childers of the El Ranchito club of Arlington, Tex., who was in the Reds' lineup.

The Blues gained a two goal lead in the first two chukkers, but the Reds forged ahead in the fourth chukker. Then the Blues added two goals while the Reds were making one, leaving the score tied as the final period started. Shaw led the offensive that brought the Blues' their winning margin. Lineups:

BLUES [5].		REDS [4].
Von Romberg,
Keehn	No. 1	Bowers, Kirby
Stockton	No. 2	Hannah
Shaw	No. 3	Butler

GIANTS' PITCHERS BAFFLE DODGERS; WIN TWO GAMES

New York Takes Opener, 2-0; Captures 2d, 6-1.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 4.—(AP)—The Dodgers were utterly unable to fathom the offerings of the New York Giants' pitchers today and went down to a double defeat, 2 to 0 and 6 to 1, before nearly 40,000 fans.

Harold Schumacher yielded only three hits in whitewashing the Dodgers in the first game, while Fred Fitzsimmons allowed only five in the second victory. Schumacher never wavered as he chalked up his sixth victory, starting the winning rally himself with a single in the eighth. Lefty O'Doul's homer in the fourth gave Brooklyn its only run of the day.

CARDINALS, REDS DIVIDE.

Cincinnati, O., June 4.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today won their first game at Redland field, 4 to 2, but dropped the second contest of a double header to the Reds, 6 to 2. The Cardinals bunched hits off Si Johnson in the eighth inning for their victory, but a former teammate, Paul Derringer, held them in subjection except for one inning in the nightcap as Jim Bottomley, another ex-Cardinal, with a perfect game at bat, drove in three runs and scored another. MOON MULLINS—WHY LORD PLUSHBOTTOM FELL OUT WITH KAYO

65,099 See Yankees Beat Macks Twice

New York, June 4.—(AP)—The largest crowd of the year and one of the largest on record—65,099 fans—turned out today to see the Yankees win two games from the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 2 and 6 to 0. In 1928 the same clubs drew more than 85,000 for a Sunday double header to set the attendance record.

Brilliant pitching by two young moundsmen played the leading rôles in the Yankee victories. Johnny Allen held the A's to a single in the second game after Russell Van Atta had pitched six hit ball in the opening duel with Merrit [Sugar] Cain.

INDIANS, TIGERS DIVIDE.

Cleveland, O., June 4.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians staged late rallies in both their games with the Detroit Tigers today and succeeded in winning the first contest, 2 to 1. The Tigers took the second, 4 to 3, when Cleveland's eighth inning comeback fell short.

In the first game the Indians shoved across the winning run on Joe Vosmik's single, Desautels' wild throw, and a single by Spencer. The Tigers scored their winning margin in the second game when Walker, who had reached third after doubling, came home on a balk by Willis Hudlin in the sixth inning. Score:

Gehrig, Cronin Boost Leads in Fan Poll

Sox, said he thought he would leave for China in another week.

Men who have been following baseball since its infancy, fellows who thought they had experienced every possible thrill, are getting an unexpected kick out of the interleague game.

"Impossibility" Now Reality.

You have read statements from Commissioner Landis, William Harridge, John Heydler, William Veeck, Johnny Evers, and other famous baseball leaders. Now read what Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, has to say.

"The game, suggested and sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, between the stars of the National and American leagues truly will be the game of the century. During the 28 years I have been identified with major league ball, 22 of them as an umpire, there has been constant clamor for such a contest. It seemed too big a thing to put over because of the player demand it would make on the various clubs during the regular season.

"What appeared to be an impossibility has been made a reality through the enterprise of THE TRIBUNE," Mr. Evans writes. "It is fitting," he continues, "that the game is to be played during A Century of Progress Exposition. It will prove a spectacle in keeping with the other great features of the Fair. I am positive it will have wider appeal than any event to be held in Chicago this summer.

Praises Charity Angle.

"Aside from satisfying a long standing desire to have such an event staged, it has other high lights to recommend it. The most important of these is the good it will do for destitute ball players. Net receipts are to be donated to the Baseball Players' Charity fund to help fellows whose efforts did much to make baseball what it is, players who lived 20 or more years too soon to capitalize on their ability.

"One game, of course, will not definitely prove which league is the faster, but it at least will give the organization that wins the honor for 1933. It will help tremendously in stimulating interest for baseball among fans from smaller towns. At one glance they will be able to see players they have been reading about for years.

"Baseball as an institution owes a debt of gratitude to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for being the originator and sponsor of the greatest game of all time. A real fan can't afford to miss it."

TRAGEDY ENDS FAMILY'S RIDE ON MOTORCYCLE

One Killed, Three Hurt in Crash with Auto.

The family of John Ukobsin, 3115 South Harding avenue, sought relief from the heat yesterday in a motorcycle ride. Ukobsin, 43 years old, tucked his wife, Elizabeth, and their sons, John Jr., 5 years old, and William, 4 years old, into the sidecar of his motorcycle and drove away.

At 55th street and Crawford avenue, however, the holiday ride came to a tragic end. The motorcycle collided with an automobile driven by Maurice Lindsay, 25 years old, of Prophetstown, Ill. Ukobsin was killed, his wife was critically injured, and the two children were hurt. Mrs. Okobsin and her sons were taken to the Holy Cross hospital. Lindsay and his wife, who was riding with him, were uninjured.

Ukobsin's death and three others during the day increased the Cook county motor fatality toll to 409 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

William Kluska, 6 years old, 1228 Blue Island road, Lemont. Struck by an automobile driven by John Bromberek, 1818 McCarthy road, Lemont.

Karel Svoboda, 61 years old, 1837 South 57th court, Cicero, secretary of the Czecho-Slovakian Taxpayers, association of Cicero. Died in Berwyn hospital of injuries suffered last Friday, when he was struck at 57th court and Cermak road, Cicero, by an automobile driven by Adolph Gallina, 2112 South Harding avenue.

John Pernicke, 49 years old, 6344 Roosevelt road, Berwyn. Died in the county hospital. He was injured on May 8 in Hinsdale when an automobile in which he was riding skidded on a wet road and overturned.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: What She Doesn't Know May Hurt Her

DICK TRACY—Looking Forward

MRS. C. H. MARSHALL DIES IN NEW YORK; ILL NEARLY A YEAR

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles Henry Marshall, mother of Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field, died today at the Field residence in Park avenue.

Mrs. Marshall had been living in London since the death of her husband in 1912 and came here to visit her daughter only a few months ago. She had been in ill health for nearly a year.

She was the daughter of the late Joseph Lenox Banks, wealthy trustee of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and a niece of Joseph Lenox, founder of the Lenox library, now the Fifth Avenue library, at Fifth avenue and 42d street. Her husband, to whom she was married in 1888, was New York City dock commissioner during the administration of Mayor Abram S. Hewitt.

MRS. HAMILTON, TRANSIT CHIEF'S WIDOW, IS DEAD

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Jane Hamilton, 87 years old, widow of David G. Hamilton, street car magnate, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence, 232 East Walton place, where she died late Saturday night.

Mrs. Hamilton was born in Montpelier, Vt., the daughter of Dr. Lyman Kendall, and came to Chicago in 1855, where she lived for the remainder of her life. Her husband was born in 1842 at "old 12 South Clark street," the son of Polemus D. Hamilton, a Chicago pioneer. Mr. Hamilton was a director of many corporations and for years was president of the Chicago City Railway company. He died in 1915.

Surviving Mrs. Hamilton are a son, B. P. Hamilton, and a daughter, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson.

H. W. ALLEN DEAD; HEAD OF BAKERS' SUPPLY COMPANY

GRAIN TRADERS ASK SHOWDOWN ON PLANS OF U. S.

Prices Waver as Result of Doubts.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Erratic price movements in the grain markets are anticipated by trade leaders unless a clear understanding is reached at once between the trade and the agricultural department. It has been the impression all along that the agricultural department would not interfere with the grain exchanges and the markets as long as prices were advanced so that farmers would secure better prices.

Within the last six months prices of grains have advanced materially, wheat being up over 30 cents, corn 20 cents, and oats 15 cents a bushel. Other grains are up materially as also are live stock prices.

If the grain markets are let alone, expectations are that continued good prices will prevail, as business conditions warrant maintenance of present prices.

New Wheat Yields Meager.

Harvesting of new winter wheat has started in Oklahoma, southern Kansas, and Texas, but reports of yields are meager. Western Kansas, parts of Oklahoma and northern Texas are not expected to raise more than enough wheat for seed and home consumption. Prospects in other sections are mostly good, especially for spring wheat in the American and Canadian northwest.

For several weeks there has been a feeling among a few of the largest traders that wheat prices are too high and they are disposed to sell on every bulge. The general public is in the market with liberal holdings and should be protected. If not, there may be a slump in the outside trade.

Wheat prices have moved within a range of 68¼ to 75½ cents for July, 69½ to 77¼ cents for September, and 71½ to 79½ cents for December in the last few weeks. At the close on Saturday, July was 72⅛ to 72¼ cents, September, 74⅛ to 74¼ cents; December, 76⅞ to 76¾ cents, with net losses for the week of 1¾ to 2⅜ cents.

World Agreement Expected.

Much interest centers in the wheat conference at London, where expectations are that a general agreement will be reached that will result in leading producing countries reducing their acreage, which it is hoped will eventually result in disappearance of surplus.

Wheat prices for the week follow:

Corn Situation Mixed.

Better weather for corn has enabled farmers in many sections of the belt to plow and plant a liberal acreage. With favorable weather throughout the corn belt, expectations are that practically all the corn will be planted inside of the next ten days. Official reports from Iowa, received late in the week, said that 83 per cent of the acreage had already been planted. In Illinois a large part of the acreage is in or will be by the end of this week.

July corn closed at 44⅜ to 44½ cents, September, 46¾ to 46⅞ cents, and December, 49⅝ to 49¾ cents. Net losses for the week were 2¼ to 2½ cents. Prices for the week follow:

	July.	September.	December.

Oat Crop Favorable.

Reports from most of the leading oat states suggest favorable conditions. Speculative trading has fallen off and many recent buyers have liquidated. Cash interests are furnishing a large part of the trading in futures, while the consumptive demand remains only fair. Price movements on futures were within a range of 1¾ cents, with the close around the inside figures. Net losses were 1⅛ to 1¼ cents, July being 24¼ cents and September 25 to 25⅛ cents.

Rye stocks at Chicago, Minneapolis, and Duluth a week ago were 11,445,000 bushels, Chicago alone having 4,023,000 bushels. An increase is expected in today's report. Most of the rye is held by eastern interests, who are said to have the market cornered.

The close was at net gains of ⅝ to ⅝ cent, July being 60½ cents and September 61⅝ to 61½ cents. Barley futures closed 1¾ to 2 cents lower, with July at 34½ cents and September at 35¾ cents.

600 Million Paid in Gas Taxes in 1932

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The gasoline industry paid out in taxes to federal, state and local governments last year a total of $600,000,000, according to the American Petroleum Industries committee—recently formed by the American Petroleum institute to secure relief from the tax load carried by the industry.

The committee has compiled statistics which show the enormous burden which has been placed on the gasoline industry since the first tax was imposed by Oregon on Feb. 25, 1919. That tax, which was at the rate of 1 cent a gallon, produced $1,022,514 the first year—all of which was used on the state's roads.

Now, the committee reports, the petroleum industry is paying 117 different taxes, with the heaviest levy on gasoline. Gasoline taxes are reported as running from 3 to 12 cents a gallon. The highest rate—12 cents—is stated to be in effect in Decatur, Alabama.

Average Tax 5.15 Cents.

The average retail price of gasoline in fifty cities on April 1 was 10.92 cents, while the average state and federal tax was 5.15 cents—in effect a 48 per cent sales tax. The committee estimates that gasoline taxes of from 3 cents to 12 cents a gallon represent for cars going ten miles to the gallon road tolls as high as 1 1-5 cents a mile.

It is stated the average motor vehicle ordinarily consumes 600 gallons of gasoline a year and the car owner pays gasoline taxes of $18 to $72. If the retail price of gasoline is 15 cents a gallon and the tax is 5 cents, the motorist pays taxes on three gallons an amount sufficient to have purchased a fourth gallon. Thus, one-fourth of his expenditure goes to meet the demands of the taxing authorities.

The effect of the high taxes, which are reported as having increased 6,000 per cent in the thirteen year period from 1919 to 1932, is to bring into being the economic law of diminishing returns and to cause tax evasion. The committee reports that for the first time in the history of the automotive industry, 1932 saw a decline in the collection of state gasoline taxes—the largest source of revenue to most states.

Burden Is Shifted.

Objection is made by the committee to the action by some states of using gasoline taxes for general use although they were ordered for the specific purpose of financing the construction, improvement and maintenance of highways.

"Shifting the tax burden to consumers of gasoline, who as citizens pay other taxes for the general support of government, seems to be a popular subterfuge for tax reduction," the committee says. "Budgets can be balanced by reducing expenses as well as by increasing taxes," it adds. Saying the industry has more people at work assisting the government to collect gasoline taxes than has the government itself, the committee says:

"If all gasoline taxes were collected, and the revenue efficiently expended, tax rates could be cut in half and just as many miles of good road built."

RADIO LEADERS OF NATION OPEN MEETING HERE

Operations of the radio industry under the new plan of President Roosevelt for government partnership in or control of industries will be a major topic at the ninth annual convention of the Radio Manufacturers' association, which began today at the Stevens hotel. The "industry control" legislation now pending is expected to affect operations of radio manufacturers with other industries.

There will be a meeting of the board of directors of the Radio Manufacturers' association today. The annual membership and convention meeting of the association, which will bring all of the leaders of the industry to Chicago, will be held tomorrow.

Fred D. Williams of Indianapolis, president of the association, will preside and officers and directors for the ensuing year will be elected at the convention tomorrow. The federal radio commission at Washington will send Col. Thad H. Brown, one of the commissioners, as its official representative to the manufacturers' meeting.

SHUBERT GIVES THEATER STOCK TO CREDITORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—One-half of the issued common stock of Select Theaters corporation will be turned over to owners of debentures, creditors and stockholders of the Shubert Theater corporation without cost to them, Lee Shubert announced today.

By this means, he said, it is hoped that the losers in the Shubert corporation bankruptcy may eventually salvage their investments.

The shares that are to be distributed, 100,000 in number, were allotted to Mr. Shubert after Select Theaters purchased the assets of the Shubert corporation for $400,000 at an auction in receivership proceedings last April 7. The complete authorized capitalization of Select Theaters is $400,000 of 6 per cent noncumulative preferred stock and 200,000 shares of common.

44 Banks Throughout Country Are Reopened

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—Forty-four banks throughout the country were reopened last week, of which three were institutions which were closed prior to the nation-wide banking holiday, according to the American Banker. This makes a total of 419 banks reopened since May 3.

New York, June 4.—This week's important dividend meetings include Mack Trucks on Monday, Homestake mining on Wednesday and National Dairy products on Thursday.

WORLD FAIR OPENING BRINGS TRADE RUSH TO CHICAGO'S STORES

Concurrent with the first week of A Century of Progress Exposition, practically all lines of trade and industry continued to expand during the past week in Chicago. Crowds in many of the loop department stores were the largest in many months, special sales, purposely timed to meet the increasing rush of buyers, resulting in heavier demands upon local wholesale houses.

There was also increased activity in the steel industry; sales of automobiles in the metropolitan area were larger; transportation by rail continued to improve, and local use of electricity made further gains, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Stimulated by the first crowds of World's Fair visitors, the new high sales levels attained in the department stores during the preceding weeks were maintained and in some cases surpassed. Summer items, both in household furnishings and in women's apparel lines, sold well, with the result that two of the department stores added more workers to their forces to handle the sales.

Wholesalers continued to find business good, a factor in direct contradiction to the usual trend for this time of the year. Dealers in millinery and summer ready-to-wear reported an unusually brisk demand during a week that is generally dull.

CHASE HARRIS FORBES AIDS FORM CONCERN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—The investing banking organization of Starkweather & Co., Inc., made up of former executives and personnel of Harris, Forbes & Co. and of the Chase Harris Forbes corporation, will begin business tomorrow with the main office at 111 Broadway and branches at 292 Madison avenue and in Baltimore, Buffalo, and Atlanta. A branch in Philadelphia will be opened soon.

2,400 Recalled to Work in New York Central Shops

West Albany, N. Y., June 4.—(AP)—Return of 700 men to the car shops and 1,700 to the locomotive shops of the New York Central railroad tomorrow was announced tonight. Fred S. Risley, superintendent of the Mohawk division, said the reëmployment was made possible through increased demands for rolling equipment to keep pace with additional freight shipments.

Prices in Chemical Marts Show Slight Upward Move

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—Chemical markets showed a slight upward trend of prices last week, according to the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter. The principal increase occurred in paint materials. The publication's composite index is now 125.2, compared with 125 for the last four weeks, based on 100 as of Aug. 1, 1914.

STEEL INDUSTRY PLANS HIGHER WAGES, PRICES

Output Up to 47%; Demand Expands.

Steel works operations, which were at 33 per cent at the beginning of May, last week advanced 4 points to 47 per cent, "breaking through the 1931 trend line," reports the magazine Steel. Considering that some capacity is always out for repairs, the magazine says, the new level "is equivalent to 50 per cent of actual capacity."

"Even more vigorously than in recent weeks, the markets now reflect strongly the desire of consumers to anticipate a firmer price situation, universally expected to follow the application of the national industrial recovery act," observes Steel. "A 10 to 15 per cent increase in the common labor wage rate is scheduled to be supported by an agreed increase in prices, possibly effective with the third quarter.

Some Prices Advanced.

"Actual advances in the last week include $4 a ton on spot ferromanganese; $2 to $5 per thousand for refractory brick; 8 per cent increases on nuts and bolts, and 5 per cent on boiler tubes and wire rope."

The railroads are beginning to contribute additional support to the iron and steel market, according to the magazine, with purchases of box cars, rails, and bridge work.

The Chicago Great Western has bought 500 steel box cars, requiring 25,000 tons of steel—a larger number than ordered from all private carbuilders in 1932.

The Seaboard Air Line is taking bids on 11,000 tons of rails, and the Norfolk and Western on track fastenings, after its recent inquiry for 10,000 tons of rails. The New York Central has placed orders for 7,000 tons of rails.

Four thousand two hundred tons of the 10,300 tons of structural shapes awarded during the week are for two railroad spans.

Auto Orders High.

Despite some slackening at Youngstown, automobile steel specifications are continuing at a high level. The prospects are strong, according to the magazine, that the output of motorcars in June will exceed that in May. The pressure for automotive material has been largely the cause for the rise in sheet mill activity to 70 to 80 per cent in northern Ohio.

In general, the largest districts manifest the most considerable increases in steel mill operations, according to the magazine. Pittsburgh advanced 3 points to 30 per cent; and 5 point gains were made in Cleveland to 64 per cent; in eastern Pennsylvania to 24½ per cent; and in Youngstown to 52 per cent.

World's Fair Assists Meat Dealers Here

A packing house owner when asked about business conditions in his line passed out a bit of encouraging information yesterday.

"In the last few days there has been a rather big change in the feeling in the fresh pork trade, which, heretofore, has not fared as well as lard or cured and pickled meats," he said. "Big hotels and restaurants have increased their orders for fresh pork, calling for as much as 50 per cent more on some cuts, particularly hams and loins as they were buying two weeks ago. It can be credited primarily to one thing, the World's Fair at Chicago, as markets for fresh meat at the eastern distributing points have not changed much in the last few days.

"Meat supply houses tell me that some of the downtown restaurants are buying more meat in the last ten days than for many months. Their interpretation of the increased demand is that, together with the many out of town visitors, many thousands of Chicagoans who daily visit the Fair will eat at least one meal and sometimes two meals at the restaurants where formerly they ate at home."

A sellers' market has developed in the cotton ducking field. Mills have actually turned down orders wanted for immediate delivery, it is learned. Prices have advanced so rapidly from their recent lows that some of the leading manufacturers have withdrawn their published price lists pending stabilization of prices. The prospect of still higher prices because of the government's inflation program has caused manufacturers to refuse to enter into long term contracts.

The low inventory position of the industry was emphasized recently when the government placed an order for camp cots for the "forestry army!" The cots were wanted for immediate delivery. The cot manufacturers couldn't get enough cot ducking to fill the order at once. Delivery on a large part of the order had to be delayed.

Carl Nadasdy, manager of the Cooperative Wool Growers association of South Dakota, reports that checks totaling $40,000 went to approximately 1,700 members of the association last week, representing the second settlement for wool. The first payment of $85,000 was made the middle of March. Buyers in some parts of the corn belt are so eager for wool that they are buying it right on the sheep, before shearing. Most of the shearing is over for this season.

Meat packing houses at Chicago during May handled the largest volume of business since January. Only four times since February, 1932, have they had a larger volume. The total number of animals slaughtered showed an increase of 12 per cent over the April receipts and a gain of 20 per cent compared with March. Ordinarily there is a falling off at this time of the year. It is the first time in five years that the May volume of business done by the packing industry has been greater than in April.

WALL ST. LOOKS TO WASHINGTON FOR GUIDANCE

Trading Is Heaviest in Three Years.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—More and more the stock market looks to Washington for guidance on its course. So closely are the day-to-day moves in the President's business recovery program watched by the speculative community indeed and so promptly and truly are they reflected by the waving tracer lines on the price chart that wondering tape followers often find themselves likening the performance to a Punch and Judy show, the strings whereof are being pulled by some authoritative hand on Capitol hill.

As a case in point, take yesterday's abbreviated session, which incidentally put an end to the "biggest" week the exchange has known in more than three years, with turnover for the five trading days—Tuesday was Decoration day—running to the almost incredible total of 28,249,310 shares.

Many Buying Orders.

The opening gong had found a heavy accumulation of overnight buying orders on hand awaiting execution and the outlook seemed to be for a vigorous uninterrupted continuation of the renewed "inflation" drive which had whirled values up in such dizzy fashion during the two preceding sessions. Some 260 assorted issues did spurt on to new highs for the year.

Then about the outset of the second hour a ticker carried a brief report to the effect that "the administration" was becoming deeply concerned over the rapidity with which share as well as commodity prices were rising and hinting that a White House warning against exorbitant optimism might be very shortly unless a halt were called.

Is Carefully Worded.

The dispatch was carefully worded and there was nothing to show just who had authorized it, but traders, reasoning no doubt that the time was ripe for caution anyway, did a flip flop en masse and plunged headlong to the selling side of the market. The result was the most severe reaction since March 21.

The twenty-five industrials used in computing THE TRIBUNE'S index took an "average" tumble of 4.05 points and the combined averages on fifty stocks dropped 2.46 from their previous closing levels. That the break was not greater than it was was due to the yeoman support thrown behind the leaders by large forces who have conservative firms and families

THE Northern Trust Company operates complete departments of Commercial and Personal Banking, Trust, Bond, Savings and Safe Deposit. In each of these departments there has been developed a similar, practical idea of service which seeks to maintain a close contact with the individual customer.

The newly completed changes in the Banking Department are a step in maintaining this idea.

Above the Second Floor there is a new Banking Mezzanine. The addition makes for a continuance of the effective type of banking relationship which has characterized this company since 1889. So also do the changes which now have added more public space and increased the service facilities in the Main Banking Room on the Second Floor.

In the Savings Department, recently enlarged, another step in maintaining The Northern Trust Company's tradition of personalized service is being taken. To be completed by July 1, the Savings Department alterations will make it still more satisfactory to save at this conservative bank.

Your business is invited. Any or all of the five departments solicit your inquiries. Present customers are invited to make more complete use of the company's facilities.

BRIGHT WINDOW CAMPAIGN HAS DECIDED GAIN

Movement Spreads to the Suburbs.

BY AL CHASE.

Mayor Kelly's endorsement of the Chicago Real Estate board's drive to dress up and light up Chicago's store windows during the World's Fair has brought prompt results, according to E. A. Holt, advertising manager of The Chicagoan, who is acting as clearing house for those who have vacant windows and those who have merchandise or exhibits to install.

MAYOR KELLY.

Every night, he reports, a few more empty and dark windows are filled and brightly lighted as owners gradually are realizing the detriment to their property by having gloomy stores confront the World's Fair street throngs.

Mayor Urges Action.

At the suggestion of J. Soule Waterfield, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board and chairman of its World's Fair committee, we again publish the mayor's proclamation issued on May 25th, which many property owners apparently failed to see. It follows:

"To property owners and store tenants: In order that Chicago may make a good showing to the millions of visitors from all parts of the world during A Century of Progress, I suggest that all vacant store windows in both the loop and outlying business sections be dressed up with either merchandise or exhibits of some sort.

"These windows, and also all windows of occupied stores, should be kept lighted up to at least 2 a. m. With the World's Fair open until late and crowds on the business streets during evening hours, Chicago should do all possible to make our thoroughfares attractive. Nothing will do more to bring this about than attractively filled and well lighted windows."

Meanwhile the drive for brighter windows has spread to the suburbs and an active campaign is being waged in leading communities to keep store windows lighted throughout the evening. In Joliet a drive was started some time ago by the World's Fair committee of the Kiwanis club and more than twenty empty windows have been filled and are being kept well lighted.

Don't Know There's a Fair.

During the last week many comments have been heard about the indifference of several loop store owners in keeping their windows lighted.

"Apparently some of your best known firms don't even know there's a World's Fair in town," said a visitor from a large eastern city. "At one prominent loop corner the other night at 9 o'clock I saw three dark stores, the fourth was a restaurant and was open and lighted, of course."

Mr. Holt told of what had been accomplished on Michigan avenue and in the loop. "We have plenty of material available from national advertisers as soon as we get the windows," he said. "Burton Holmes has available some very extraordinary displays.

Meet Some Indifference.

"We visited a number of owners of vacant stores in the loop and while they all knew of the drive to brighten the city's store windows, they have not made arrangements for displays of their tenants or wouldn't give us any decision at this time as to whether they'd make these available to us.

"Woolworth's already have filled a vacant window adjoining their Michigan avenue store. Wienhoeber's have taken part of the window at 30 North Michigan and installed a beautiful floral display. The owners said the other windows would be made available to their tenants and properly decorated and lighted within a few days.

"Jerrems has taken over a store window in the McCormick building and has filled it and will keep it lighted. The vacant window at 32 South Michigan avenue will be used for display."

TRADE, PRICES OF COMMODITIES CONTINUE GAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—For the second week in succession, commodities traded on exchanges here moved higher last week, scoring broad gains. All were steady. In general, however, the commodities were not so buoyant as securities. Trading was in good volume. Cash prices were also higher, with metals especially strong.

Silver futures went forward slowly but steadily in most of the week, successive gains sent the local spot price back above 36 cents an ounce for the first time in several weeks. The market closed at net gains of 40 to 90 points in moderately heavy trading.

May Production of Rayon Near Capacity Levels

Production of rayon near the end of May was near capacity levels, and opinion in the trade is to the effect that an increased demand for rayon may be expected during July for fall delivery, according to the Textile Organon, published by the Tubize Chatillon corporation.

WALL ST. LOOKS TO WASHINGTON FOR GUIDANCE

Stock Trading Is Heaviest in Three Years.

Added emphasis was given to the week-end turnabout by the manner in which the market had been capitalizing bullish rumors, supposedly of Washington origin, to climb from one price peak after another. Even the industrial recovery bill now pending in the senate, after passing the house, had been brought forward as a "constructive" market factor and there were those who would assure you that the fomentation of rising stock prices was one of the big aims of the measure.

Brokers so lately operating in the red were busy assuring all comers that the soaring prices were bringing great joy to those in high authority at the nation's capital, and since it is an American tradition of long standing that a government's popularity is determined very largely by whether the stock market is booming or sagging during its tenure of office it was not difficult to win converts to the idea of "Washington support" for the market.

Many traders no doubt are still speculating on the possibility that inflation is going very much further and that the market, having done so much on the measure already accomplished, has unlimited room for further progress ahead of it. Witness, for example, the case of Germany, where paper inflation in 1923 boosted average stock prices to six billion times those of 1922.

Find Real Gains.

Others finding more solid ground for advancement in the statistics of business improvement coming forward from day to day are inclined to think that further inflation may be unnecessary. Both classes of speculators, however, refuse to believe that much of a reaction is possible and are hanging enthusiastically on to the constructive side.

With political developments therefore straining the market's course to such an extent little attention is being paid to news reflecting on the welfare of any particular stock or group of stocks. Thus, the steady rise in steel output has provided no special emphasis to issues of corporations in this industry and the utilities group has been lagging a trifle behind the main procession in spite of the gradual increase in electrical power output. It is a speculative market and out and out, with dividends, real or prospective, cutting little figure in the immediate picture.

During the next week or so speculative attention will be diverted in some degree from Washington to London, where a conclave of governmental "best minds" will tackle the task of stabilizing the world's currencies.

National Tea.

INVESTORS' GUIDE: Please send me information on National Tea company.—B. J. W.

ANSWER: National Tea company was started 34 years ago with an original investment of $5,400. In 1921 the company was operating 261 stores. There followed a period of rapid expansion, which reached its peak in 1929, when 1,627 stores were in operation. With the advent of deflation the company followed the policy of weeding out units that proved unprofitable. On May 20, 1933, there were 1,343 outlets.

The bulk of them are in the Chicago district. Another group is in the Minneapolis territory, while the remainder are scattered through Indiana, Iowa, North Dakota, and South Dakota.

About one-third of sales are of the company's private brands.

Reflecting lower commodity prices sales for the 20 weeks to May 20, 1933, totaled $24,508,000, a 9.6 per cent decrease from sales of $26,931,000 for the corresponding 1932 period. Net profit for the 12 weeks to March 25, 1933, despite a 10.5 per cent decline in sales, was $340,000, or 51 cents per common share, against net of $629,000, or 20 cents per common share, for the first 12 weeks of 1932.

The improvement was due to elimination of many unprofitable units and to the effect of economies put into effect during 1932.

Sales for 1932 aggregated $65,657,000, against $76,658,000 for 1931 and $85,246,000 for 1930. Net income for 1932 totaled $899,000, or $1.30 per common share, against $716,000, or 99 cents per common share, for 1931. Net for 1930 equaled $1.71 per common share, against $3.89 in 1929.

At the close of 1932 current assets of $8,902,000 compared with current liabilities of $2,459,000. Cash assets alone totaled $1,966,000. Working capital was $6,443,000, against $6,748,000 the year before.

There are $3,720,000 of 5 per cent notes, due 1935. The company retired $250,000 of them in 1932. There are 14,997 shares of 5½ per cent $10 par preferred and 627,736 shares of no par common. The common pays 15 cents a quarter.

Kelvinator Corp.

INVESTORS' GUIDE: Will you please let me know who controls Frigidaire and Kelvinator companies? Have been informed unofficially that General Electric controls Frigidaire and General Motors controls Kelvinator.—S. M. J.

ANSWER: Kelvinator corporation is an independent concern. General Motors corporation controls Frigidaire corporation. General Electric company manufactures the General Electric refrigerator.

HOME LOAN BANK REDUCES FARM MORTGAGE LIST

1,181 Fewer Foreclosures During April.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—A decline in mortgage foreclosures has coincided with the spread of the home loan bank system.

Reports mode public by the federal home loan bank board today revealed that there were 1,181 fewer real estate mortgage foreclosures during April than during January in the 660 communities from which the board collects data. The board said this decrease was contrary to the ordinary seasonal tendency.

At the same time the board announced that the membership in the home loan bank system had increased to 1,189 and that the total authorized loans by the home loan banks had increased to more than 49 million dollars.

"Home financing institutions have undoubtedly been influenced to refrain from foreclosures through anticipation of the increased availability of funds by the extension of the home loan bank system as its membership increases and loans mount," William F. Stevenson, chairman of the board, explained.

Estimates Eligible Homes.

Chairman Stevenson estimated that 49,695,658 persons are "potential beneficiaries" of the home loan bank system, basing his estimate on the fact that there are 9,939,731 nonfarm homes in the country worth less than $20,000. All of these homes are eligible for loans from the system, he said.

The decline in foreclosures in the first four months of this year is contrary to the trend for the same period in previous years, according to the board. In 1932 there were 2,295 more foreclosures in April than in January, and in the predepression year of 1926 foreclosures increased in April over January by 627.

162 Lower Than March.

This year total foreclosures in April were 13,431, compared with 14,612 in January. The April total was 162 lower than that for March. The board's figures are from communities in all the states representing about 45 per cent of the total population. They include commercial and farm foreclosures as well as homes.

Cash advances made by the twelve home loan banks on the more than 40 million dollars' worth of authorized loans amount to $37,918,772, the board announced. Fifty-eight loans, involving almost a million and three-quarters dollars, were approved during the past week and 35 home financing institutions were admitted to membership in the loan system.

FARMER LOANS FOR 2 MONTHS TOTAL $1,308,448

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 4.—New loans to farmers' cooperatives from federal farm board funds totaling $2,672,536 were authorized in the two month period from Feb. 28 to April 30, 1933. This was announced today by Henry Morgenthau Jr., governor of the farm credit administration. The credit administration succeeded the farm board in the reorganization effected by President Roosevelt.

All of the loans authorized were not paid out, however, Mr. Morgenthau said, cooperatives being advanced $1,308,448 on the new commitments.

While these new advances were made, repayment of loans under old or new commitments slightly exceeded outlay from the revolving fund, so that on April 30 the total debt of cooperatives to the fund was $156,370,309, compared with a total debt on Feb. 28 of $157,236,323.

Public Accountants Find Improvement in Morale

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—The American Institute of Accountants, as a result of a nationwide survey sponsored by its council, reports gradual improvement in business conditions and in public morale generally. Substantial improvement is reported in St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco, Cincinnati, Tulsa, Dallas, New Orleans, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Boston.
